Aristotle Onassis Dies In Paris At 69

PARIS (AP) — Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis died in Paris today, the American Hospital announced. He was 69.

Onassis' wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, and his daughter Christina were in Paris, but neither the hospital nor his household was able to say if either was at his bedside when he died.

Onassis had been suffering for some time from mysthenesia gravis, a progressive weakening of the voluntary muscles.

While the disease was said to have been arrested, it was thought to have contributed to severe respiratory problems which at one point forced his doctors to put him in an oxygen tent.

Onassis entered the hospital on Feb. 6 and had his gall bladder removed three days later.

He was the Golden Greek with the Midas touch. Beginning with nothing as a refugee from Turkey, he amassed a fortune in the hundreds of millions of dollars. He built the largest private shipping fleet in the world, he had his own airline and sailed one of the world's most opulent yachts.

He didn't break the bank at Monte Carlo. He bought it.

It was in 1968 that Aristotle Socrates Onassis won as his wife the world's most eligible widow — Jacqueline Kennedy.

He was friend and host to the likes of Winston Churchill, Greta Garbo, Margot Fonteyn, Gina Lollobrigida, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco and the Kennedys, and for many years he was a special friend to Greek opera singer Maria Callas.

There seemed to be nothing he couldn't have. But fate deprived him of a male heir. In January 1973, Onassis' only son Alexander, 24, was fatally injured in the crash of a family plane. The death was known to have embittered Onassis, and he later offered a half-million-dollar reward for proof that the plane had been sabotaged.

Susan Hayward Is Dead At 55 Of Brain Tumor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Hayward, the flame-haired actress who played real-life, hardluck women in her most famous roles, has died of a brain tumor. She was 55.

The Academy Award-winning actress had lived more than two years with a brain tumor before the fatal seizure Friday at her Beverly Hills, Calif., home.

Miss Hayward's physician, Dr. Lee E. Siegel, said most people with such tumors die within months.

"There was no other case like it, nothing in the medical literature," Siegel said. "It was amazing to live that long with this type of lesion. She was one of the great fighters. I've never seen anything like it."

He said Miss Hayward had suffered many seizures but that the seizure Friday "was massive, which was fortunate because she was in a terminal state. It allowed her to go peacefully."

Nominated for an Academy Award five times, Miss Hayward won an Oscar for best actress in 1958 for "I Want To Live." It was the story of Barbara Graham, who died in the San Quentin gas chamber after being convicted of murder.

In 1952, Miss Hayward was nominated for an Academy Award for "With a Song in My Heart." She played real-life singer Jane Froman, who was crippled in an airplane crash.

Her role as alcoholic Lillian Roth in "I'll Cry Tomorrow" also won her an Academy Award nomination.

Other "best actress" nominations came from "Smash-Up" in 1947 and "My Foolish Heart"

Washington Paper Says She May Give Self Up

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A federal grand jury in San Francisco is preparing to reopen its inquiry into the yearold Patricia Hearst case amid reports that the FBI has shifted its search for the fugitive newspaper heiress to new areas, including the West Coast.

The Washington Star said today Miss Hearst "now is believed back in the San Francisco area, possibly to give herself up through Jack Scott."

Scott, a former college athletic director, reportedly has been sought for grand jury questioning about a farmhouse hideout supposedly used by Miss Hearst last fall.

The Star said it has learned that Scott has called friends to say he has retained a lawyer "to bargain with the FBI and make arrangements to come out into the open." The Star said one friend quoted Scott as saying "that the whole thing will be over soon enough."

The New York Times said today Scott had called the paper and implied he knew something of Miss Hearst's activities since she became a fugitive last year.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported today that, after leaving a South Canaan, Pa., farm hideout last fall, Miss Hearst and several companions traveled back to the West Coast in a van reportedly rented by Scott.

"The van was in Portland (Ore.) sometime in October. Police routinely turned it over to the local office of the rental agency, unaware of its importance," the paper said.

Reports this week that Miss Hearst and several associates hid out in a Pennsylvania farm house last fall triggered new sightings and possible fresh

Film House Raided!

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Police officers from three area departments last night raided the Berry theater here and arrested the theater's projectionist and alleged manager on charges they violated the village's anti-pornography ordinance, according to Donald Dick, village attorney.

Arrested by the Berrien Springs-Oronoko police department were Frank P. Griffin, 18, of Eau Claire, identified as the projectionist, and Elmer R. Danles, 36, no address given, identified as the manager.

Police also confiscated the film "Portrait" which was determined to be obscene by defination of village ordinance, Atty. Dick said.

Danles was also arrested on charges of violation of the controlled substance act for alleged possession of amphetamines and a small quantity of suspected marijuana, according to Atty. Dick.

State police from the Niles post and members of the Berrien county Metro crime unit participated in the 9:30 p.m. raid.

TARGET OF INQUIRY: The San Francisco Examiner released this picture Friday of Jack and Micki Scott in the garden of a San Francisco home in 1972. A source close to the Associated Press said Scott and his wife are being investigated by a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa. in the suddenly-revived Patricia Hearst case. Firemen Battle Buchanan Blaze

BUCHANAN — Buchanan firemen this morning were battling a fire at Poorman's Recreation, 708 East Front street, here.

The fire at the bowling alley and lounge was reported at 9:20 a.m., and witnesses at the scene reported the building was engulfed in dense smoke, but no flames could be seen.

Buchanan Fire Chief Neil Burks said all members of a childrens' bowling league had escaped from the building unharmed.

Miss Pat Lingle, an employe of the bowling alley, said 40 to 50 children were in the building when the fire broke out. She said some of the children spotted dense smoke pouring out of a men's restroom. A male employe attempted to enter the restroom with a fire extinguisher, but the heat was too intense, Miss Lingle said.

All three units of Buchanan city's fire department were at the scene, along with a unit from Bertrand township's fire department.

Cranky Computer Gives Welfare Clients A Raise

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has overpaid thousands of dollars in welfare benefits because a new computer fouled up in the Department of Social Services, department sources said Friday.

In addition, the welfare department recently mailed checks to doctors bearing the physicians' names but no money amounts, the sources said. It is conceivable that doctors with computer-style equipment could print any amount of money on the checks, the sources said.

For the first time in history, welfare checks were mailed late because of troubles with the computer, another department source said.

The snags come when the federal government is putting more of a welfare burden on Michigan because of the state's high payment error rate.

The federal government is withholding millions of dollars until Michigan corrects its mispayments, legislators say.

Gov. William Milliken and Dr. John Dempsey, Social Services Department director, have vowed to reduce welfare errors. During one week in mid-February, the giant welfare computer overpaid about $140,000 in benefits because a tape that subtracts certain deductions from the payments was not fed into the computer, the source said.

Dempsey acknowledged Friday that $140,000 was overpaid during one week of mid-February, but blamed it on human error. Dempsey said an employe failed to feed the computer the deduction tape.

Dempsey, who took over the social services department last month, has been out of town recently on state business and said he would look into reports of other problems. Dempsey, former state budget director, is known as a troubleshooter for Milliken.

Fatal Case Of Mistaken Identity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edgar Eves thought the man walking up the steps of his house was a policeman who had given him a traffic ticket last week, police said.

Officers said Eves, 25, fired a .22-caliber revolver. The man fell dead on the porch with several bullet wounds in his chest.

It was Eves' brother, Earl, 34.

Police said Edgar Eves told them Earl was apparently calling on him to pay off a $5 loan when he mistook him for a policeman. Edgar was booked for investigation of murder.

'Robin Hood' State Law Affects SJ School Taxes

In Michigan these days, those who build better communities usually are rewarded by having to pay higher school property taxes.

St. Joseph is a prime example.

Because of well-tended residential neighborhoods, because of thriving business and industry, because of one of the state's best school systems, the community is a superior place to live.

That statement is not just a figment of local pride. The belief is made fact by the high value hard-nosed assessors place on St. Joseph tax base. Per capita, the value is way above surrounding communities.

This year, for example, the St. Joseph school district's state equalized valuation per student is $32,380. Neighboring Benton Harbor's state equalized valuation per student is $18,476.

The basic state aid formula for school support evens things up considerably. This year, to get $975 under the aid formula, the St. Joseph school district taxpayers had to ante up $810. The state supplied only $165.

Benton Harbor taxpayers, on the other hand, had to pay $474 of the $975. The state gave the Benton Harbor district $501.

The "Robin Hood" philosophy of the state school aid law is one major reason why the St. Joseph board of education has had to go to the public with a request for a modest school tax increase.

The increase amounts to $1.60 per month, or $19.10 per year, for the average homeowner whose house has a state equalized valuation of $10,000.

Even granting that times are tough, the tax increase should be approved. Nineteen dollars a year is a small additional price to pay for what is one of the key ingredients in keeping St. Joseph a good place to live, a top-flight school system. Moreover, the rate of inflation being what it's been—10 to 12 per cent a year—it's a minor miracle that the school board hasn't asked for more than what amounts to a 4.8 per cent increase in property taxes.

Two millage propositions are coming before the voters next Tuesday.

Proposition I asks renewal for five years of 23.09 mills that expired with the 1974 tax collections.

Proposition II asks for an increase of 1.91 mills for one year.

We think it's in the best interest of not only students but the community-at-large, as well, to approve both propositions.

However, there is a question whether it was wise on the part of the school board to split the millage between the two propositions the way it did. Some observers, like one who wrote to the editor yesterday, think it smacks of subterfuge.

The reason is this. The 23.09 mills that expired in 1974 included 1.53 mills to pay off an operating deficit that has now been retired. So, if one is thinking of current operating millage only, the increase proposed for next year is more than appears at first glance. It's a sum: the 1.53 mills included in the 23.09 mills of Proposition I, plus the 1.91 mills of Proposition II. Or an increase in operating millage of 3.44 instead of 1.91.

A more straightforward approach to voters might have been to put 21.56 mills in Proposition I and 3.44 mills in Proposition II. The board obviously hoped voters wouldn't reject an extension of the 23.09 mills, and the schools would get at least part of desired extra revenue even if Proposition II failed. That's a forgivable stratagem. And basically, the board is telling the truth. The increase over current tax rate is 1.91 mills, or 4.8 per cent.

To keep present programs going—nothing new or extra, St. Joseph schools next year have to raise an additional $429,925. The 1.53 mills in Proposition I provides for $202,000; the 1.91 mills of Propsoition II, $254,000. The total of $456,000 would leave a $24,000 "cushion" for unforseen expenses—if tax collections are 100 per cent. That's a mighty small contingency account for a multi-million operation.

For voters to reject Proposition I is unthinkable; loss of that amount of revenue would close the schools next year.

To reject Proposition II wouldn't close the schools, but it would work a lot of mischief. Programs would have to be cut; labor negotiations probably would become most difficult.

In the long run, St. Joseph voters will get by cheaper, as well as better, by voting "yes" twice on Tuesday.

Nation's 'Bottom Line' Looking Awfully Red

When the Ford administration submitted its budget request for the next fiscal year, the major shocker was the bottom line. It showed an anticipated deficit of $50 billion, the second largest deficit on record if it materializes.

Worse, almost immediately Treasury Secretary Simon and other administration figures began hedging that the projected deficit could become larger if Congress upped spending or if expected revenues fell short. Over the years the law of averages had coincided with that view: Congress usually does manage to spend more money and revenue projections frequently are optimistic.

Whether the deficit remains as projected or increases, it means the government is going to be dipping heavily into deficit financing within the next 15 months. That, in turn, means the private lending market — just beginning to loosen lendings to private institutions and individuals — will find Uncle Sam draining off some of its resources.

What that will do to industries like housing which depend upon lending institutions and the availability of credit for their basic substance should be apparent. An indebtedness of that magnitude will have its effect on many segments of the economy.

It used to be a favorite tenet of liberal economists that the national debt was meaningless "because we owe it to ourselves." Just as a private borrower can get himself head over heels into trouble by extending himself too far, the federal government is proving itself a master of the art.

VAN BUREN SHERIFF CRITICIZED: HE REPLIES

Editor,

I have some questions that I would like to ask and have hope that your paper can get the answers.

About three weeks ago, one of the Van Buren County Sheriff's Department cars was involved in an accident and in the paper it said that one of the deputies in the auto was Deputy Bryan Stump. What I would like to know is when did he go to police school, and will the county pay his hospitalization and his legal expense in the suit that is sure to follow this accident?

My reason for asking is because the Van Buren Sheriff's Department deputies are Teamsters and at the time the union was vote in, the son of the Sheriff was not a member of the department. After the union was vote in the Sheriff laid off several deputies these men are to be called back before anyone else. Only if they turn down the job, can any new members be hired.

If the Sheriff's son is a deputy, the county, the commissioners, and the Sheriff are open to law suits by all former deputies and the union.

If the son of the Sheriff is not a deputy, what was he doing in the department car, and why should the county be liable for him or his hospital or legal expenses?

Also, I would like to know who checks the Sherriff's Department relative to the way it lives up to the union contract, who checks the Sheriff relative to monies paid for food for prisoners, and who questions the pay vouchers that are submitted? If these things are not checked, why?

I thank you in advance for your aid and your answers.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In response to letter writer James E. McCaw, Sheriff Richard Stump said that his son Bryan is a sworn-in marine enforcement and sheriff's posse deputy, and that he is paid only for those duties. He said that Bryan is a second semester student at Kalamazoo Valley Community college, working toward an associate degree in law enforcement.

Sheriff Stump said full coverage is carried on all county owned cars at all times and a decision as to who will pay Bryan's hospitalization will be up to the county's insurance carrier under the state no-fault law. Since Bryan was not the operator of the vehicle, he

Two anniversaries are being observed at Rimes & Hildebrand, Inc., St. Joseph, but Harry L. Rimes, a merchant 50 years, would rather talk about the program the store is planning for its diamond jubilee.

Hildebrand opened the doors to a store 22 feet wide and 80 feet deep on March 15, 1898. That makes today the store's 67th anniversary but it failed to excite Harry Rimes as much as the prospect of what they will be doing eight years from now when the store reaches the three-quarter century mark. The original Rimes & Hildebrand store was in part of the space now occupied by Modern Furniture. The present store at State and Broad St. was opened in 1907. The two Rimes, father and son, Don, recently purchased the stock interest in the store of Eugene J. O'Toole, Sr., and his son Eugene. Operation of the store will be under the direction of Donald Rimes. He serves as president of Rimes & Hildebrand.

Benton Harbor is going to have an $80,000 Naval armory and not one costing $55,000. This was the word which former State Representative George Barnard, of this city, bought back from Lansing today. The House yesterday favorably reported out the Naval appropriation bill and it carried an additional $25,000 for the local armory.

Navigation for the year 1925 will open between Benton Harbor and Chicago next Wednesday night, March 18, H.D. Arnold ot the Goodrich Transit lines announced today.

Lowering of the lake level and the formation of an immense sand bar right across the mouth of the harbor has caused a serious menace to navigation at the St. Joseph port, said Capt. Samuel Carlson today. He has just commenced his seventh season at the United States Coast Guard Station in St. Joseph.

— 75 Years Ago —

A tremendous excitement was caused today in St. Joseph by a report that a Chicago man, representing a half million dollars, had tried to purchase the Hotel Whitcomb property and the block on ship street owned by Capt. Robert Ricaby.

It is said that a fine offer was made to Mr. Ricaby but it was refused by him. Any ammount of denials are on hand today but the fact remains that the Ricaby property was in contemplation of purchase, and it is said the would be purchasers intended to erect a $250,000 block on the site. Mr. J.H. Graham introduced the capitalist in this city, and his efforts should be seconded by our citizens.

Vietnam Vital To United States

WASHINGTON — The United States does have some gut issues in Vietnam. The offshore waters reportedly have major reserves of oil. The South, at peace, has food to spare for export. Both are crucial in the free world. The South Vietnamese are an intelligent, hardworking people capable of making important contributions, especially with the educational resources this country has pumped into that small land.

But Vietnam is important to the United States for a far different reason. We have, consistently, whether in Europe, the Middle East or Asia, attempted to insure that no country take over another by force. We fought to prevent Hitler's invasion of Russia, and his attempts on England. We halted Tojo's invasion of China and Indochina. We blocked Britain, France and Israel when they united to invade Egypt during the Suez Canal crisis.

For that same principle, many Americans want to make certain Israel does not go under or that it permanently retain parts of Egypt, Syria and Jordan. It is not that this tiny country is of strategic importance to the United States. Our economic interests obviously are much more closedly tied with Arab lands, where we also have close historical ties. But for reasons outlined above, it is in our interest to work for the military security of both Israel and the Arab nations, even those we regard as unfriendly. Otherwise we live in a jungle.

Vietnam, as a principle, has that same importance.

We do not argue with such vehemence against assistance to Israel even though it may, in the end, and as a result of the Arab jack-up of oil prices, cost this nation more in dollars than the Vietnam war. And it will entail many years of suffering for the poorer families of this country.

No one knows how to prevent nations from invading other countries, or know for sure what effects conquering has on neighbors and the rest of the world. But it woud seem logical tosume that if invasions did not pay off, there would be fewer attempts and therefore, a more peaceful world.

We hire police to protect the homes of our neighbors on the theory this protects our own as well. Men will argue logically that we cannot be the policemen of the world. But in a world where there are no police, do we fold our arms and look the other way? Does anyone believe we are strong enough to be immune to what happens on other continents? The oil embargo and price hikes have shown us we are not.

The oil cartel will fall apart some day. But we shall not be independent, nevertheless. We shall not in our lifetime be self-sufficient in energy — or in a host of essential resources.

This is not to argue fo all the arms President Ford is asking for Vietnam and Cambodia. It is difficult, in fact, to know how effective our aid is. Rather, it is to say we have a continuing important national interest in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand.

My Vietnamese sources say that more important than the amount of money sent them is a continuing assurance this country will not let them down. Their belief in us is necessary if they are to to give up hope. In that regard, I am told, $50 million may be as important as $300 million.

My own feeling is that we are approaching this problem from the wrong end. The need is not arms for the South but rather the necessity of reducing munitions sent to North Vietnam by Russia and China. If supplies to both Hanoi and Saigon could be cut to a trickle; then we cold say to the South Vietnamese, in all honesty, "Handle your own affairs."

Viet Realities Still Unchanged

Political Washington is a strangely insulated place, reminiscent in some ways of the artificial environment of 18th-century Versailles, but the group of Congressmen and Congresswomen who left the Washington cocoon and visited Vietnam seem to have faced at least some of the realities of the situation.

Back inside the insulated world of political Washington, it is simply taken for granted that no American stake exists or ever existed in South Vietnam. Years of anti-war propaganda, sheer boredom, and the anti-war tilt of the major media have had their effect. To think otherwise about the war has become an eccentricity, a peculiar breach of manners, like appearing at Marie Antionette's Versailles with your dress wig on backwards, or stumbling in a minuet.

When Senator Henry Jackson, a long-time hawk, recently swiched and came out against further aid to beleaguered South Vietnam, cynics put this down to his Presidential ambitions and his tactical need to assuage the Left. It was rather, I think, the effect of the pervasive anti-Vietnam atmosphere in political Washington. Jackson did not want to sound like an eccentric boob; he did not want to appear with his wig on backwards.

Out in the real world, as the traveling Congressional contingent found, things look rather different. The Saigon encounter, for example, between the visitors and Lt. Col. Nguyen Duc Bao must have been an eye-opener. A stony-faced and opaque Communist functionary, the colonel responded to any and all questions with party-line boilerplate — "bogwash," as Senator Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma told him to his face. Little doubt could have remained among the Americans about the intentions of the colonel's side toward the still un-Communized South.

The erroneous legend has it that Marie Antionette, informed that the French peasants lacked bread, replied, "Let them eat cake." A smiliar spirit of unreality informs the suggestion, commonplace in political Washington, that the South Vietnamese ought to reach a "political solution" with Colonel Nguyen Duc Bao and his friends.

The visiting Congressional delegates also had to face the manifest evidence of South Veitnamese determination not to be Communized by the North, the once-despited ARVN troops fighting desperately and taking high casualties. Back in the political cocoon of Washington, these realities scarely penetrate. It's a little hard to ignore them when you are on the scene, however, and out in the reeal world several members of the delegation announced that what they had seen in Vietnam had caused them to decide to support the supplemental Vietnam aid requested by the Ford Administration.

Boring as the idea may seem to the courtiers and assorted functionaries in political Washington, the strategic realities in Vietnam remain unchanged.

Mormons Move To Save Church

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon church leaders, under pressure from preservationists, have announced plans to save the pioneer-era Bountiful Tabernacle instead of replacing it with a modern structure.

The announcement came Friday, 112th birthday of the white stucco meetinghouse with a five-spired wooden tower. The oldest church in Utah still used by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), it was dedicated March 14, 1863 by Brigham Young, an early church leader who led adherents when they emigrated west.

'Robin Hood' State Law Affects SJ School Taxes

In Michigan these days, those who build better communities usually are rewarded by having to pay higher school property taxes.

St. Joseph is a prime example.

Because of well-tended residential neighborhoods, because of thriving business and industry, because of one of the state's best school systems, the community is a superior place to live.

That statement is not just a figment of local pride. The belief is made fact by the high value hard-nosed assessors place on St. Joseph tax base. Per capita, the value is way above surrounding communities.

This year, for example, the St. Joseph school district's state equalized valuation per student is $32,380. Neighboring Benton Harbor's state equalized valuation per student is $18,476.

The basic state aid formula for school support evens things up considerably. This year, to get $975 under the aid formula, the St. Joseph school district taxpayers had to ante up $810. The state supplied only $165.

Benton Harbor taxpayers, on the other hand, had to pay $474 of the $975. The state gave the Benton Harbor district $501.

The "Robin Hood" philosophy of the state school aid law is one major reason why the St. Joseph board of education has had to go to the public with a request for a modest school tax increase.

The increase amounts to $1.60 per month, or $19.10 per year, for the average homeowner whose house has a state equalized valuation of $10,000.

Even granting that times are tough, the tax increase should be approved. Nineteen dollars a year is a small additional price to pay for what is one of the key ingredients in keeping St. Joseph a good place to live, a top-flight school system. Moreover, the rate of inflation being what it's been—10 to 12 per cent a year—it's a minor miracle that the school board hasn't asked for more than what amounts to a 4.8 per cent increase in property taxes.

Two millage propositions are coming before the voters next Tuesday.

Proposition I asks renewal for five years of 23.09 mills that expired with the 1974 tax collections.

Proposition II asks for an increase of 1.91 mills for one year.

We think it's in the best interest of not only students but the community-at-large, as well, to approve both propositions.

However, there is a question whether it was wise on the part of the school board to split the millage between the two propositions the way it did. Some observers, like one who wrote to the editor yesterday, think it smacks of subterfuge.

The reason is this. The 23.09 mills that expired in 1974 included 1.53 mills to pay off an operating deficit that has now been retired. So, if one is thinking of current operating millage only, the increase proposed for next year is more than appears at first glance. It's a sum: the 1.53 mills included in the 23.09 mills of Proposition I, plus the 1.91 mills of Proposition II. Or an increase in operating millage of 3.44 instead of 1.91.

A more straightforward approach to voters might have been to put 21.56 mills in Proposition I and 3.44 mills in Proposition II. The board obviously hoped voters wouldn't reject an extension of the 23.09 mills, and the schools would get at least part of desired extra revenue even if Proposition II failed. That's a forgivable stratagem. And basically, the board is telling the truth. The increase over current tax rate is 1.91 mills, or 4.8 per cent.

To keep present programs going—nothing new or extra, St. Joseph schools next year have to raise an additional $429,925. The 1.53 mills in Proposition I provides for $202,000; the 1.91 mills of Propsoition II, $254,000. The total of $456,000 would leave a $24,000 "cushion" for unforseen expenses—if tax collections are 100 per cent. That's a mighty small contingency account for a multi-million operation.

For voters to reject Proposition I is unthinkable; loss of that amount of revenue would close the schools next year.

To reject Proposition II wouldn't close the schools, but it would work a lot of mischief. Programs would have to be cut; labor negotiations probably would become most difficult.

In the long run, St. Joseph voters will get by cheaper, as well as better, by voting "yes" twice on Tuesday.

Nation's 'Bottom Line' Looking Awfully Red

When the Ford administration submitted its budget request for the next fiscal year, the major shocker was the bottom line. It showed an anticipated deficit of $50 billion, the second largest deficit on record if it materializes.

Worse, almost immediately Treasury Secretary Simon and other administration figures began hedging that the projected deficit could become larger if Congress upped spending or if expected revenues fell short. Over the years the law of averages had coincided with that view: Congress usually does manage to spend more money and revenue projections frepuently are optimistic.

Whether the deficit remains as projected or increases, it means the government is going to be dipping heavily into deficit financing within the next 15 months. That, in turn, means the private lending market — just beginning to loosen lendings to private institutions and individuals — will find Uncle Sam draining off some of its resources.

What that will do to industries like housing which depend upon lending institutions and the availability of credit for their basic substance should be apparent. An indebtedness of that magnitude will have its effect on many segments of the economy.

It used to be a favorite tenet of liberal economists that the national debt was meaningless "because we owe it to ourselves." Just as a private borrower can get himself head over heels into trouble by extending himself too far, the federal government is proving itself a master of the art.

SJ Votes Tuesday On 2 School Proposals

St. Joseph school district voters go to the polls next Tuesday to ballot on two operating tax proposals totaling 25 mills.

Proposal No. 1 for five years is for 23.09 mills which is renewal of taxes that expired with the 1974 levy.

Proposal No. 2 for one year is for 1.91 mills, a tax increase to provide for inflationary costs.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the regular four school district precincts — Milton junior (Forres avenue entrance); St. Joseph senior high (Lakeview avenue entrance); North Lincoln school; and Brown school.

Voting will be by machine.

If the two proposals are approved the total operating levy would be 33.377 mills. This includes 8.377 mills the district gets from the county tax allocation board.

The board of education and the citizens advisory council have recommended a "yes" vote on both propositions.

Proposal No. 1 which matches total expired extra operating millage would provide the basic funds to operate the school system. Proposal No. 2 which would raise approximately $252,000 has been described as providing the funds necessary to continue the present educational program by covering inflationary costs.

Ray Dumke, president of the board of education, said the top concern of the board and citizens advisory council to maintain present programs.

He explained the board had considered an alternative of asking for renewal of 21.56 mills only. This would represent deduction of 1.53 mills that were levied in 1974 to eliminate a deficit.

The 1.53 mills were intended as a one-time tax. But as soon as the deficit had been elminated, the district was hit with unexpected financial reversals — a cut in state aid ordered by the governor and payments for unemployment compensation, which will cost the district at least $370,000.

Dumke said sharply rising costs have forced school districts throughout the state to ask for more millage or cut programs. In St. Joseph failure of Proposal 2 would mean a cut of about $250,000 in educational programs and services.

Dumke said failure of Proposal 2 could mean cutbacks in these areas:

Interscholastic athletics which were expanded recently to include girls; music and art; physical education; higher pupil-teacher ratios from kindergarten through high school.

Dumke also warned of elmination of busing for some students who live within 1½ miles of school, and at the same time, busing for some elementary students who walk to neighborhood schools. The latter busing could be necessary to cut costs by leveling class loads throughout the district.

The election comes at a time when St. Joseph township is adjusting property valuations to comply with a state law that property must be assessed at 50 per cent of market value.

Dennis Percy, business manager of St. Joseph schools, said in past years taxes have been levied on property values higher than the assessments shown on tax billings. An equalization factor has been used which resulted in tax rates or levies being multiplied against an assessment higher than shown on the tax notice.

In 1974, the equalization factor was 1.196 per cent, which meant that a home locally assessed at $10,000 paid taxes on an equalized valuation of $11,960.

St. Joseph township has received instructions from the state to raise assessed valuations by an average of 26 per cent. This means the owner of the $10,000 home mentioned above gets a notice his assessed valuation has been raised $2,600. But the net increase for tax purposes is only $640 because he previously paid on an equalized valuation of $11,960.

Boundary Commission Votes 4-1 Approval To Start Incorporation Process

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

LANSING — The State Boundary commission voted 4 to 1 Friday for the incorporation of Fairplain — a process that could take more than two years and four elections.

James Hyde, executive secretary to the commission, said the commission's action will become effective sometime in April when findings are released.

The effective date will start a timetable that could lead to filing of petitions and a vote by the people of Fairplain to determine it they want to become a city, Hyde said.

A vote for city status will mean another election for a Fairplain charter commission to draft a city charter. A "no" vote would override the boundary commission and defeat incorporation, Hyde explained.

If Fairplain people do not petition for a vote on the isssue of incorporation, then the boundary commission will order an election for a Fairplain charter commission.

The charter commission has two years and two attempts to come up with a charter that wins voter approval. If charter elections fail, so does incorporation, according to Hyde.

The City of Fairplain would be composed of the former Fairplain school district. Incorporation does not change school district boundaries, but it would be the most significant governmental realignment in the Twin City area since Fairplain and other districts consolidated with Benton Harbor schools in 1965.

Fairplain is in western Benton township and eastern St. Joseph township. Officials of the townships have opposed incorporation.

The City of Fairplain would cover a 4.1 square-mile area with a population of about 7,300. It is immediately south of Benton Harbor and will make the Twin Cities of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph "Tri-Cities."

Campaign for home rule in Fairplain started two years ago by the Committee for the City of Fairplain which expressed dissatisfaction with township governments and a desire for Fairplain people to control their own destiny.

The committee filed petitions for incorporation in February, 1973, but the boundary commission ruled there were insufficient signatures. Eight months later the committee came back with some 2,000 signatures, about 500 over the minimum.

The last petition was ruled legal and a public hearing was held in two sessions in 1974.

In yesterday's vote by the boundary commission, Chairman David Calhoun, Huntington Woods, cast the only vote against incorporation, Hyde reported. Voting for it were Oscar Weidler, Royalton township, Berrien county; Max Petzke, II, City of St. Joseph; Al VanderLaan, Caledonia, and Irving Rozian, Plymouth.

Hyde listed these steps before the City of Fairplain becomes a legal entity:

1. The boundary commission will issue its findings sometime in April, making yesterday's vote official. This starts a 45-day period in which petitions can be filed by citizens of Fairplain asking for an election on the question of incorporation.

2. Petitioners must be at least 5 per cent of the registered voters of Fairplain. If the petitions are in order, the boundary commission will order an election in which only Fairplain people may vote.

3. Voter approval of incorporation means the boundary commission would order another election for a charter commission. A "no" vote of the people defeats incorporation.

4. If petitions for an election are not filed within 45 days, the boundary commission orders election of a charter commission of nine members, elected at-large.

5. The charter commission has two years to come up with a charter acceptable to the voters. Two charters may be submitted within two years. If the charters fail, so does it incorporation.

Witness Says He Loaned Gun To Accused Killer

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON

A material witness in the first degree murder trial of George Lacy, accused of murdering Hagar township store owner John Govatos on Jan. 4, testified yesterday he loaned Lacy and another man a revolver before the robbery-murder and received money from them afterwards.

Charles Howard, 22, 692 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, also testified that he accompanied Lacy, 22, 524 Whitcomb court, Benton Harbor, and a third man to the store earlier in the evening in a planned armed robbery called off because too many customers were in the store at the time.

Howard's testimony came during the fourth day of a jury trial which is set to resume Tuesday in the St. Joseph courtroom of Berrien Circuit Judge Julian Hughes.

Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka has called 28 witnesses thus far. None has placed Lacy or co-defendant Donnie Marshall, 21, 169 Bellview, Benton Harbor, at the store at the time of the murder.

Howard told the jury and some 40 spectators in court yesterday that he and two co-defendants in the case went to Govatos' Oasis party store in the early evening hours with the intent to commit an armed robbery.

But, said Howard, Lacy and Marshall returned to a car in which he was waiting. Lacy told him: "We're going to have to wait, there's too many people in there," Howard testified.

Before Howard's testimony, another prosecution witness, John Wier, an employe of the Oasis party store in Hagar township, identified Lacy as one of two black men inside the store at about 8:20 p.m.

He told the court the two stayed inside the store for about 25 minutes, then left and got into a car in the parking lot.

Howard testified he was the driver of a car parked in the Oasis parking lot, and said Lacy had told him: "All I want you to do is stay in the car," and later mentioned the word "getaway."

Under questioning from Smietanka, Howard, talking softly much of the time, gave a description of events during the weekend of Jan. 4 and 5.

According to Howard's testimony:

Howard owned a .38 caliber chrome-plated revolver, which he kept with him while at the Ponderosa bar in Benton township because the bar's owner, a friend of Howard, was afraid the tavern was going to be robbed.

He was playing pool at the bar during the afternoon and early evening of Jan. 4 when Lacy, whom he had known for about a year, approached and asked: "Can I borrow your heat (gun)?"

He followed Lacy out of the bar, and saw Lacy get into a taxi with Marshall. He followed them in his car to a housing project and stopped. "Lacy took a sawed-off gun (rifle) . . . and put it in my trunk."

Lacy then demanded: "Give me your piece," and Howard handed him the fully-loaded revolver.

Smietanka: "Did you know what was going to happen?"

Howard: "I had kind of an idea."

Howard continued:

All three men got into his car and "went to the Oasis." They drove by, turned around, and pulled into the lot. Lacy and Marshall stayed inside for a time, and then returned. At this point Lacy told him "We're going to have to wait, there's too many people."

Howard said he didn't care what they (Lacy and Marshall) did, he didn't want any part of it. Lacy told him he (Howard) "would be rich."

He returned them to the parked cab at the project and went back to the Ponderosa. He later went to the taxi office and tried to have the dispatcher call Lacy so he "could talk." "But he (Lacy) didn't show up."

He went back to the Ponderosa and "was upset because I couldn't get my gun back." He was also worried, "hopin' these guys wouldn't do nothing."

Sometime after midnight, Marshall found him (Howard), and told him Lacy wanted to see him. He got in a cab with Marshall and went to another tavern, where he again met Lacy.

"I told you you should have been with us," Lacy told him, and told him he (Lacy) would give him some money "tomorrow." Howard left the two again, went home, and put the sawed-off rifle in his apartment closet.

On Sunday, Jan. 5, Howard went to the Ponderosa about 2 p.m., and Lacy came in. "I told you you should have been with us, I told you you'd regret it," Lacy said.

Lacy told him that all three "were going to do some shop-

SJ Band Has To Reject South Bend March Offer

The St. Joseph high school band is flattered, but regrets it must turn down an invitation to play at President Ford's visit Monday to South Bend.

Director Robert Brown said the invitation was extended at 2 p.m. Friday and there just wasn't time to put everything together.

The invitation was for a marching band, and the Bears' marching band of 148 hasn't been together since November, said Brown.

"If they had asked for a symphonic band, we might have made it. But we still feel very honored to have been invited," Brown declared.

He said he understood the St. Joseph band was to be one of three high school bands to greet Ford, the other two bands being from South Bend. The invitation to St. Joseph was extended by Sue Porter of South Bend Clay high school, Brown said.

He noted there also was a transportation problem. The band would have to leave at 7:45 a.m., peak of the school bus run hours. "But we probably could have overcome that. You just can't put a marching band together on such short notice."

BHHS Symphonic Band In 46th Concert Wednesday

The Benton Harbor high school symphonic band will present its 46th annual concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the high school gym. The selections the band is scheduled to play include "America," by Samuel Augustus Ward; "Overture for Band," Felix Mendelssohn; "Suite of Old American Dances," Robert Russell Bennett; "Chorale and Shaker Dance," John Zdechlik; "American Overture for Band," Joseph Willcox Jenkins, and "Stars and Stripes Forever," John Philip Sousa.

Admission to the concert will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for students. Tickets can be purchased from any symphony band member or at the gym door.

Child Care Center Gets New Director

Nora Jefferson, 212 Collins avenue, Benton township, has been hired as executive director of the Community Parents Child Care center in Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Eula McKee, chairwoman of the center's board of directors, said the new director will assume her duties Monday.

Mrs. Jefferson, a counselor with the Neighborhood Youth Corps and a charter member of the child care center board, will resign these positions in order to assume her new post, Mrs. McKee said.

Mrs. Jefferson also is chairman of Berrien County Action, Inc., a volunteer position.

The new director will replace Mrs. Joann Watson, who resigned recently. Mrs. Watson had been named acting director of the center Sept. 25, 1974.

SJ Votes Tuesday On 2 School Proposals

St. Joseph school district voters go to the polls next Tuesday to ballot on two operating tax proposals totaling 25 mills.

Proposal No. 1 for five years is for 23.09 mills which is renewal of taxes that expired with the 1974 levy.

Proposal No. 2 for one year is for 1.91 mills, a tax increase to provide for inflationary costs.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the regular four school district precincts — Milton junior (Forres avenue entrance); St. Joseph senior high (Lakeview avenue entrance); North Lincoln school; and Brown school.

Voting will be by machine.

If the two proposals are approved the total operating levy would be 33.377 mills. This includes 8.377 mills the district gets from the county tax allocation board.

The board of education and the citizens advisory council have recommended a "yes" vote on both propositions.

Proposal No. 1 which matches total expired extra operating millage would provide the basic funds to operate the school system. Proposal No. 2 which would raise approximately $252,000 has been described as providing the funds necessary to continue the present educational program by covering inflationary costs.

Ray Dumke, president of the board of education, said the top concern of the board and citizens advisory council to maintain present programs.

He explained the board had considered an alternative of asking for renewal of 21.56 mills only. This would represent deduction of 1.53 mills that were levied in 1974 to eliminate a deficit.

The 1.53 mills were intended as a one-time tax. But as soon as the deficit had been elminated, the district was hit with unexpected financial reversals — a cut in state aid ordered by the governor and payments for unemployment compensation. which will cost the district at least $$70,000.

Dumke said sharply rising costs have forced school districts throughout the state to ask for more millage or cut programs. In St. Joseph failure of Proposal 2 would mean a cut of about $250,000 in educational programs and services.

Dumke said failure of Proposal 2 could mean cutbacks in these areas:

Interscholastic athletics which were expanded recently to include girls; music and art; physical education; higher pupil-teacher ratios from kindergarten through high school.

Dumke also warned of elmination of busing for some students who live within 1½ miles of school, and at the same time, busing for some elementary students who walk to neighborhood schools. The latter busing could be necessary to cut costs by leveling class loads throughout the district.

DISCIPLINE HEART OF SALVATION ARMY

Need Total Commitment

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In most major Christian denominations, it's possible for a member to attend services rarely, give nothing and do little and still retain recognized membership status. But not in the Salvation Army.

"We want total commitment," says the organization's new national commander, Commissioner William E. Chamberlain. "Those who find they can't live up to it leave the ranks."

Installed recently as the spiritually-based Army's top officer in this country, Chamberlain points out that the word, "discipline," stems from the word, "disciple," and he adds:

"You can't be a disciple without discipline. It's the heart and root of the Salvation Army. Discipline is what started the Army, what has kept it going, and is the secret of its usefulness to God."

That quality, however, has become sorely lacking in modern times, says Chamberlain, 65, a broad-shouldered, fivefoot-eleven man of erect bearing and decisive manner.

He said in an interview that permissiveness and vagueness about responsibility have made "terrible inroads," affecting nearly every strata of society with false ideas of freedom and uncertainty about duty or purpose.

"Discipline is what makes service to others possible," he said. "It's not a yoke around the neck, but gives direction and value to life. It's a vital part of Christian witness, and something the world greatly needs today — to be under the discipline of God's love."

It's also a characteristic that the Salvation Army consistently displays in an otherwise often slack religious environment, in which few, if any, other groups live so sparely themselves and give so much.

Although the Army dispenses huge quantities of aid in nearly every hard-hit region of the world, and runs 1,400 centers for the down-and-out in this country, plus 250 foster homes, its own officers get by on bare necessities.

Their allowances average only $80 weekly plus housing, and they're on the job full-time, with no limit on hours.

"We don't feel handicapped — we feel privileged to serve," Chamberlain said. "Of course, you've got to be very thrifty, but your hours are so few, you don't have time for entertainment. It's an in-house sort of life.

"Some may think it's too rugged, but it's the kind of dedication that gives purpose to life. It's what people need and what many are looking for."

He said a "whole new element" of Americans, particularly among the younger generation and with extensive, varied educational backgrounds, "have seen the kind of work we do among less privileged people and they want to get involved.

"We symbolize something to them," he said. "We symbolize the practical carrying out of the ideal of serving those in need, and this is something more and more young people want to participate in — the joy of service."

Under the Army's system, a new member is called a recruit, and through regular participation, becomes a soldier, both classifications resembling lay membership in churches.

Like clergy in the churches, officers must complete two years of cadet training (equalling at least three years of seminary and field work, since only two weeks yearly vacation is given), and are commissioned lieutenants.

The Army now includes 368,000 soldiers in this country and 5,200 full-time officers. Worldwide membership is 2 million soldiers and 25,900 officers.

Commissioner Chamberlain, before becoming the top U.S. officer, commanded the southern territory, with headquarters in Atlanta, one of the four U.S. territories into which the Army is organized.

"I believe we're entering a new era of identification with spiritual realities," he said. "More young people are identifying with Christian service than the church roles reveal. We're finding a new segment of society that wants to use its expertise in ways not tried in times past, to venture into new areas of service."

Observing 85th Birthday Sunday

Mrs. Nellie Halby, 5976 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, will celebrate her 85th birthday Sunday, March 16, at a dinner party at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Hosting the event will be Miss Michelle Kchel, of Stevensville, grandniece of Mrs. Halby's; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Durojczyk, Calumet City, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William MacKenzie, Chicago, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. William Hauenstein, Lansing.

Mrs. Halby was born March 16, 1890, in Poland, and came to the United States at the age of 16. She and her husband, the late Carl Halby, came to Stevensville 30 years ago and shortly afterwards opened Mrs. Halby's Jam and Jelly Kitchen in Stevensville, which Mrs. Halby still owns and operates.

She has had many famous customers during the years, including the late stage and screen star Lionel Barrymore. She has received letters requesting her jams and praising them from such people as former President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, Mrs. Hannah M. Nixon, the former president's mother, and Pope Paul VI. For nearly 25 years Mrs. Halby supplied Marshall Fields in Chicago with jams.

Gardening Programs

Tuesday At Fernwood

Fernwood Chapter of the Indoor Light Gardening Society of America will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 18, at the Fernwood office building.

All interested persons are invited.

Officers of the chapter include James Fenner, Niles, president; Paul Jedele, Niles, vice president; Mrs. Allen Stevens, Edwardsburg, secretary, and Mrs. Helen Dunlap, Niles, treasurer.

Wednesday Forum

A Home Gardening Forum, sponsored by the Tri-County Women's Political Caucus, will be held Wednesday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA, St. Joseph.

The public is invited.

The program will feature a slide presentation and discussion on money-saving vegetable gardening by Jim Neibauer, Berrien county Cooperative Extension agent.

Four-Part Legal Series Planned For Women

A four-session series on legal affairs, and planned particularly for women, will be held at the Sodus township library, according to Mrs. Russell Handy, chairman of the library board.

Conducting the sessions will be Mrs. Harry Laity of Benton Harbor.

The session will be from 9:30 a.m. until 11 a.m. on March 20 and 27 and April 3 and 10, Mrs. Handy said.

Topics include: Lifestyle and budget; Ease, economy and elegance; Estate planning; and They lived happily ever after.

All women of the area are welcome to attend, Mrs. Handy said. There is a $1 fee per person per session, she said.

Bible Available On Cassette

A harried businessman on his way to an important conference, a homemaker struggling with her housework, a family taking small children on a long car trip have one opportunity in common — a chance to listen to the Bible.

The catchword is "listen," not "read."

Because "The Living New Testament" is now available in stereo cassette form.

And since it is, the men, women and children who haunt the pages of religious history have come alive for today's readers.

The shepherds minding their flocks on the Judean hillsides are not the only ones to hear the angels sing of Jesus' birth. Wily King Herod questions more than the wise men about the newborn king and the devious pharasees demanding answers of Jesus speak also to today's listeners.

The counsel of Paul is available for those who listen as he describes the Way for the people of the Way.

"I took those tapes to my office the day they arrived," said the businessman earnestly. "Before I go to important conferences I make it a point to listen for about 30 minutes to portions of Paul's letters or from one of the Gospels. They give me the spiritual insight to make the correct decisions."

"We've also been delightfully surpised that children have so readily adopted the cassettes," said Dr. Kenneth Taylor, paraphraser of "The Living Bible."

"Children seem fascinated by the drama, especially if they are acquainted with the scripture at all. And we've had many parents tell us that their children won't get in a car for any kind of trip without having the cassettes and player with them. They nudge each other and say, 'listen to the rooster crow,' or 'listen to the music.'"

Another parent suggested the tapes are particularly appropriate for family devotions. "That way you have a dramatic program that both entertains and inspires," she said.

The tapes also are particularly fine for the elderly who can not read for any length of time but still would like to listen to the Bible being read.

This appealing new way to get acquainted with the Bible through listening rather than reading is the result of months of hard work involving at least 20 professional actors. Some of them, using different voices, played numerous roles in taping the script.

"The Living New Testament" in cassettes was taped at Domain Agency, Inc., in Wheaton, Ill. Domain Agency has many years of experience in working with Christian broadcasters.

"We live in a day of electronics and it seemed that putting "The New Living Testament" in dramatic form would have great appeal," said Mrs. Faith Main of the agency.

"It all came about because Dr. Kenneth Taylor saw the need to add another dimension in sharing the word with as many people as possible."

Taping was directed by Jim Grant, a writer, actor and film director who also narrated "The Living New Testament." The man who portrayed the Apostle Paul in the work was Dick Noel, for six years an announcer for Lowell Thomas.

After the narration was completed — a job requiring nearly six months — sound effects and music were added. Then Grant went back through the entire master tape to add the chapter numbers.

"We recorded without chapter breaks in order to add continuity to the message," said Mrs. Main. "After we finished, Dr. Taylor suggested that adding the chapter numbers would make it easier to locate certain places in the Scriptures. But even those additions were included so carefully that they don't break the thought."

Dr. Taylor said the cassettes were "an exploratory venture in the beginning, but people have responded to them. And we were thinking in terms of people, in terms of bringing the text alive for them when we decided to go ahead with the cassettes.

"After all, faith comes by hearing and hearing by the word of God. And faith is what we're trying to encourage with "The Living New Testament" cassettes."

A person interested in listening from the first chapter of Matthew straight through to Revelation 22 can do so in only 20 hours.

'Pray For China' Week

Chinese Christians of America joined this week with other Chinese congregations of the world to observe Pray for China Week, which concludes Sunday, March 16.

Among the week's observances was a "Day of Prayer" for Mainland China as the United States role in the worldwide campaign.

The purpose of Pray for China Week is to attempt to unite 4,000 expatriated Chinese churches now scattered throughout the world, and Christians generally in special prayer for China at a time when increasing numbers of overseas Chinese are allowed to cross into China for business and visiting relatives, according to the Rev. Silas Hong, United States chairman for Pray for China Week committee.

On the Chinese New Year Day, Feb. 11, an estimated 80,000 Chinese visitors crossed the borders to celebrate the coming of the Year of the Rabbit. Many hundreds carried Bibles for relatives and fellow Christians in China's underground church.

To mark the beginning of Pray for China Week, the Manilla based Pray for China committee has asked for funds to print one million New Testaments in the new Mao Chinese dialect, to be distributed behind the Bamboo Curtain. The printing plates for these Testaments will be provided by Underground Evangelism, Inc., a United States organization whose chief work is the helping of persecuted Christians in Communist countries.

Lenten Meditation

Rev. Leonard F. Putnam
Chapel Hill United Methodist Church, Sodus
Today's Scripture: John 6:53-54

When Jesus said that we should eat his flesh and drink his blood in order to possess eternal life, he was saying that this is a way of our identifying ourselves with his humanity and abiding in him.

So this means that in Jesus we see God taking human life upon Him, facing our human situation, struggling with our human problems.

He was saying you must take my life inside you. We must receive him into our hearts.

Our faith in him is more than just ideas, it is Christ in you the hope of glory. Our whole being is to be saturated and filled with the life of God.

The writer John was thinking of the Lord's Supper when he wrote those words and saying if you want life and love come and sit at the Lord's Table. He not only meant the Communion Table, but whenever and wherever we eat we can have his presence and love.

Christ is not confined just to the church building; every meal can be a sacrament if we invite his living presence to be with us.

These Lenten Meditations are coordinated by the Berrien County Council of Churches.

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In most major Christian denominations, it's possible for a member to attend services rarely, give nothing and do little and still retain recognized membership status. But not in the Salvation Army.

"We want total commitment," says the organization's new national commander, Commissioner William E. Chamberlain. "Those who find they can't live up to it leave the ranks."

Installed recently as the spiritually-based Army's top officer in this country, Chamberlain points out that the word, "discipline," stems from the word, "disciple," and he adds:

"You can't be a disciple without discipline. It's the heart and root of the Salvation Army. Discipline is what started the Army, what has kept it going, and is the secret of its usefulness to God."

That quality, however, has become sorely lacking in modern times, says Chamberlain, 65, a broad-shouldered, fivefoot-eleven man of erect bearing and decisive manner.

He said in an interview that permissiveness and vagueness about responsibility have made "terrible inroads," affecting nearly every strata of society with false ideas of freedom and uncertainty about duty or purpose.

"Discipline is what makes service to others possible," he said. "It's not a yoke around the neck, but gives direction and value to life. It's a vital part of Christian witness, and something the world greatly needs today — to be under the discipline of God's love."

It's also a characteristic that the Salvation Army consistently displays in an otherwise often slack religious environment, in which few, if any, other groups live so sparely themselves and give so much.

Although the Army dispenses huge quantities of aid in nearly every hard-hit region of the world, and runs 1,400 centers for the down-and-out in this country, plus 250 foster homes, its own officers get by on bare necessities.

Their allowances average only $80 weekly plus housing, and they're on the job full-time, with no limit on hours.

"We don't feel handicapped — we feel privileged to serve," Chamberlain said. "Of course, you've got to be very thrifty, but your hours are so few, you don't have time for entertainment. It's an in-house sort of life.

"Some may think it's too rugged, but it's the kind of dedication that gives purpose to life. It's what people need and what many are looking for."

He said a "whole new element" of Americans, particularly among the younger generation and with extensive, varied educational backgrounds, "have seen the kind of work we do among less privileged people and they want to get involved.

"We symbolize something to them," he said. "We symbolize the practical carrying out of the ideal of serving those in need, and this is something more and more young people want to participate in — the joy of service."

Under the Army's system, a new member is called a recruit, and through regular participation, becomes a soldier, both classifications resembling lay membership in churches.

Like clergy in the churches, officers must complete two years of cadet training (equalling at least three years of seminary and field work, since only two weeks yearly vacation is given), and are commissioned lieutenants.

The Army now includes 368,000 soldiers in this country and 5,200 full-time officers. Worldwide membership is 2 million soldiers and 25,000 officers.

Commissioner Chamberlain, before becoming the top U.S. officer, commanded the southern territory, with headquarters in Atlanta, one of the four U.S. territories into which the Army is organized.

"I believe we're entering a new era of identification with spiritual realities," he said. "More young people are identifying with Christian service than the church roles reveal. We're finding a new segment of society that wants to use its expertise in ways not tried in times past, to venture into new areas of service."

Observing 85th Birthday Sunday

Mrs. Nellie Halby, 5976 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, will celebrate her 85th birthday Sunday, March 16, at a dinner party at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Hosting the event will be Miss Michelle Kchel, of Stevensville, grandniece of Mrs. Halby's; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Durojczyk, Calumet City, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William MacKenzie, Chicago, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. William Hauenstein, Lansing.

Mrs. Halby was born March 16, 1890, in Poland, and came to the United States at the age of 16. She and her husband, the late Carl Halby, came to Stevensville 30 years ago and shortly afterwards opened Mrs. Halby's Jam and Jelly Kitchen in Stevensville, which Mrs. Halby still owns and operates.

She has had many famous customers during the years, including the late stage and screen star Lionel Barrymore. She has received letters requesting her jams and praising them from such people as former President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, Mrs. Hannah M. Nixon, the former president's mother, and Pope Paul VI. For nearly 25 years Mrs. Halby supplied Marshall Fields in Chicago with jams.

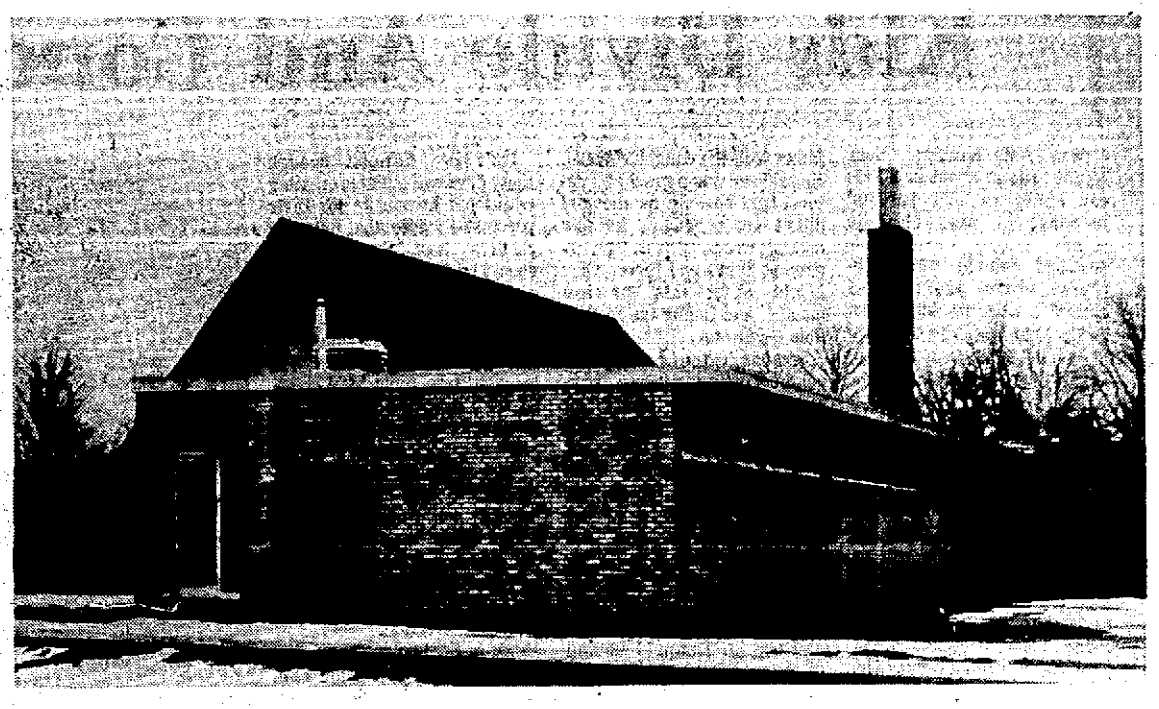
Plan Open House March 22



NEW ADDITION OF CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS

Church Addition

An open house and tour of a new building addition will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, March 22, at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 385 Jakway, Benton Harbor.

Plans for the evening will feature the film, "Meet the Mormons," which is an explanation of the church in modern times signifying the basic beliefs of the Mormon faith.

Another film, "Man's Search for Happiness," is also scheduled. This film was shown exclusively at the Mormon Pavilion at the World's Fair.

As with all buildings carried on by the denomination, the new addition is paid for before it is put in use. The new wing houses the junior Sunday school meeting room and two new classrooms and baptismal font.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is experiencing an unprecedented growth rate world wide of about seven per cent. For the past 30 years, church membership in the central Michigan area has doubled about every eight years. Current membership in Michigan is approximately 20,000 with a world wide membership of 3.5 million.

The open house is open to the community and will include a buffet supper, according to Bishop Gerald Opdahl.

Writing New Book

DR. GERHARD HASEL

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The success of a book written by Andrews university Professor Gerhard Hasel has resulted in Eerdmans Publishing company requesting Dr. Hasel to expand the book and write an additional book.

The short, but highly technical book, "Old Testament Theology: Basic Issues in Current Debate," analyzes a variety of current approaches to the discipline of theology and faults each approach on its own terms.

Since the book was published in 1972, reviewers and prominent theologians have admitted that its criticisms are on the whole valid.

One theologian, Walter Harrelson, dean of the School of Divinity at Vanderbilt university, said, "The positions reviewed are treated fairly and aptly criticised."

Theological schools across the country are using the book, and some are listing it as the basis of for seminars.

The new edition will contain one new chapter and additions to previous ones, an increase of 50 pages. Hasel is now preparing for Eerdmans a similar book on New Testament theological methods.

The first book grew out of a paper entitled "The Problem of Methodology in Old Testament Theology," which Hasel delivered at the national annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature and the American Academy of Religion.

Announce Church Events

Revival services will be held at the NILES AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH, St. Joseph, Sunday, March 16, through Sunday, March 23.

The public is invited, according to the Rev. James Walker, pastor.

The Rev. Billy Whitt will be evangelist for the services. The Rev. Whitt is pastor of the Columbia Avenue Baptist church, Pontiac, and is also the president of the Baptist State Convention of Michigan.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sunday and 7 p.m. each week day evening. There will be a Bible study each morning at 10:30 a.m. Nursery service will be available for the evening meetings.

The title of the play is "The Lame Sunday School and BTU Clinic, a Religious Hospital," according to the Rev. W. T. Burton, pastor.

The Bible class of ST. MARK BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, will sponsor a program, "When I Make This Found I'm Going Home," at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 16, at the church.

The Rev. Coleman Gray, pastor, will be the speaker. The senior choir, gospel chorus and male chorus will provide music. The public is invited.

Mrs. Josephine Brazil is in charge of the program.

NEW TROY — Members of the NEW TROY BRETHREN CHURCH will observe Family Day on Sunday, March 16.

Activities will begin with 10 a.m. worship service when the film, "The Christian Home," will be shown. The regular worship service will follow after which a carry-in dinner will be held. The film, "Discipline in the Home," will be shown at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Howard Hendricks of Dallas, Tex., author and lecturer, will show the films released by Gospel Films, Inc., Muskegon.

THREE OAKS — The Rev. Jesse P. Peirce, DD, assistant to the president of Piedmont college, Demorest, Ga., will be guest speaker at 11 a.m. Sunday, March 16, in the THREE OAKS CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Rev. Peirce, former pastor of Plymouth Congregational church in Lansing, will speak on "Making the Most of the Generation Gap."

At 5:30 p.m. Sunday, the congregation will have a buffet supper in the church dining room after which the Rev. Peirce will tell of the work of Piedmont college.

Television Special

Lutheran Television's animated family special, "Easter Is," will be rebroadcast Sunday, March 16, on Channel 2-WBBM at 4 p.m., and Friday, March 28, on Channel 16-WNDU at 4:30 p.m.

The half-hour special stars Benji and Waldo, the popular boy and shaggy dog team from "Christmas Is" and "The City That Forgot About Christmas."

"Easter Is" was first broadcast in 1974. Leslie Uggams sings two ballads in the score, composed by Jimmy Haskell. David Kelly is the voice of Benji and Philip Morris, son of TV star Greg Morris, is heard as Benji's friend, Martin.

Program Part Of Centennial

The social choir of Second Baptist church, Benton Harbor, will present its annual program Sunday, March 16, at 3:30 p.m. as part of the church's centennial observance.

Theme of the program will be "With God All Things Are Possible."

A highlight of the program will be the reading of the choir's history. A queen of the choir will be crowned.

Also participating will be the Sounds Unlimited, Emanual Church choir of Decatur and choirs of Hopewell Baptist church, Pilgrim Rest Baptist church and New Bethel Baptist church, all of Benton Harbor.

Miss Alice McAfee will be soloist.

Refreshments will be served, according to Mrs. Lillie Blackmon, chairman. Wilbur Scott is director of the choir and Mrs. Evelyn Scott is president.

Members of the Centennial committee of the chrch are Mrs. Charlotte Osby, general chairman; Edward Elliott, arts and awards; Mrs. Willie Elliott, co-chairman; and Mrs. Gladys Peeples Burks, publicity.

The Rev. Donald Adkins, pastor, serves as an ex-officio member of the committee.

Among the committee's activities has been the compiling of the Centennial Souvenior book, which contains the history of the church, pastors, births, deaths and church growth.

Conference At Watervliet

WATERVLIET — Dr. Roy G. Hamman will conduct a Prophetic Bible Conference Sunday, March 16, through Sunday, March 23, at Midway Baptist church, 900 West Red Arrow highway, Watervliet. The public is invited.

The Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The week day services will be at 7 p.m. There will be no service Saturday. Nursery facilities will be provided.

Dr. Hamman spent 25 years with Baptist Mid-Missions, as a missionary in Central Africa and field director of the organization's largest field.

He served as chairman of Inter-Missions Language Committee and worked for 10 years on the translation of Sango for use in a translated Sango Bible.

This work received the highest approval of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Dr. Hamman has visited the Holy Lands many times and has visited the sites of the seven churches of Asia Minor to whom the Apostle John wrote the Book of Revelation.

He served as pastor of the First Baptist church of Mishawaka from 1957 to 1972, when he retired from the pastorate to begin a prophetic conference type of ministry.

He will use more than 5,000 colored slides from all over the world to show the accuracy of fulfilled prophecy.

DR. ROY HAMMAN

Concert At BH Church

178. Ahab Dies In Battle

King Ahab and King Jehosophat of Judah determined to attack the Syrians who had occupied the city of Ramoth-gilead. They decided to attack after the 400 heathen prophets of Ahab predicted a resounding triumph, even though Micaiah, the prophet of the Lord, prophesied Ahab's death.

Ahab entered the battle disguised as an ordinary soldier. The King of Syria had ordered his men to fight only with the King of Israel, and not with any subaltern or ally. At first, the Syrians attacked Jehosophat, (clad in his royal robes), but then they turned to the other soldiers. "And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and smote the king of Israel beween the joints of the harness: wherefore he said unto the driver of the chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the host; for I am wounded." (I Kings 22:34)

As the pitch of battle increased, Ahab, bleeding profusely, drove his chariot into the fray again, but he died at sundown, and his troops buried him in Samaria.

Writing New Book

DR. GERHARD HASEL

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The success of a book written by Andrews university Professor Gerhard Hasel has resulted in Eerdmans Publishing company requesting Dr. Hasel to expand the book and write an additional book.

The short, but highly technical book, "Old Testament Theology: Basic Issues in Current Debate," analyzes a variety of current approaches to the discipline of theology and faults each approach on its own terms.

Since the book was published in 1972, reviewers and prominent theologians have admitted that its criticisms are on the whole valid.

One theologian, Walter Harrelson, dean of the School of Divinity at Vanderbilt university, said, "The positions reviewed are treated fairly and aptly criticised."

Theological schools across the country are using the book, and some are listing it as the basis of for seminars.

The new edition will contain one new chapter and additions to previous ones, an increase of 50 pages. Hasel is now preparing for Eerdmans a similar book on New Testament theological methods.

The first book grew out of a paper entitled "The Problem of Methodology in Old Testament Theology," which Hasel delivered at the national annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature and the American Academy of Religion.

Church Addition

An open house and tour of a new building addition will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, March 22, at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 395 Jakway, Benton Harbor.

Plans for the evening will feature the film, "Meet the Mormons," which is an explanation of the church in modern times signifying the basic beliefs of the Mormon faith.

Another film, "Man's Search for Happiness," is also scheduled. This film was shown exclusively at the Mormon Pavilion at the World's Fair.

As with all buildings carried on by the denomination, the new addition is paid for before it is put in use. The new wing houses the junior Sunday school meeting room and two new classrooms and baptismal font.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is experiencing an unprecedented growth rate world wide of about seven per cent. For the past 30 years, church membership in the central Michigan area has doubled about every eight years. Current membership in Michigan is approximately 20,000 with a world wide membership of 3.5 million.

The open house is open to the community and will include a buffet supper, according to Bishop Gerald Opdahl.

Television Special

Lutheran Television's animiated family special, "Easter Is," will be rebroadcast Sunday, March 16, on Channel 2-WBBM at 4 p.m., and Friday, March 28, on Channel 16-WNDU at 4:30 p.m.

The half-hour special stars Benji and Waldo, the popular boy and shaggy dog team from "Christmas Is" and "The City That Forgot About Christmas."

"Easter Is" was first broadcast in 1974. Leslie Uggams sings two ballads in the score, composed by Jimmy Haskell. David Kelly is the voice of Benji and Philip Morris, son of TV star Greg Morris, is heard as Benji's friend, Martin.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Kids Divide And Conquer

Dear Ann Landers: Your recent column about how kids can break up their parents' marriage hit very close to home. Please reprint the enclosed column which appeared several years ago. I clipped it when my kids broke up my marriage. Now the same thing is happening to my cousin. Thanks, Ann. — St. Louis

Dear St. Louis: Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please deal with a problem that seems to be a serious threat to many middle-age marriages these days? I refer to the sexual conduct of their teenage children.

The daughter of a close friend (age 17) was entertaining her boyfriend in her parents' bedroom several weeks ago, and I do mean entertaining. The folks came home unexpectedly and a scene followed. The mother was furious and made it plain that she was shocked, disappointed, and outraged. The father took the daughter's side. He said sex was normal and natural and so long as the girl didn't get pregnant, he saw nothing wrong with it. The argument didn't end there. They fought about this for two months, and finally the mother filed for divorce.

Another case involved my neighbor. The reverse happened. Their 18-year-old son told his parents he wanted them to allow his 17-year-old girlfriend to move into their home. Her parents had thrown her out for reasons he did not care to discuss. He had a nice big bedroom, so why not?

The father said, "Over my dead body."

The mother said, "Yes. We'll take her in. It would be the 'Christian' thing to do."

Three weeks later the father moved out. Last week he filed for a legal separation. There are two younger children involved. I view this as a tragedy.

Isn't life difficult enough these days without kids creating additional heartache for their parents? Please, Ann, tell your readers how this problem should be dealt with. Thank you. — Saddened By It All

Dear Sad: Early in life children learn the technique of "divide and conquer." A teenager who could have created such a wedge between his parents is no novice. He's had years of experience.

Parents should stand united, especially on matters of morality and discipline. If they cannot agree, they should seek counseling and permit a third party to decide which way to go and then BOTH parents should go in that direction.

P.S. to St. Louis: Thank you for requesting a rerun. For some reason that particular column seems more in tune with the times today than when it first appeared in print four years ago. Perhaps it's because families are moving more and more in that direction.

Who Buys?

Dear Ann Landers: Who buys the wedding anniversary present? Does the wife buy one for her husband, or does the husband buy one for his wife?

I've heard many conflicting answers. What is yours? — In Doubt In Tiffin, Ohio

Dear Tiff: The answer is not engraved on the Rosetta Stone, dear. It's largely a matter of choice. Usually the husband buys his wife an anniversary gift or sends flowers. Sometimes they exchange gifts. Children, on occasion, give parents an anniversary present — and vice versa. The door is wide open on this one.

Drugs? How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is L.S.D. too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

If you can keep from looking at the South and East hands, you can enjoy an interesting defensive problem. It is simple enough, so we feel certain that anyone of the 50 best players in the world will be able to easily solve it, provided they are playing with an equally expert partner.

You open the five of clubs. Your partner wins with the ace. South plays the jack and your partner sifts to the king of diamonds. South drops the six and you play the seven. Your partner leads the five of diamonds to your ace while South follows with the eight.

A review of the bidding shows that South must hold three spades and six hearts. He has played three minor suit cards and his unknown card will be either a low club or the four of diamonds.

You are slightly annoyed when you note that North really should have bid four spades, which would have left the South hand exposed. Then you make the right play. What was it?

You lead the deuce of diamonds, because you know your fine partner would have led the queen of diamonds, if he held five cards in that suit so as to hold the lead and play a club himself.

Build Alcove Cheaply

There's not much question that most families could use more room in their houses. The problem often is fitting this expense into budgets already burdened by inflation.

One low-cost remodeling solution is a six by eight-foot addition that can be furnished for a children's bunk room, home office, sewing or crafts room, and many other uses.

Costs are held down by positioning the new room at an existing window or door, so there is less wall to remove and less header construction. The addition utilizes existing power and heat facilities and needs no plumbing. The floor of the alcove is built to match the adjoining room. It is finished ith siding matching the present exterior, and can have a shed or gable roof.

Dr. Lester Coleman

A new and simple treatment is being recommended for people who develop a sudden episode of rapid heartbeat.

The condition, known as "paroxysmal tachycardia," occurs in some people following drugs like amphetamine, after excessive alcohol intake, overuse of tobacco or because of emotional stress.

Dr. Kern Wildenthal and his co-workers at the University of Texas in Dallas have found that sudden epidodes of increased heart rate can be "broken" by submerging the face in ice water.

This technique, known as the deeply several times and, while leaning forward and holding the breath in inspiration, immersed his face in a pan of cold water for up to 35 seconds."

Dr. Wildenthal and his colleagues believe that many patients with tachycardia can, with permission of their own doctor, be benefited by this technique.

Glaucoma, the cause of blindness, may soon be attacked with the laser beam.

Dr. Robert K. Abraham, of the Cedars-Sinai Medical School in Los Angeles, recently reported that the laser beam technique can be performed in 10 or 15 minutes in specially chosen cases of glaucoma.

When substantiated, this method may be a valuable adjunct to methods already in use for the treatment and control of glaucoma.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. Can't Dry Items

Any material which has been treated with a cleaning solvent or is saturated with flammable liquids or solids should never be placed in a dryer. To do so is to risk an explosion. Be sure to read labels before using liquid cleaners and some spot removers.

Foam rubber and rubber-like materials can be dried in a dryer on an air setting only. They must not be dried at a heat setting since the heat may damage the plastic and be a fire hazard.

Glass fiber curtains and draperies should be hung to dry. Knitted woolens will shrink from heat and tumbling. Instead, block and air-dry to hold their original dimensions and appearance.

Auxiliary To Hold Auction

PAW PAW — Lake View Community hospital auxiliary will sponsor its second annual auction Saturday, April 5, beginning at 11 a.m. in Paw Paw Michigan Avenue middle school.

Luncheon will be served. An arts and crafts table will feature handmade items for sale.

Numerous items have been donated by the auxiliary, members of the community and area businesses.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution may contact one of the area chairmen: Mrs. Victor Kimmel or Mrs. Robert Ell, Paw Paw; Mrs. Ervin Much or Mrs. Jack Goble, Decatur; Mrs. Timothy Peters or Mrs. Jack Killeen, Gobles; Mrs. Gary VandenBerg, Mattawan; Mrs. Kay Jennings, Lawrence, or Mrs. Charles MacDonald, Lawton.

The chairmen will make arrangements for pick-up and storage of the donated items.

Auctioneer will be Pearl Noble.

According to Mrs. Francis Dorstewitz, auxiliary president, chairmen for the event include Mrs. Tom Bourisseau, Decatur, auction chairman; Mrs. Douglas Webb, Lawton, auction co-chairman; Mrs. Opal Jellich, Lawton, food; Mrs. Marian Landers, Paw Paw, special arts table; Mrs. Richard Bangs, Paw Paw, bake sale, and Mrs. Frank Willis, Lawton, publicity.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Kids Divide And Conquer

Dear Ann Landers: Your recent column about how kids can break up their parents' marriage hit very close to home. Please reprint the enclosed column which appeared several years ago. I clipped it when my kids broke up my marriage. Now the same thing is happening to my cousin. Thanks, Ann. — St. Louis

Dear St. Louis: Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please deal with a problem that seems to be a serious threat to many middle-age marriages these days? I refer to the sexual conduct of their teenage children.

The daughter of a close friend (age 17) was entertaining her boyfriend in her parents' bedroom several weeks ago, and I do mean entertaining. The folks came home unexpectedly and a scene followed. The mother was furious and made it plain that she was shocked, disappointed, and outraged. The father took the daughter's side. He said sex was normal and natural and so long as the girl didn't get pregnant, he saw nothing wrong with it. The argument didn't end there. They fought about this for two months, and finally the mother filed for divorce.

Another case involved my neighbor. The reverse happened. Their 18-year-old son told his parents he wanted them to allow his 17-year-old girlfriend to move into their home. Her parents had thrown her out for reasons he did not care to discuss. He had a nice big bedroom, so why not?

The father said, "Over my dead body."

The mother said, "Yes. We'll take her in. It would be the 'Christian' thing to do."

Three weeks later the father moved out. Last week he filed for a legal separation. There are two younger children involved. I view this as a tragedy.

Isn't life difficult enough these days without kids creating additional heartache for their parents? Please, Ann, tell your readers how this problem should be dealt with. Thank you. — Saddened By It All

Dear Sad: Early in life children learn the technique of "divide and conquer." A teenager who could have created such a wedge between his parents is no novice. He's had years of experience.

Parents should stand united, especially on matters of morality and discipline. If they cannot agree, they should seek counseling and permit a third party to decide which way to go and then BOTH parents should go in that direction.

P.S. to St. Louis: Thank you for requesting a rerun. For some reason that particular column seems more in tune with the times today than when it first appeared in print four years ago. Perhaps it's because families are moving more and more in that direction.

Who Buys?

Dear Ann Landers: Who buys the wedding anniversary present? Does the wife buy one for her husband, or does the husband buy one for his wife?

I've heard many conflicting answers. What is yours? — In Doubt In Tiffin, Ohio

Dear Tiff: The answer is not engraved on the Rosetta Stone, dear. It's largely a matter of choice. Usually the husband buys his wife an anniversary gift or sends flowers. Sometimes they exchange gifts. Children, on occasion, give parents an anniversary present — and vice versa. The door is wide open on this one.

Drugs? How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is L.S.D. too much? if you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

GM Will Pin Its Hopes On Small Cars

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, caught with too many big cars during last year's fuel shortages, is waging an intense battle to recapture lost sales by pushing small cars like it's never done before.

"The game plan in Detroit is small cars," says a spokesman for Ford Motor Co. "And GM is busting every nut and bolt to take whatever they can away from us. Our plan is to do whatever we can to stop them."

The GM drive is a complete turnabout for a company which has traditionally been pre-eminent in the high-profit, big car market.

"Ford has always been big on small cars," says another Ford spokesman. "Remember, the Model T was a small car. For GM to push small cars is a real switch."

The switch has come after a general decline in the large car market lasting a number of years and capped by events since last winter — an unprecedented sales lull during the Arab oil boycott, followed by a continuing slide blamed on the subsequent recession.

Meanwhile, as fuel prices soared, car he price of the least expensive strippd-down American small car from about $2,200 to about $2,600.

"People who can afford to buy at all are looking at smaller cars with smaller price tags," says one industry analyst. "Former owners of regular size cars are finding big cars out of their financial range."

GM has embarked on a multi-billion dollar program to strengthen its small car lineup, and so far the strategy appears to be working.

In 1973, GM had 52.5 per cent of all domestic sales, excluding imports, with small cars accounting for only 23 per cent of volume.

last year, GM's market share fell to 49.6 per cent, but so far this year the firm has rebounded 1.5 points to 51.1 per cent. Analysts attribute much of the quick rebound to increased small car sales.

The main beneficiary of GM's drop last year was Ford, and this year the rebound has been largely at Ford's expense. Ford picked up more than two points in its share of total market last year to finish with 29.7 per cent, but since then has dropped to 28.5 per cent.

Put another way, in 1974 only 28 per cent of GM's sales were small cars, compared to nearly half of Ford's deliveries. Through March 10 this year, GM pushed small cars to 42 per cent of sales while Ford's small cars rose to 65 per cent. But the change in ratio was still big enough to let GM overtake Ford in the number of small cars sold.

The figures demonstrate that Ford too has been strengthening its small-car lineup — company officials say they will have spent $3 billion by 1980. Of tha', $800 million will go to bringing out current models, the Mustang II, Granada and Monarch.

But analysts say GM has closed in so fast already because its vast resources give it an advantage in making such changes quickly. GM says its spending program will cost $3 billion over three years.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The administrations of former Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson never "tinkered with the idea of political assassinations," says Dean Rusk, secretary of state under both men.

"We were categorically opposed to political assassinations in any way, shape or form," Rusk said in an interview Friday night.

Remains White On Edge Of Black Detroit

Warren Resists Integration Pressures

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — "They use code words like local control and homeowners rights, but the idea is to keep blacks out, and they're willing to do whatever they have to."

Some bitterness, confusion and disillusionment are all that remain now of Fred Charbonneau's modest effort a few years back to promote racial harmony in this Detroit suburb. White Warren turned back the challenge, he feels.

"The city has an image of being a racist community," said Charbonneau, who once headed an integrationist group called the Warren Human Relations Council. "To a large extent, people came out there to get away from blacks. Blacks who have moved here have been harassed. It's like Mississippi used to be considered to be."

Although it's just across Eight Mile Road from Detroit, with its large black population, Warren had only 131 black inhabitants out of a 1970 census population of 179,260. Little has happened in the past five years to change the city's lily white image.

Warren's racial problems are far from unique among the predominately white suburbs that ring Detroit in what government civil rights officials refer to as the "black hole" or "doughnut" effect. But the town has been especially ostentatious about its desire to keep blacks out.

In 1970, the city voted in an unprecedented referendum to turn down $30 million in federal urban renewal funds, largely because of published reports that federal bureaucrats would use the program as a lever to impose integration.

And just last month, under pressure from much the same sources that forced the vote 4½ years ago, the city council decided against applying for $10.8 million under the Community Block Grant program administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Two neighboring cities, Roseville and Hamtramck, followed suit.

Perhaps coincidentally, public discussion of the federal program reached its peak the same week that a fire gutted part of the home of Samuel Bange, a black man who moved into Warren last September.

Authorities agree the fire was set by someone, and some like Charbonneau and other would-be civil rights activists believe the arson was a racially motivated reaction to the Community Block Grant issue.

Bange, 45, isn't sure.

"When we first moved in, we were given a verbal notification—not really a threat—that the Warren Klan didn't appreciate us living here," he said.

"But we have had nothing happen since then. No garbage has been thrown on the lawn or threatening notes or phone calls. Nothing to indicate something like this would happen."

The Rev. Lee Tyler of the Northeast Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice says some blacks have moved into apartments and condominiums in Warren in recent years, but few blacks from Detroit are interested in buying a private home in Warren.

"There's a feeling that's very difficult to document that families just don't want to go through that kind of hassle," he explained.

An incident in 1967, one month before the Detroit riot, showed black people the kind of welcome wagon that white Warren would roll out for them.

That's when Carado Bailey, who is black, and his wife, Ruth, who is white, moved into a previously all-white subdivision.

Mobs of whites demonstrated in front of their house for three straight nights, burning trash on the lawn and breaking windows. Police entered the situation with apparent reluctance, breaking up the gathering on the third night.

Several months later a cross was burned on the Bailey's front lawn, but they stuck it out and are still there.

The Banges and Baileys settled in the new part of Warren—subdivisions on the city's North End built after World War II. But in many ways the city continues to draw its character from the old South Side.

A far cry from the image of affluent suburbia, old Warren grew up poor around the city's massive Chrysler and Chevrolet complexes and smaller tool and die outfits.

"It was once called 'Mudville' because of the lack of services," recalls Harold Stillwell, who has been a city councilman since Warren incorporated in 1957. "People weren't anxious to move to Warren."

That included Detroit's black population, although some 7,000 of them work in Warren.

But it wasn't just Warren's racist, low-brow reputation that kept blacks out.

Take Ralph Lilly, a supply manager at the Army Tank Command in Warren. He spent 10 years getting turned away by builders and realtors when he and his wife came to look for a house.

"Builders always had the excuse that if they sold these homes to us they wouldn't be able to sell any of the others, or they'd say they were already sold," says Lilly's wife, Irene. "The realtors just wouldn't show us their listings."

Three years ago, the Lillys went out on their own and found a place down the street from the Baileys. They've lived there without incident.

Those familiar with the city say there are no blacks at all in the city's old South Side, which stood to benefit most from the controversial federal funds.

The area is populated by those too old or too poor to keep up their homes. Most of the houses could use a paint job and seem to be sagging here and there. Some have cellophane where glass windows should be. Quite a few are just boarded up and deserted.

One of the neighborhood's proudest old residents is James Turnbull, a 76-year-old retired service station operator.

In 1971, Turnbull filed an unsuccessful federal suit in an effort to overturn the 26,471-19,906 vote by which the city decided against accepting the federal urban renewal money.

But Turnbull only wanted a $3,000 grant to fix up his house and wasn't at all interested in seeing blacks move in next door.

"I got nothing against them cause they're black. But I got something against them cause they're filthy as dogs," he asserted.

Philip Lee, once a leader of the antibusing group Save Our Children, insisted that race is not an issue in Warren, but hastened to add he doesn't want to see an influx of people who can't support themselves.

"We don't want that kind of junk," he said. "Warren's integrated now. "There's been no colored denied a house in Warren. If they can afford it, they can move in...What do you want us to do—go down (to Detroit) and take them by the hand and lead them here? We're not going to do that. Nor are we going to get (public) housing to give them a free ride."

Lee was an adamant opponent of accepting either of the housing programs.

"We gave them a hell of a fight on urban renewal (in 1970) and we gave them a hell of a fight on busing," he said. "If they want to bring that thing back, look out. This time there won't be any referendum. It will be a straight recall vote and they'll all go."

Warren Mayor Ted Bates was a supporter of the urban renewal program in 1970, but takes a more cautious view now.

An eight-year veteran as mayor who makes no secret of his desire to stay in office for many more, Bates insisted that the issue was distrust of HUD and Big Government, not race.

But Warren's rights activists would like to see city officials take more positive action against racism, although they concede the officials are limited by their constituency.

Remains White On Edge Of Black Detroit

Warren Resists Integration Pressures

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — "They use code words like local control and homeowners rights, but the idea is to keep blacks out, and they're willing to do whatever they have to."

Some bitterness, confusion and disillusionment are all that remain now of Fred Charbonneau's modest effort a few years back to promote racial harmony in this Detroit suburb. White Warren turned back the challenge, he feels.

"The city has an image of being a racist community," said Charbonneau, who once headed an integrationist group called the Warren Human Relations Council. "To a large extent, people came out there to get away from blacks. Blacks who have moved here have been harassed. It's like Mississippi used to be considered to be."

Although it's just across Eight Mile Road from Detroit, with its large black population, Warren had only 131 black inhabitants out of a 1970 census population of 179,260. Little has happened in the past five years to change the city's lily white image.

Warren's racial problems are far from unique among the predominately white suburbs that ring Detroit in what government civil rights officials refer to as the "black hole" or "doughnut" effect. But the town has been especially ostentatious about its desire to keep blacks out.

In 1970, the city voted in an unprecedented referendum to turn down $30 million in federal urban renewal funds, largely because of published reports that federal bureaucrats would use the program as a lever to impose integration.

And just last month, under pressure from much the same sources that forced the vote 4½ years ago, the city council decided against applying for $10.8 million under the Community Block Grant program administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Two neighboring cities, Roseville and Hamtramck, followed suit.

Perhaps coincidentally, public discussion of the federal program reached its peak the same week that a fire gutted part of the home of Samuel Bange, a black man who moved into Warren last September.

Authorities agree the fire was set by someone, and some like Charbonneau and other would-be civil rights activists believe the arson was a racially motivated reaction to the Community Block Grant issue.

Bange, 45, isn't sure.

"When we first moved in, we were given a verbal notification—not really a threat—that the Warren Klan didn't appreciate us living here," he said.

"But we have had nothing happen since then. No garbage has been thrown on the lawn or threatening notes or phone calls. Nothing to indicate something like this would happen."

The Rev. Lee Tyler of the Northeast Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice says some blacks have moved into apartments and condomimiums in Warren in recent years, but few blacks from Detroit are interested in buying a private home in Warren.

"There's a feeling that's very difficult to document that families just don't want to go through that kind of hassle," he explained.

An incident in 1967, one month before the Detroit riot, showed black people the kind of welcome wagon that white Warren would roll out for them.

That's when Carado Bailey, who is black, and his wife, Ruth, who is white, moved into a previously all-white subdivision.

Mobs of whites demonstrated in front of their house for three straight nights, burning trash on the lawn and breaking windows. Police entered the situation with apparent reluctance, breaking up the gathering on the third night.

Several months later a cross was burned on the Bailey's front lawn, but they stuck it out and are still there.

The Banges and Baileys settled in the new part of Warren—subdivisions on the city's North End built after World War II. But in many ways the city continues to draw its character from the old South Side.

A far cry from the image of affluent suburbia, old Warren grew up poor around the city's massive Chrysler and Chevrolet complexes and smaller tool and die outfits.

"It was once called 'Mudville' because of the lack of services," recalls Harold Stillwell, who has been a city councilman since Warren incorporated in 1957. "People weren't anxious to move to Warren."

That included Detroit's black population, although some 7,000 of them work in Warren.

But it wasn't just Warren's racist, low-brow reputation that kept blacks out.

Take Ralph Lilly, a supply manager at the Army Tank Command in Warren. He spent 10 years getting turned away by builders and realtors when he and his wife came to look for a house.

"Builders always had the excuse that if they sold these homes to us they wouldn't be able to sell any of the others, or they'd say they were already sold," says Lilly's wife, Irene. "The realtors just wouldn't show us their listings."

Three years ago, the Lillys went out on their own and found a place down the street from the Baileys. They've lived there without incident.

Those familiar with the city say there are no blacks at all in the city's old South Side, which stood to benefit most from the controversial federal funds.

The area is populated by those too old or too poor to keep up their homes. Most of the houses could use a paint job and seem to be sagging here and there. Some have cellophane where glass windows should be. Quite a few are just boarded up and deserted.

One of the neighborhood's proudest old residents is James Turnbull, a 76-year-old retired service station operator.

In 1971, Turnbull filed an unsuccessful federal suit in an effort to overturn the 26,471-19,906 vote by which the city decided against accepting the federal urban renewal money.

But Turnbull only wanted a $3,000 grant to fix up his house and wasn't at all interested in seeing blacks move in next door.

"I got nothing against them cause they're black. But I got something against them cause they're filthy as dogs," he asserted.

Philip Lee, once a leader of the antibusing group Save Our Children, insisted that race is not an issue in Warren, but hastened to add he doesn't want to see an influx of people who can't support themselves.

"We don't want that kind of junk," he said. "Warren's integrated now. "There's been no colored denied a house in Warren. If they can afford it, they can move in...What do you want us to do—go down (to Detroit) and take them by the hand and lead them here? We're not going to do that. Nor are we going to get (public) housing to give them a free ride."

Lee was an adamant opponent of accepting either of the housing programs.

"We gave them a hell of a fight on urban renewal (in 1970) and we gave them a hell of a fight on busing," he said. "If they want to bring that thing back, look out. This time there won't be any referendum. It will be a straight recall vote and they'll all go."

Warren Mayor Ted Bates was a supporter of the urban renewal program in 1970, but takes a more cautious view now.

An eight-year veteran as mayor who makes no secret of his desire to stay in office for many more, Bates insisted that the issue was distrust of HUD and Big Government, not race.

But Warren's rights activists would like to see city officials take more positive action against racism, although they concede the officials are limited by their constituency.

Congress Step Nearer Tax Rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is one step closer to approving a tax cut that would assure virtually every family in America a rebate of at least $100 in May.

Acting with unusual speed, the Senate Finance Committee approved on Friday a $29.2-billion reduction in 1974 and 1975 individual and business income taxes.

The figure is $13 billion above what President Ford recommended as a stimulus to the sagging economy and $9.3 billion more than the House approved.

Under a timetable that will almost certainly force Congress to delay its scheduled Easter recess, the Senate will begin debating the tax cut on Tuesday or Wednesday. The measure could be ready for Ford's signature a week later.

Thus, in early May the Treasury Department would begin mailing the rebate checks that are designed to provide a quick injection of cash into the economy.

The House and the Senate Finance Committee have agreed that $8.1 billion should be earmarked for the rebates on 1974 individual income taxes. The Senate committee's plan would provide each tax filer a rebate of at least $100, up to a maximum of $200.

Both bills reject the President's contention that a greater share of the tax cut should go to families above the $20,000 income level, who would be expected to spend the money in a way that would stimulate the economy.

At a meeting of newspaper publishers, Ford defended his tax proposals. The President added that discussions in Congress of who should receive the rebates has been based too often on political considerations.

In addition to the rebates, the only individual tax relief voted by the House was for families under the $20,000 income level that do not itemize deductions, and then only for the 1975 tax year.

The Senate went much farther, writing many tax cuts into permanent law. And most of the benefits are earmarked for families under the $20,000, especially those with two or more children.

The Senate committee also added a provision to cut by 4 per cent the basic tax rate on the first $4,000 of taxable income, at a cost of $2 billion. This would insure virtually every person who files a tax return a cut of $40 in 1975 and beyond.

Meanwhile, in other economic developments:

—The nation's industrial output declined for the fifth straight month in February, but other government statistics showed that businesses were able to make sharp reductions in their inventories during January, an indication that the recession might be easing.

—Responding to these statistics, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 10.49 points to salvage a 3.37 gain for the week, closing Friday at 773.47.

—The trend toward a lower prime lending rate continued. New York's First National City Bank lowered its rate from 8 per cent to 7¾ per cent.

—Amstar Corp. and Sucrest Corp. both lowered wholesale grocery prices on sugar by four cents per pound, to 41.5 cents per pound. Sucrest and CPC International dropped the price of refined industrial sugars by $5a hundredweight.

The Senate committee's tax bill would allow each taxpayer the option of a $200-per-person tax credit instead of the present $750-per-person exemption that is subtracted from taxable income. This would cost $6.1 billion.

The bill would provide a 5 per cent tax credit, up to $2,000, for every person who buys a house or mobile home as a principal residence between March 13 and Dec. 31, 1975. The cost: $3.2 billion.

Another provision would authorize a refundable tax credit of up to $400 for families below the $8,000 level with children. The House approved a similar tax break, with a maximum credit of $200, for single persons as well as families.

The Senate tax-cut bill would reduce individual income taxes in 1974 and 1975 by $21.2 billion, $5 billion more than the House version.

In an effort to provide a recession-fighting stimulus aimed at reducing the unemployment rolls, the House approved a $3.7-billion tax cut for business. The Senate panel boosted the figure to $8 billion.

Included in the $8 billion is a provision aimed at bailing out financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft, Chrysler Corp. and Pan American World Airways.

Chrysler would receive $150 million in tax refunds as a result of the provision, Lockheed could get $65 million and Pan Am could receive $40 million.

INCOME TAX REDUCTIONS: Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, talks to reporters prior to the panel's hearing in Washington Friday. The Committee later approved a $2 billion reduction in individual income tax rates that would give every taxpayer a $40 savings in his 1975 taxes. (AP Wirephoto)

Report Says Tunnel Blast Not Properly Investigated

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Port Huron tunnel explosion which killed 22 workmen more than three years ago was not properly investigated, a state Labor Department report concluded Friday.

Labor Director Keith Molin also said there was also "a disturbing lack of coordination" between government agencies and private contractors before the explosion.

He recommended creation of a formal state Disaster Investigating Unit to investigate disasters much as the Federal Aeronautics Administration probes airplane crashes.

Gov. William Milliken formed a panel after the tragedy to look into the tunnel blast, but critics have said the state investigation was near worthless.

The labor department's 25page report concluded there was an absence of construction standards relating to drilling which penetrated the tunnel less than two hours before the explosion.

Workers were in the tunnel when drilling operations broke through the tunnel 90 minutes before the explosion.

"It is our opinion that one of the main factors contributing to the lack of factual and accurate information concerning the exact construction activity underway at the time of the explosion and the specific factors which may have contributed to the explosion, was the absence of any formal disaster investigation unit by either federal, state or local agencies," the report concluded.

Said Molin, "Some 39 months after the disaster, no clearcut answers with regard to 'Why?' and 'How do we prevent such an occurrence in the future?' are available;"

The report states there should be a general construction coordinator on projects where several contractors are working at the same time.

The capacity of federal and state inspection agencies should be expanded to insure safety standards are continually monitored, the report said.

The report said that at the tunnel before the explosion, continuous monitoring was the responsibility of the employer and that inspections by govrnment agencies were not broad enough.

The report asserted, however, that the state Labor and Public Health departments "had complied with their obligations" in the investigtion.

Early Tax Refunds

CINCINNATI (AP) — More than $524.6 million already has been refunded to Michigan taxpayers who filed their federal income tax returns at a record early pace, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Roger Plate, IRS director, said 1,132,360 Michigan returns already had been filed through March 7. Last year 778,092 state returns had been filed through the first week of March.

Plate estimated 2.8 million Michigan taxpayers would get refunds this year.

Congress Step Nearer Tax Rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is one step closer to approving a tax cut that would assure virtually every family in America a rebate of at least $100 in May.

Acting with unusual speed, the Senate Finance Committee approved on Friday a $29.2-billion reduction in 1974 and 1975 individual and business income taxes.

The figure is $13 billion above what President Ford recommended as a stimulus to the sagging economy and $9.3 billion more than the House approved.

Under a timetable that will almost certainly force Congress to delay its scheduled Easter recess, the Senate will begin debating the tax cut on Tuesday or Wednesday. The measure could be ready for Ford's signature a week later.

Thus, in early May the Treasury Department would begin mailing the rebate checks that are designed to provide a quick injection of cash into the economy.

The House and the Senate Finance Committee have agreed that $8.1 billion should be earmarked for the rebates on 1974 individual income taxes. The Senate committee's plan would provide each tax filer a rebate of at least $100, up to a maximum of $200.

Both bills reject the President's contention that a greater share of the tax cut should go to families above the $20,000 income level, who would be expected to spend the money in a way that would stimulate the economy.

At a meeting of newspaper publishers, Ford defended his tax proposals. The President added that discussions in Congress of who should receive the rebates has been based too often on political considerations.

In addition to the rebates, the only individual tax relief voted by the House was for families under the $20,000 income level that do not itemize deductions, and then only for the 1975 tax year.

The Senate went much farther, writing many tax cuts into permanent law. And most of the benefits are earmarked for families under the $20,000, especially those with two or more children.

The Senate committee also added a provision to cut by 4 per cent the basic tax rate on the first $4,000 of taxable income, at a cost of $2 billion. This would insure virtually every person who files a tax return a cut of $40 in 1975 and beyond.

Meanwhile, in other economic developments:

—The nation's industrial output declined for the fifth straight month in February, but other government statistics showed that businesses were able to make sharp reductions in their inventories during January, an indication that the recession might be easing.

—Responding to these statistics, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 10.49 points to salvage a 3.37 gain for the week, closing Friday at 773.47.

—The trend toward a lower prime lending rate continued. New York's First National City Bank lowered its rate from 8 per cent to 7¾ per cent.

—Amstar Corp. and Sucrest Corp. both lowered wholesale grocery prices on sugar by four cents per pound, to 41.5 cents per pound. Sucrest and CPC International dropped the price of refined industrial sugars by $5a hundredweight.

The Senate committee's tax bill would allow each taxpayer the option of a $200-per-person tax credit instead of the present $750-per-person exemption that is subtracted from taxable income. This would cost $6.1 billion.

The bill would provide a 5 per cent tax credit, up to $2,000, for every person who buys a house or mobile home as a principal residence between March 13 and Dec. 31, 1975. The cost: $3.2 billion.

Another provision would authorize a refundable tax credit of up to $400 for families below the $8,000 level with children. The House approved a similar tax break, with a maximum credit of $200, for single persons as well as families.

The Senate tax-cut bill would reduce individual income taxes in 1974 and 1975 by $21.2 billion, $5 billion more than the House version.

In an effort to provide a recession-fighting stimulus aimed at reducing the unemployment rolls, the House approved a $3.7-billion tax cut for business. The Senate panel boosted the figure to $8 billion.

Included in the $8 billion is a provision aimed at bailing out financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft, Chrysler Corp. and Pan American World Airways.

Chrysler would receive $150 million in tax refunds as a result of the provision. Lockheed could get $65 million and Pan Am could receive $40 million.

INCOME TAX REDUCTIONS: Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, talks to reporters prior to the panel's hearing in Washington Friday. The Committee later approved a $2 billion reduction in individual income tax rates that would give every taxpayer a $40 savings in his 1975 taxes. (AP Wirephoto)

Report Says Tunnel Blast Not Properly Investigated

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Port Huron tunnel explosion which killed 22 workmen more than three years ago was not properly investigated, a state Labor Department report concluded Friday.

Labor Director Keith Molin also said there was also "a disturbing lack of coordination" between government agencies and private contractors before the explosion.

He recommended creation of a formal state Disaster Investigating Unit to investigate disasters much as the Federal Aeronautics Administration probes airplane crashes.

Gov. William Milliken formed a panel after the tragedy to look into the tunnel blast, but critics have said the state investigation was near worthless.

The labor department's 25page report concluded there was an absence of construction standards relating to drilling which penetrated the tunnel less than two hours before the explosion.

Workers were in the tunnel when drilling operations broke through the tunnel 90 minutes before the explosion.

"It is our opinion that one of the main factors contributing to the lack of factual and accurate information concerning the exact construction activity underway at the time of the explosion and the specific factors which may have contributed to the explosion, was the absence of any formal disaster investigation unit by either federal, state or local agencies," the report concluded.

Said Molin, "Some 39 months after the disaster, no clearcut answers with regard to 'Why?' and 'How do we prevent such an occurrence in the future?' are available,"

The report states there should be a general construction coordinator on projects where several contractors are working at the same time.

The capacity of federal and state inspection agencies should be expanded to insure safety standards are continually monitored, the report said.

The report said that at the tunnel before the explosion, continuous monitoring was the responsibility of the employer and that inspections by govrnment agencies were not broad enough.

The report asserted, however, that the state Labor and Public Health departments "had complied with their obligations" in the investigtion.

Early Tax Refunds

CINCINNATI (AP) — More than $524.6 million already has been refunded to Michigan taxpayers who filed their federal income tax returns at a record early pace, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Roger Plate, IRS director, said 1,132,360 Michigan returns already had been filed through March 7. Last year 778,092 state returns had been filed through the first week of March.

Plate estimated 2.8 million Michigan taxpayers would get refunds this year.

Jury Frees Confessed Killer Of Seven

DETROIT (AP) — A man who Detroit police say is the confessed hired killer of seven persons went free Friday after a jury ruled he is not mentally ill under the state's new Mental Health code. John B. McGee was found innocent by reason of insanity on a second-degree murder charge last summer, and has since been confined to the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry. McGee sought his freedom under a recent ruling by the Michigan Supreme Court which said persons found innocent because of mental illness must be released unless it is proved that the person is both mentally ill and a danger to himself or others. The jury ruled after 10 days' hearing that the 27-year-old McGee was not insane under that definition.

McGee's attorney, Shelden Halperin, had argued that the prosecutor had not provided "clear and convincing evidence," of any illness or that McGee was now dangerous. Said Dr. Ames Roby, director of the state hospital in Ypsilanti, "Oh Christ. I can't think of many people that we've had here that are apparently more dangerous than he is, but who am I to argue with the wisdom of a jury?" The verdict was delivered by a jury of six persons in Wayne County Probate Court after five hours delibertion. McGee was granted immunity by Recorder's Court Judge Clarence Lasker last June, according to police records, then McGee listed the names of the people he killed and the weapons he used.

Police said McGee told officers he was paid between $1,000 and $1,500 for the homicides, but he would not identify who paid him. Lasker said his intention was to commit McGee to the state mental hospital "for a long, long time—forever. "There's no way I want this guy out on the street," the judge said. "He's dangerous." McGee's lawyer would not discuss the killings his client had apparently confessed to, declaring that it would violate Lasker's immunity order.

Lasker said last week he offered McGee immunity before the Supreme Court ruling on insanity commitments and had no idea McGee could qualify for freedom so soon.

McGee, who officials said was one of 270 persons affected by the Supreme Court ruling, may begin work as a maintenance man or go back to school, his attorney said.

Visting Probate Judge Charles Simon rejected a plea by assistant Wayne County prosecutor Avery Weiswasser that he grant a "judgment not withstnding verdict" that McGee remain in custody of state mental health authorities. Weiswasser said he does not expect to appeal the decision. "I assign complete judicial misconduct to our Supreme Court," he said in a statement to the Probate Court, "for its inept and incompetent decision."

Hunt For Patty Shifts Westward

leads for investigators.

But Washington sources told The Associated Press the Pennsylvania hideout was a "cold trail" and the investigation was now focusing on Las Vegas, among other areas.

"We've gone into new areas of inquiry," said San Francisco FBI agent Thomas Druken.

The Chicago Tribune said today that the the trail has led the FBI from Las Vegas to Palm Springs, Calif., to the San Francisco area. The San Francisco Chronicle said the FBI had alerted border patrols in the San Diego area Friday to watch for Miss Hearst.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said in San Francisco that the grand jury investigating the Hearst case would hear testimony on Thursday.

"We are coordinating with authorities in Pennsylvania. There is a mutual understanding of what is going on because it is interrelated," he said.

John J. Scott, an apartment manager in Las Vegas who testified before the panel March 6, will appear as a witness, according to lawyer Charles Garry, who had represented Scott's son, Jack.

The present whereabouts of Jack Scott, former athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio and a critic of the sports establishment, and his wife, Micki, are unknown.

Sources have said the Scott couple, who recently lived at pro basketball star Bill Walton's house in West Linn, Ore., are being sought for questioning about the farmhouse hideout by another grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa.

The Washington Post said today that when two FBI agents came to John Scott's home on Feb. 26 to serve the subpoena for his testimony, his son was sitting in the room.

The Post quoted the elder Scott as saying the agents saw his son, but asked no questions; they simply served the subpoena and left.

The Post story continued, "Two days later, Scott said, the same FBI agents showed up at his apartment again and asked him, 'Do you know where your son is?'

"'I told them he was sitting here on Wednesday,' Scott recalled. 'Their faces turned white and red.'"

The FBI declined to comment on the Post story.

The New York Times said today that Jack Scott had called the newspaper and implied he knew something of Miss Hearst's activities since she was listed as a fugitive last June. He also told the Times he had been summoned to appear before the San Francisco grand jury.

The Chronicle quoted two sources as saying Jack Scott evaded an FBI car during an FBI chase down a mainstreet in Berkeley, Calif., last week. The FBI declined comment on the report.

Doron Weinberg, the elder Scott's attorney, said, "he (Jack) is believed by the government to have seen Patty after the shootout."

Weinberg referred to a May 17, 1974, gun battle in Los Angeles between police and members of the Symbionese Liberation Army. Six SLA members were killed in the firefight.

Computer Is Cranky

$128,000 a month, department sources said.

Michigan already is scheduled to lose $5.4 million in federal welfare funds for the last three months of this fiscal year because of high error rates and could lose $32 million if errors persist, legislative sources say.

The federal error "tolerance" is three per cent for ineligible cases and five per cent for overpayments and underpayments. Studies show that 7.8 per cent of persons getting Aid To Families With Dependent Children in Michigan were ineligible, legislative sources said.

Another 27.9 per cent were overpaid, and 8.2 per cent were underpaid, the sources said.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Bridgman Men Tell Of Attack After SJ High School Dance

Twelve young men from the Bridgman area told St. Joseph police they were victims of a two-phased assault by a gang of six or eight other young men following a dance at St. Joseph high school late Friday night.

Phase one allegedly consisted of being sworn at and then chased while on foot by the assailants in an auto through the parking lot of the high school. No one was injured.

Phase two occurred on Lakeview at Wallace, where six of the 12 Bridgman youths were in a station wagon stopped for a traffic light. The assailants allegedly pulled up behind, got out and damaged the station wagon. A window was reported broken by a tire iron and a door was reported kicked in by feet.

Police said one of the 12, Frederick Fillwork, III, Woodland Hills, Bridgman, received a cut left hand from broken window glass.

The six in the station wagon and their friends in a second vehicle drove from the scene to the police station about 11:35 p.m.

The assailants, including six or eight young men, were reported driving a red car, with the rear end jacked up. The victims said they did not know them and did nothing to provoke a fight.

Joining Fillwork at police headquarters were his companions. Allen King, David Hartzler, Steve Meyer, Heinz Zemke, Mike Baugher, Tom Merridith, John Mathias, Robert Lakey, Howard Mutz, Gary Stama, and Mike Miller. Their ages were not listed. Police estimated damage to the station wagon to be over $100.

State police from the Benton Harbor post Friday night arrested two Chicago men after troopers confiscated a bag of suspected marijuana from a car stopped on I-94, Lincoln township.

Booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana) were Cecil Benton, 19, and Melvin D. Robertson, 21. Troopers stated they stopped the car after seeing occupants drinking from what appeared to be beer cans. Beer was reported found in the auto.

J.B. Smith told Benton Harbor police Friday a television set was stolen from his apartment, 426½ Territorial road.

Club Still Dribbling Toward Sunday Goal

There weren't very many fast breaks, but some 40 members of the Lakeshore high school Key club were still playing basketball this morning in a marathon that started at 2:15 p.m. Friday. Jim Stancik of the Key club said the goal is 50 hours of continuous basketball ending at 4 p.m. Sunday. He said he understands the world record for a basketball marathon is 44 hours. Proceeds of the marathon will go to the Easter Seal campaign. Stancik said the Key club obtained pledges and is also accepting donations for the marathon at Lakeshore high school gym. The schedule called for the members of the two Key club teams to play two hours, then take a four-hour break, Stancik said.

Actress Dies Of Tumor On Brain

in 1949.

Her most recent roles were two television movies. She played a lawyer in "Heat of Anger" for CBS and a doctor in "Say Goodbye Maggie Cole" for ABC

A 1971 role in "The Revengers" with William Holden was her last motion picture.

Her other late films were "Valley of the Dolls" and "The Honey Pot" in 1967 and "Where Love Has Gone" in 1964.

Miss Hayward was born Edythe Marrener on June 20, 1919, in Brooklyn. She worked as a New York model and first caught the eye of the late David O. Selznick when she appeared on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post in 1939.

Selznick brought her to Hollywood for a screen test. He didn't hire her, but she stayed anyway, reportedly because she liked the orange trees.

Though she lost in her bid for the part of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," she soon became a major star.

She had twin sons, Gregory and Timothy, by her first husband, Jess Barker. Her second husband, Eaton Chalkley, died in 1966.

Survivors include the two sons, a grandson and a granddaughter.

Miss Hayward will be buried Monday at Carrollton, Ga., where she lived while married to Chalkley, a businessman-lawyer.

Official's Tickets Dismissed

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Five parking tickets issued Berrien Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher have been dismissed by Berrien Fifth District court at the request of the Benton Harbor police department and Benton Harbor city Atty. Carl Cooper.

A note from Cooper saying the 1970 parking tickets were "...all over five years old and unserviceable," accompanied the warrants sent to the court.

Fulcher, as part of his job, is in constant contact with police officers from Benton Harbor.

Cooper said later that he asked the court to dismiss the cases at the request of Benton Harbor police.

The warrants were issued after Fulcher allegedly failed to pay the parking ticket fines.

Benton Harbor Lt. Harry Lenardson reported that he is the officer who requested the dismissal of the warrants. Lenardson said the warrants against Fulcher are among dozens being dismissed by Benton Harbor police in an attempt to "clear out the files." District court records indicate this is true.

Asked why the warrants weren't served, the lieutenant exclaimed: "Warrants that old? Hell, I wouldn't even tell a guy about it." Fulcher did not ask police to drop the warrants, he added.

Lenardson conceded, however, that "we should have served him (with the warrants) a long time ago, but we didn't."

Police usually don't bother to serve any parking warrants that are over three years old, according to Cooper and other police.

One of Fulcher's tickets was for parking on a tree lawn the other four were for overnight parking. All were issued in Benton Harbor by city police.

ping in Gary," so he and Lacy got into Howard's car and went to Marshall's apartment in St. Joseph.

On the way, Lacy gave Howard $50. "I didn't want to take the money," Howard testified.

At the apartment, Marshall brought out Howard's gun and gave it to Howard. "When I gave it to them it had six bullets," Howard said from the witness stand, "and when I got it back it didn't have any."

Earlier in the trial, experts from the state police crime lab testified bullets that killed Govatos came from a .38 caliber revolver.

All three were in his car headed to Gary, with Howard driving, Lacy in the front seat, and Marshall in back.

Lacy: "I told you you should have been with us."

Marshall: "Yeah, you could have really had yourself something. You could've had a knit (bankroll)."

Lacy: "Boy, we really did that guy in."

Marshall: "Yeah, we really did."

Marshall then told Lacy that Howard deserved another $50 because he knew about what happened. Howard said he again "didn't want to" take the money.

Howard testified that Lacy said: "What we did to that guy last night we both deserve to go to jail."

From the stand, Howard testified that while Lacy was "talking about doin' the guy in, Marshall was makin' motions with his hand like he was shooting a guy." Then, Howard said, Marshall and Lacy gave each other "the play" where the two slap each others' outstretched palms.

They did some shopping in a mall in Gary, Howard testified, and purchased clothing. Back in the car, "there wasn't no more said about what happened," he testified.

When they returned to Benton Harbor, they split up.

On Monday, he said he read in the paper what had happened, and gave the .38 to his landlord. When he was picked up by the police shortly thereafter, he said he went to his landlord's and "got the gun for the police."

Lacy's defense counsel, Atty. James Ford of Benton Harbor, said he expects to cross-examine Howard in great detail when the trial resumes Tuesday.

Jury Frees Confessed Killer Of Seven

DETROIT (AP) — A man who Detroit police say is the confessed hired killer of seven persons went free Friday after a jury ruled he is not mentally ill under the state's new Mental Health code. John B. McGes was found innocent by reason of insanity on a second-degree murder charge last summer, and has since been confined to the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry. McGee sought his freedom under a recent ruling by the Michigan Supreme Court which said persons found innocent because of mental illness must be released unless it is proved that the person is both mentally ill and a danger to himself or others. The jury ruled after 10 days' hearing that the 27-year-old McGee was not insane under that definition.

McGee's attorney, Shelden Halperin, had argued that the prosecutor had not provided "clear and convincing evidence," of any illness or that McGee was now dangerous. Said Dr. Ames Roby, director of the state hospital in Ypsilanti, "Oh Christ. I can't think of many people that we've had here that are apparently more dangerous than he is, but who am I to argue with the wisdom of a jury?" The verdict was delivered by a jury of six persons in Wayne County Probate Court after five hours delibertion. McGee was granted immunity by Recorder's Court Judge Clarence Lasker last June, according to police records, then McGee listed the names of the people he killed and the weapons he used.

Police said McGee told officers he was paid between $1,000 and $1,500 for the homicides, but he would not identify who paid him. Lasker said his intention was to commit McGee to the state mental hospital "for a long, long time—forever. "There's no way I want this guy out on the street," the judge said. "He's dangerous." McGee's lawyer would not discuss the killings his client had apparently confessed to, declaring that it would violate Lasker's immunity order.

Lasker said last week he offered McGee immunity before the Supreme Court ruling on insanity commitments and had no idea McGee could qualify for freedom so soon.

McGee, who officials said was one of 270 persons affected by the Supreme Court ruling, may begin work as a maintenance man or go back to school, his attorney said.

Visting Probate Judge Charles Simon rejected a plea by assistant Wayne County prosecutor Avery Weiswasser that he grant a "judgment not withstnding verdict" that McGee remain in custody of state mental health authorities. Weiswasser said he does not expect to appeal the decision. "I assign complete judicial misconduct to our Supreme Court," he said in a statement to the Probate Court, "for its inept and incompetent decision."

leads for investigators.

But Washington sources told The Associated Press the Pennsylvania hideout was a "cold trail" and the investigation was now focusing on Las Vegas, among other areas.

"We've gone into new areas of inquiry," said San Francisco FBI agent Thomas Druken.

The Chicago Tribune said today that the the trail has led the FBI from Las Vegas to Palm Springs, Calif., to the San Francisco area. The San Francisco Chronicle said the FBI had alerted border patrols in the San Diego area Friday to watch for Miss Hearst.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said in San Francisco that the grand jury investigating the Hearst case would hear testimony on Thursday.

"We are coordinating with authorities in Pennsylvania. There is a mutual understanding of what is going on because it is interrelated," he said.

John J. Scott, an apartment manager in Las Vegas who testified before the panel March 6, will appear as a witness, according to lawyer Charles Garry, who had represented Scott's son, Jack.

The present whereabouts of Jack Scott, former athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio and a critic of the sports establishment, and his wife, Micki, are unknown.

Sources have said the Scott couple, who recently lived at pro basketball star Bill Walton's house in West Linn, Ore., are being sought for questioning about the farmhouse hideout by another grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa.

The Washington Post said today that when two FBI agents came to John Scott's home on Feb. 26 to serve the subpoena for his testimony, his son was sitting in the room.

The Post quoted the elder Scott as saying the agents saw his son, but asked no questions; they simply served the subpoena and left.

The Post story continued, "Two days later, Scott said, the same FBI agents showed up at his apartment again and asked him, 'Do you know where your son is?'

"'I told them he was sitting here on Wednesday,' Scott recalled. 'Their faces turned white and red.'"

The FBI declined to comment on the Post story.

The New York Times said today that Jack Scott had called the newspaper and implied he knew something of Miss Hearst's activities since she was listed as a fugitive last June. He also told the Times he had been summoned to appear before the San Francisco grand jury.

The Chronicle quoted two sources as saying Jack Scott evaded an FBI car during an FBI chase down a mainstreet in Berkeley, Calif., last week. The FBI declined comment on the report.

Doron Weinberg, the elder Scott's attorney, said, "he (Jack) is believed by the government to have seen Patty after the shootout."

Weinberg referred to a May 17, 1974, gun battle in Los Angeles between police and members of the Symbionese Liberation Army. Six SLA members were killed in the firefight.

$128,000 a month, department sources said.

Michigan already is scheduled to lose $5.4 million in federal welfare funds for the last three months of this fiscal year because of high error rates and could lose $32 million if errors persist, legislative sources say.

The federal error "tolerance' is three per cent for ineligible cases and five per cent for overpayments and underpayments. Studies show that 7.8 per cent of persons getting Aid To Families With Dependent Children in Michigan were ineligible, legislative sources said.

Another 27.9 per cent were overpaid, and 8.2 per cent were underpaid, the sources said.

in 1949.

Her most recent roles were two television movies. She played a lawyer in "Heat of Anger" for CBS and a doctor in "Say Goodbye Maggie Cole" for ABC

A 1971 role in "The Revengers" with William Holden was her last motion picture.

Her other late films were "Valley of the Dolls" and "The Honey Pot" in 1967 and "Where Love Has Gone" in 1964.

Miss Hayward was born Edythe Marrener on June 20, 1919, in Brooklyn. She worked as a New York model and first caught the eye of the late David O. Selznick when she appeared on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post in 1939.

Selznick brought her to Hollywood for a screen test. He didn't hire her, but she stayed anyway, reportedly because she liked the orange trees.

Though she lost in her bid for the part of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," she soon became a major star.

She had twin sons, Gregory and Timothy, by her first husband, Jess Barker. Her second husband, Eaton Chalkley, died in 1966.

Survivors include the two sons, a grandson and a granddaughter.

Miss Hayward will be buried Monday at Carrollton, Ga., where she lived while married to Chalkley, a businessman-lawyer.

Official's Tickets Dismissed

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Five parking tickets issued Berrien Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher have been dismissed by Berrien Fifth District court at the request of the Benton Harbor police department and Benton Harbor city Atty. Carl Cooper.

A note from Cooper saying the 1970 parking tickets were "...all over five years old and unserviceable," accompanied the warrants sent to the court.

Fulcher, as part of his job, is in constant contact with police officers from Benton Harbor.

Cooper said later that he asked the court to dismiss the cases at the request of Benton Harbor police.

The warrants were issued after Fulcher allegedly failed to pay the parking ticket fines.

Benton Harbor Lt. Harry Lenardson reported that he is the officer who requested the dismissal of the warrants. Lenardson said the warrants against Fulcher are among dozens being dismissed by Benton Harbor police in an attempt to "clear out the files." District court records indicate this is true.

Asked why the warrants weren't served, the lieutenant exclaimed: "Warrants that old? Hell, I wouldn't even tell a guy about it." Fulcher did not ask police to drop the warrants, he added.

Lenardson conceded, however, that "we should have served him (with the warrants) a long time ago, but we didn't."

Police usually don't bother to serve any parking warrants that are over three years old, according to Cooper and other police.

One of Fulcher's tickets was for parking on a tree lawn the other four were for overnight parking. All were issued in Benton Harbor by city police.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Bridgman Men Tell Of Attack After SJ High School Dance

Twelve young men from the Bridgman area told St. Joseph police they were victims of a two-phased assault by a gang of six or eight other young men following a dance at St. Joseph high school late Friday night.

Phase one allegedly consisted of being sworn at and then chased while on foot by the assailants in an auto through the parking lot of the high school. No one was injured.

Phase two occurred on Lakeview at Wallace, where six of the 12 Bridgman youths were in a station wagon stopped for a traffic light. The assailants allegedly pulled up behind, got out and damaged the station wagon. A window was reported broken by a tire iron and a door was reported kicked in by feet.

Police said one of the 12, Frederick Fillwork, III, Woodland Hills, Bridgman, received a cut left hand from broken window glass.

The six in the station wagon and their friends in a second vehicle drove from the scene to the police station about 11:35 p.m.

The assailants, including six or eight young men, were reported driving a red car, with the rear end jacked up. The victims said they did not know them and did nothing to provoke a fight.

Joining Fillwork at police headquarters were his companions, Allen King, David Hartzler, Steve Meyer, Heinz Zemke, Mike Baugher, Tom Merridith, John Mathias, Robert Lakey, Howard Mutz, Gary Stama, and Mike Miller. Their ages were not listed. Police estimated damage to the station wagon to be over $100.

State police from the Benton Harbor post Friday night arrested two Chicago men after troopers confiscated a bag of suspected marijuana from a car stopped on I-94, Lincoln township.

Booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana) were Cecil Benton, 19, and Melvin D. Robertson, 21. Troopers stated they stopped the car after seeing occupants drinking from what appeared to be beer cans. Beer was reported found in the auto.

J.B. Smith told Benton Harbor police Friday a television set was stolen from his apartment, 426½ Territorial road.

Club Still Dribbling Toward Sunday Goal

There weren't very many fast breaks, but some 40 members of the Lakeshore high school Key club were still playing basketball this morning in a marathon that started at 2:15 p.m. Friday. Jim Stancik of the Key club said the goal is 50 hours of continuous basketball ending at 4 p.m. Sunday. He said he understands the world record for a basketball marathon is 44 hours. Proceeds of the marathon will go to the Easter Seal campaign. Stancik said the Key club obtained pledges and is also accepting donations for the marathon at Lakeshore high school gym. The schedule called for the members of the two Key club teams to play two hours, then take a four-hour break, Stancik said.

4-Mill School Renewal Sought

Coloma Tax Vote Monday

COLOMA — Coloma school district voters Monday will be asked to renew a three year four-mill property tax levy for school operations in a special election. The four mills represents $220,000 yearly for operational expenses of the district, according to school officials. The district's current budget is $3.3 million. The previous levy expired with the last tax collection. The district levied 27.277 mills in 1974, including the four mills asked to be renewed Monday by the school board. Of the total 27.277 mills levy, 3.9 mills is earmarked for debt retirement, funds which cannot be used for school operations. Failure to renew the four-mill property tax levy, will result with a loss of operating monies for the district including state aid funds which augment the overall school district budget income. Combined with local income the loss would total $500,000, if the issue is defeated.

Last August, the Coloma school board approved a reduction in the district's debt retirement millage rate of 2.3 mills, from 6.2 mills to the current 3.9 mill debt levy.

The reduction lowered the total tax millage rate from 29.577 to 27.277.

Air Pioneer Says Plane's Big Asset Is 'Togetherness'

By NORRIS INGELLS
Lansing State Journal

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An aviation pioneer whose pilot's license was signed by Orville Wright agrees that airplanes have been powerful tools for both good and evil.

But in the 72 years that they have been around, says Talbert "Ted" Abrams of Lansing, the good has far outweighed the evil.

Abrams has been putting aircraft to work on all kinds of jobs since Orville Wright signed his pilot's license back in 1918. And he says the greatest good is the plane's ability to make it easy for people all over the world to get together.

"The good of knowing people — the ability to get acquainted with people — can solve most difficulties," the 79-year-old Lansing aerial photography innovator observed recently.

"It's a great human emotion just to get to know somebody. With the airplane you can travel so easily and quickly that many people will go who would not go otherwise," Abrams said.

It's hard to dislike someone when you're in a face-to-face situation, he said, recalling a story about two men talking about a third:

"When I get ahold of Olaf, I'm going to punch him right in the mouth and make him sing," the first man says to the second.

Then around the corner comes Olaf.

"Oh, hello Olaf. How are you today?" says the first man, his anger controlled.

"Ted" and his wife, Leota, have traveled to nearly 100 different countries, and he borrowed a line from Will Rogers to describe his experiences.

"I never knew a person I didn't like," he said, adding with a laugh:

"Some of them gave me a hard time, but that never discouraged me."

Abrams was one of the first Americans to visit the Soviet Union when the "Cold War" began to thaw a little, and he is optimistic the U.S. eventually will work out its differences with the Russians.

"The one thing that will keep the differences going will be the politicians," he observed.

"Think of all the wars we've had. Most of them were unnecessary. And who started them? The politicians," he said.

Abrams soloed as a young Marine Corps pilot in 1918, only 15 years after the Wright Brothers' first flight.

But a bigger turning point came several years later when he borrowed a camera from a news photographer to take some air views of a race track.

"I think they gave us 10 bucks or so for the picture," he recalled.

The incident launched him on a career that eventually led many to call him the "father of aerial photography"—a label he shuns.

"Sometimes," he said, "there are so many people working on an idea that you don't know who the father is."

Abrams is proud of the past accomplishments of the industry in which he pioneered, but he is just as interested in its future.

"You can almost predict the complete obsolescence of photographic film 'as such' for image recording," he said. "It will all become electronic. We already have it with remote sensing, but we don't quite get the quality yet." Electronic photography, Abrams said, will provide a whole new family of things.

"It will let us use all segments of the spectrum," he explained.

Abrams' office at the Abrams Aerial Survey Corp. in Lansing is filled with the memorabilia of nearly six decades in aviation, from his early years as a Marine Corps and U.S. Air Mail pilot, on up to his 1973 installation in an "Aviation Hall of Fame," where he joined such notables as Jimmy Doolittle, Eddie Rickenbacker, Admiral Richard Byrd and Amelia Earhart.

There's a mountain in the Antarctic named after him, commemorating his participation in "Operation Deep Freeze" polar research in the mid-1960's.

His work in photogrammetry has brought him many honors, and his company has carried out aerial mapping projects all over the hemisphere.

Having played an important role in aviation's past, Abrams may be in a good position to speculate about its future. He was asked to predict where aerospace development will be by the time the nation celebrates its 300th birthday.

"Wouldn't it be great to know?" he replied. "I expect before 100 years have gone by we will have found intelligent life on some other planet — not in our solar system but in some other similar one."

He also see researchers nearing a breakthrough on what science fiction buffs call an antigravity system.

"Sooner or later, we will come up with a gadget that will overcome the forces of gravity. This will make obsolete the auto industry and other transportation industries as we know them today," he said.

Predicting the future of aerospace isn't as difficult as you might think, Abrams said.

He recalled that back in the 1920s, Popular Mechanics magazine published a drawing of a multidecked, multiengined plane that was supposed to show what the airliner of the future would look like.

Abrams was so impressed, he copied the drawing to use on the business card for his Eaton Rapids-based, "ABC (Always Be Careful) Airlines."

Fishing in his wallet, he pulled out one of the cards.

"This is what we thought we were coming to, and you'll notice that picture is pretty close to what a Boeing 747 jumbo jet is like. So our guessing was not too far wrong," he observed.

As he nears his 80th year, Abrams is optimistic about the industry in which he played a pioneering role.

"We're not going to quit," he said. "We will go to the planets."

Michigan Officials Clash Over Parole

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan officials again are disagreeing over letting convicts reform in communities or remain behind bars for longer periods.

Michigan is thought to have a liberal parole system with a philosophy to meld prison inmates with outside populations as quickly as safety will permit. That means about 4,000 convicts are put back on the streets each year under a program the state Corrections Department defends and law enforcement officials have criticized.

A number of local law enforcement officials contend that while the policy is trimming prison populations, it is loading their jails and in some cases endangering law-abiding citizens. Some county prosecutors and circuit court judges question if perhaps the parole board has too much authority.

"We feel we are one of the more liberal boards in the country. We are parole minded," says Donald Thurston, a member of the five-man parole board which determines when the door is unlocked for inmates. The board probably better serves the public by returning inmates to society before they harden to a life of crime behind bars, Thurston contends.

The board grants about 40 per cent of the some 10,000 requested each year, he says. About 75 per cent of first offenders win parole after serving minimum terms, less time off for good behavior, he says.

Currently, corrections officials estimate there are between 80,000 and 100,000 persons in Michigan either on parole now or who have been in the past. Some 21,510 persons in the state are now on active parole, probation or in a state penal institution, says William Grant, administrative assistant to Corrections Director Perry Johnson.

Latest figures show 8,742 inmates in penal institutions, down from a peak of 10,600 in October 1958, when the state had a population of 7.66 million. Michigan's population now is 9.1 million.

A 1973 study of inmates paroled four years earlier showed a 42.9 per cent failure rate, acknowledges William Kine, deputy corrections director for programs. Of these, 15.6 per cent were resentenced for new crimes and 27.3 per cent for technical violations of parole rules, Kine said.

Ingham county Circuit Judge Donald Reisig, a star St. Joseph high school track athlete and a former prosecutor, questions the power of the five-man board to change the judgment of the state's 138 circuit judges.

"The concern we judges have is when we stash someone away we feel is a real danger to society and give him nine to 20, he's out in 3½ years," Reisig says. "In my opinion, they (the board) pay too much attention to his in-custody record and not enough to his out-of-custody record."

Grand Rapids Police Superintendent Robert Anderson, who is president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, says:

"We have experienced people being placed on parole who have repeated, which leads one to believe we do not have an effective evaluation system or we are letting out people who are too great a risk to society."

Despite liberal parole policies in Michigan, Kine and other corrections officials say inmate populations in Michigan's 21 penal institutions probably will hit the 10,000 mark again.

This is due in large part to increases in crime and the harsher sentencing attitude of judges, many of whom are reacting to public clamor for stiffer penalties.

"All of a sudden, judges are really giving the whammy. I would guess minimum terms are going up a year per man," Thurston says. "Everybody, all of us, are frustrated by new crime. But I don't think we'd be serving the people of the state by saying let's forget parole.

"Who is to say that it's going to take umpteen months for an individual to adjust. The rate of recividism on special paroles is considerably less," Thurston says.

Corrections Department Director Johnson said recently that state prison facilities are nearing an explosive stage because of imminent overcrowding and urged judges to impose "increased but responsible" probation rather than prison sentences on certain offenders.

Watervliet Eyes Costs Of Water For Garage

WATERVLIET — Watervliet city officials are studying costs involved in providing water lines to the city's $25,836 maintenance garage, built two years ago.

The garage, constructed on the site of a former dump off Butternut street, has no water service, preventing use of garage's restroom, shower facilities, and hot water tank to wash city equipment.

No city water mains are located along the road and installation of a water line could cost in excess of $6,000, including a new fire hydrant, according to Don Muth, city administrator

'Pirating' Of Bills Irks Republicans

By MARY SCHEIER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In the State Capitol, pride of authorship and bruised feelings are sometimes as important as debates on the merits of bills.

This past week Republicans accused the Democratic majority of pirating verbatim bills Republicans failed to get passed last session.

Democrats are slapping their own names on old GOP bills and taking credit for legislation someone else thought of first, Republicans claim.

It just isn't true, Democrats reply.

The animosity surfaced a few days ago when the House passed a bill requiring school districts to provide employment counseling and job placement service for high school students.

The bill that passed was introduced by Democratic Rep. Lucille McCollough of Dearborn. But Republicans hooted that an identical version was introduced last year by Rep. Melvin Larsen, R-Oxford.

To assure their wounded feelings got attention, Republicans moved that the bill be christened the "Larsen-McCollough Employment Counseling Act' after it was passed.

"Both of these representatives have worked hard on this bill. This was Rep. Larsen's bill last term," said Minority Floor Lea er William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe.

Democrat McCollough introduced a similar, but unsuccessful, bill last year. When she saw that Larsen's appeared capable of winning support in the long run, she introduced a carbon copy of his this year, Republicans charged.

"I introduced this bill last year," she countered. "I reintroduced it this year. He (Larsen) introduced his bill last year after I introduced mine.

"I'm willing to open the board to all members who want to be cosponsors of the bill," she added, her voice quavering with indignation. "But let's not waste time on this fun resolution, especially when the person in question has given us little problems on the floor all day."

Prior to the bill's passage, Larsen offered five separate amendments which the House defeated after lengthy debate.

At first it looked as though House Appropriations Committee Chairman Dominic Jacobetti was wastefully tossing out several boxes of outdated brochures recounting his legislative career and describing how state government works. The brochures were printed at taxpayer expense — about $90 for 5,000 — and the boxes stacked outside his State Capitol office strongly suggested they were headed for the furnace.

"No. No. That's not it at all," said Ken Dorman, Jacobetti's goateed staff assistant. "We just ran out of storage space inside the office so we put them out there. I think it would be foolish to reprint them because the information is pretty much the same."

Allen Ready To Honor 'Contract' With White Sox

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's on first? Dick Allen. Well, if you see him there, don't be surprised.

The controversial slugger has reversed his field and wants to get back into baseball with the Chicago White Sox, says a close friend, but the situation is just as confusing as the old Abbott and Costello routine.

Clem Capozzoli, an associate of Allen's since he played with the Philadelphia Phillies in the early 1960s, said Friday that Allen is ready to honor his "contract" with the White Sox.

Of course there may be a problem there. The White Sox don't have his contract anymore. They sold it to the Atlanta Braves when Allen announced his retirement from baseball at the end of last season.

Since then, Allen's name has been a warm hot stove topic.

He flatly refused the Braves' offer to join them, announcing that he was forever through with baseball. Meanwhile, there was a movement afoot by Philadelphia Phillie players to bring him back to his old team.

All through the winter, Allen played the role of the shrinking violet. Until Friday, that is, when his apparent feelings were revealed by Capozzoli.

"Richie signed that multiyear pact (with the White Sox) in good faith and he thinks they're obliged to honor it," said Capozzoli. "If they don't, he'll probably wait 30 days or so and file a suit. He's being denied a chance to earn a living. Richie hasn't been paying much attention to all that talk about coming back to the Phillies. He feels the White Sox have a moral obligation to him."

While Allen was rumored to be trying a comeback, the other boys of summer continued to go through their spring paces. Ten games were played in spring training Friday.

The Texas Rangers whipped the Kansas City Royals 7-2; the Montreal Expos beat the Minnesota Twins 4-1; the Detroit Tigers blanked the Phillies 2-0; the Boston Red Sox stopped the Chunichi Dragons 6-3; the Tokyo Giants defeated the Houston Astros 5-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the New York Yankees 8-7; the Cincinnati Reds outscored the White Sox 9-7; the California Angels routed the San Diego Padres 7-1 and the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Atlanta Braves 7-6.

Three games were rained out Friday — Milwaukee-San Francisco; New York Mets-St. Louis and Oakland-Chicago Cubs.

Ferguson Jenkins showed no effects of a recent sore arm, pitching two painless one-hit innings as Texas beat Kansas City. Gary Carter tripled home two runs and scored a third in the 13th inning to lead Montreal over Minnesota. Ron LeFlore hit a two-run homer and a trio of Detroit pitchers held Philadelphia to just three hits as the Tigers beat the Phillies.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs, drilled his first exhibition homer and also had two singles as Boston defeated Chunichi. Takeshi Ueda knocked in three runs with a wind-blown single in the fourth inning as the Tokyo Giants beat Houston in a game called in the eighth inning because of rain.

Tom Paciorek and Willie Crawford belted home runs and Rick Auerbach capped a four-run sixth inning outburst with a two-run single, leading Los Angeles past the Yankees. Roger Freed's two-run double in the 11th inning powered Cincinnati over Chicago in a rain-delayed game. Bill Singer pitched three innings of one-hit ball for California. Doug DeCines hit a leadoff home run in the 11th inning to give Baltimore its victory over Atlanta.

14th-Rated St. Florian Averages 6-4

Cass Facing 'Tall' Order

Cassopolis faces a "tall" order tonight when the Rangers resume their quest for the state championship.

The Rangers will be meeting a Hamtramck St. Florian club which averages almost 6-4 at 7 p.m. in the Class C semifinals at the Lansing Civic Center.

The St. Florian front line goes 6-7, 6-5, 6-4 with 6-7 center Kevin Williams one of the top Class C players in the state.

The Hamtramck school (21-4), which was co-champ in the C-D division of the tough Detroit Catholic league, will hold a decided height edge against the Rangers (who average 6-3 up front) but that could be meaningless if Cass continues its scorching outside shooting.

"Running and good shooting have carried us this far and that's what we'll be depending upon again Saturday night," offers Cass mentor Bob Follett. "I would say the key in our fine shooting is taking good shots, finding the open man and playing well together as a team. We've had other kids at Cass who were just as good shooters as we have now but this group just plays great team ball.

"Our kids play ball together all the time... noon hour, all summer and if the gym was open til midnight they'd be playing."

Cass is averaging 80.7 points in six tournament games while hitting at almost a 50 per cent clip from the field.

The Rangers, who hit 51 per cent in the quarterfinals against Muskegon Christian, have all five starters in twin figures in tourney action. Roger Walters heads the group at 24.0, Gary Young 16.8, Mark Scott 11.3, Bill Dungey 10.8 and Kevin Loder 10.5.

THE WORLD OF Sports

St. Florian will counter with its star center and a fine supporting cast.

Williams is averaging 20.8 points a game, 16.7 rebounds and five blocked shots. The junior is fresh from an awesome effort against East Jackson in the quarterfinals where he netted 37 points (17 of 29 afield), carried away 13 rebounds and swatted away four shots.

Rounding out the St. Florian line-up are forwards Randy Hartfelder (9.0 average) and Dave Orbaczewski (10.0 points) and guards Terry Brunetti (10.0 points) and Gary Radtke (8.0 points).

"Williams is the big man for us in the middle but Radtke is our best defensive player," offers St. Florian coach Joseph Zabrzenski. "Radtke has done a heck of a job...he always guards the other team's best ball player.

"Our offense and defense are geared to what kind of team we're playing. We heard Cass has some very fine outside shooters...so that will be a key to shut down their break and shooters."

St. Florian, which went 10-11 last year, with its win Thursday became the school's first team to go as far as the semifinals.

"We didn't scout them but I know they have a big 6-7 kid," voices Follett. "I think maybe though we have some speed that they don't.

"And Young plays bigger than his 6-4. I think he's one of the best leapers around. We'd like to keep Young out of foul trouble but I think we're capable of keeping our poise even when he's on the bench...it's just a matter of finding the right man."

Follett thinks the Rangers' 85-83 win over perennial tourney power Muskegon Christian was a big confidence builder.

"We really picked up some confidence beating Christian...before we thought we could win but we also had a lot of doubts. Now we have the feeling we can beat anybody."

The Rangers, who will take a nine-game winning string into the contest, were rated 7th in the final poll while St. Florian finished 14th.

The winner of Saturday night's game will advance to the state finals the following Saturday against the winner of Saturday's Bay City All Saints-Negaunee contest.

State Prep Basketball Semifinals Today

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Momentum" often is an overworked phrase in sports jargon, but Plymouth Salem Coach Fred Thomann believes in momentum, and it's hard to argue with his results.

Thomann, who coached Willow Run to the Class B state basketball title a couple years ago, now has his Salem quintet on target for the 1975 Class A crown.

Salem (23-2) meets Flint Northwestern (19-6) at Michigan State University's Jenison Fieldhouse in one of eight prep semifinal games today.

"We wanted to improve a little each week, and that's what we've been doing," Thomann said after his club dumped Pontiac Central, 70-56, in Thursday's quarterfinals.

Despite its respectable record, Salem was unheralded as the 1975 version of "March Madness" unfolded. The team was ranked 14th in the final Associated Press regular season poll.

"Everybody's been playing well in the tournament," Thomann said. "Our big men have been doing the job, and so have our guards. I'm really excited about being one of the four teams left."

But sixth-ranked Highland Park (21-3) has momentum of its own after the Parkers' stunning 84-55 upset of No. 2 Berkley in the quarterfinals. The Parkers face Dearborn Fordson (22-4) today at MSU. Fordson is at full steam after dumping No. 4 Lansing Everett.

The Class B semifinals feature three superpowers and Mount Pleasant, a club that seems to be just finding itself. The Oilers (18-7) have left a trail of broken hearts thus far in tournament play. They meet No. 4 Wyoming Godwin Heights (25-1) in the semis at MSU.

The other Class B semifinal matchup features a pair of free-wheelers, third-ranked Jackson Lumen Christi (23-3) and Lake Odessa Lakewood (24-1) also at Jenison Fieldhouse.

Even momentum may not be enough in the Class C title chase. Bay City All Saints won the title last year, and the No. 1 Cougars (25-1) appear unstoppable in their quest for a second. All Saints meets a surprising Negaunee (21-4) in semifinal play at Traverse City.

Hamtramck St. Florian (21-4) is the Class C club with momentum at the moment, but Coach Joe Zabrzenski's club first has to get past No. 7 Cassopolis (23-3) at Lansing Civic Center if it wants a shot at All Saints.

"I feel as if we can beat anybody," Zabrzenski said. "When you get this far, it doesn't pay to get choosy."

The hottest team in Class D currently is another Upper Peninsula quintet, Crystal Falls Forest Park (23-3). They face Allendale (17-8) at Cheboygan, while No. 1 Detroit East Catholic (22-4) tangles with a determined 10th-ranked Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart (22-3) at Frankenmuth.

Ali Planning June 8 Soldier Field Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali will defend his title against England's Joe Bugner in Chicago on June 8 if Ali defeats underdog Chuck Wepner, The Associated Press learned today.

A source told The AP that contracts have been signed for an outdoor fight between Ali and Bugner, the European champion, at Chicago's Soldier Field.

Ali fights Wepner in Cleveland on March 24 and is an overwhelming favorite to defend successfully the crown he won by knocking out George Foreman last October.

Agreement on the contract was reached in London, the source said.

There was no immediate confirmation from the camps of either Ali or Bugner.

According the source, the fight will be on home television but not the closed circuit of recent heavyweight title bouts. Plans are to scale the 110,000 seat stadium at modest prices.

Terms of the contract were not known, but the source said a major United States network had contracted to carry the bout.

Ali and Bugner met in a 12-round bout at Las Vegas, Nev., on Feb. 14, 1973, when both were title aspirants. Ali won a unanimous decision while in quest of the crown he regained from Foreman.

Bugner, the Hungarian-born 25 - year - old, has been clamoring for a shot at the title ever since Ali won it in Zaire last fall.

Walker Has Plenty Left As Bulls Shade Pistons

CHICAGO (AP) — "The big thing for us was Chet Walker. He's 36 and just when you think he hasn't got anything left, he comes up with another great performance," said Walker's teammate Tom Boerwinkle of the Chicago Bulls.

Walker scored seven points in the final seven minutes to give the Bulls a 97-94 decision Friday night over the Detroit Pistons in National Basketball Association action.

But Walker, who had 18 points, shrugged off the praise, saying, "The fact that Detroit and other teams in the Midwest Division scout us so well really hurts our offense. We should make adjustments sometime and do something extra. That is why I try to go one-and-one as much as I can."

Piston Coach Ray Scott said he wasn't discouraged by Detroit's 17th loss in the last 21 games.

"We played a good game and I was very pleased with Chris Ford, who started his first game at forward," Scott said. "The fact that he also plays guard gives us great mobility and I look for him, along with John Mengelt, to get this team into the playoffs."

Ford had 17 points and Mengelt had 21 points to capture scoring honors with Dave Bing.

The teams were tied at 50-50 at halftime, but Chicago held a 74-72 advantage after the third period.

The Bulls raced to an 86-81 bulge with 6:50 remaining. But the Pistons tied the score at 8686 on a jumper by Bob Lanier before Matt Goukas of the Bulls canned a 25-foot shot and then scored a layup on a fastbreak.

Walker hit a jumpshot and then squeezed in a basket between two Detroit players. Bing's two free-throws brought Detroit within four points again, but the elusive Walker hit a 30-foot shot and iced the game with an underhanded shot with 46 seconds remaining.

Norm Van Lier had 21 points to lead Chicago, which earned its second the victory in the last eight contests.

Harden Paces Bard's Victory

Kenny Harden pumped in 12 points to lead Bard to a 26-11 Community Branch YMCA youth league basketball win over Boynton.

Sterne Brunson downed North Shore 21-19 as Dennis Premell scored nine for the winners, Quincy Turner six for the Shore.

Myron Taylor dumped in eight points in a losing effort as North Shore edged Seely McCord 27-25. Lonnie Harris had six for the winners.

Charles Hudson popped in 10 points to pace King's 39-15 rout of Morton Hills. Greg Harmen had six for the Hill gang.

Wilkens Latest To Level Blast At NBA Officiating

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Referees in the National Basketball Association are taking it on the chin again.

"It's ridiculous. It's not fair," said Portland Trail Blazers Coach Lenny Wilkens after his team dropped a 103-98 verdict to the Boston Celtics Friday night.

"If Johnny Nucotola (chief referee) looked at the film of this game, he'd be sick. It's kind of discouraging out there to get those type of calls.

"They (the Celtics) have a good club," Wilkens said. "Why give them an edge like that?"

Earlier this week, Milwaukee Bucks star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar let loose a verbal blast at referee Jerry Loeber. The 7-foot-3 center called an impromptu news conference after fouling out of a game and admitted that his outburst would result in a $250 fine for violating a rule that prohibits public criticism of officials.

"I don't care," Jabbar said of the fine. "I'm speaking out."

The Trail Blazers led by as many as 10 points in the second period before John Havlicek and Paul Silas ignited the sluggish Celtics in the second half. Portland drew to within two points on the shooting of Sidney Wicks with two minutes left, but Don Chaney and Havlicek combined for four points to put the game out of reach.

Dave Cowens paced Boston with 24 points while Havlicek added 22 and Silas scored 19 while grabbing 18 rebounds. John Johnson led Portland with 24 points.

In other NBA games Friday, Philadelphia defeated Phoenix 108-97, Chicago edged Detroit 97-94, Kansas City-Omaha nipped Washington 103-102, Los Angeles slipped by Milwaukee 105-104, New York stoped Houston 103-94 and Seattle defeated Buffalo 125-105.

A 15-point spurt by Billy Cunninghani in the third period lifted Philadelphia to its third consecutive victory.

Two free throws each by Gail Goodrich and Stu Lantz in the final 35 seconds gave the Los Angeles Lakers a victory over Milwaukee.

Walt Frazier's field goal broke a 90-90 deadlock and led the New York Knicks to its victory over Houston.

Jimmy Walker's field goal and two free throws by Nate Archibald enabled Kansas City-Omaha to edge Washington.

Seattle captured its third straight victory as Tommy Burleson and Spencer Haywood scored 22 points each.

Feels Culturally Deprived In Milwaukee

Jabbar Wants To Be Traded By Bucks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar says he feels culturally deprived and has asked the Milwaukee Bucks to trade him, but emphasized Friday night he intends to honor the remaining two years of his contract.

"I don't have any family or friends here. The things I relate to don't happen to be in this city to any meaningful degree," said the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar, the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player three of his five seasons in the league.

Abdul-Jabbar, addressing more than a dozen newsmen after the Bucks' 105-104 defeat by Los Angeles, replied affirmatively when asked if he had requested the club to trade him.

A New York sportscaster had reported Thursday Abdul-Jabbar has told the Bucks he wants to go to New York, where he was raised, or Los Angeles, where he was an All-American at UCLA.

"We've discussed it, but nothing concrete has ever developed," he said of trade talks with Bucks' management. "But I intend to honor my contract to the fullest."

Abdul-Jabbar signed an estimated $1.6-million, five-year contract when the Bucks won draft rights to him in a coin flip with the Phoenix Suns in 1969.

He signed another contract for a reported $400,000 a year in August, 1972. That pact extends through the 1975-76 season. In addition, the Bucks will retain the option to his services for another year after that.

An orthodox Moslem since 1968, Abdul-Jabbar spends much off-season time working with others of his faith in the East. He is known to have become increasingly unhappy with his surroundings here since he and his wife separated about a year ago.

"Culturally, what I'm about and what Milwaukee is about are two different things," he said. "The reason I haven't commented on this before is I don't want to take a knock at Milwaukee or the people here and have them think they're unworthy of me. That's not what it's all about.

"I have no unkind feelings toward the people of Milwaukee or Wisconsin. I want to underline that," he said. "But my family and friends aren't here and culturally what I'm into does not ebist here."

Asked what is missing for him here, he replied, "Just people."

He said he is "most definitely" happy with the Bucks as an organization.

Bucks' President William Alverson said the Bucks have had no trade offers from other NBA teams concerning Abdul-Jabbar and indicated he has no immediate plans to seek a trade.

"If a guy is plainly miserable to the point it affects his job, it doesn't do him or his company any good to keep him around," he said. "But I don't think he's capable of holding back on the court. I don't think that's in him. He's too honest."

Alverson said the Bucks have offered to extend Abdul-Jabbar's contract, but that the star has not indicated whether he is receptive.

Allen Ready To Honor 'Contract' With White Sox

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's on first? Dick Allen. Well, if you see him there, don't be surprised.

The controversial slugger has reversed his field and wants to get back into baseball with the Chicago White Sox, says a close friend, but the situation is just as confusing as the old Abbott and Costello routine.

Clem Capozzoli, an associate of Allen's since he played with the Philadelphia Phillies in the early 1960s, said Friday that Allen is ready to honor his "contract" with the White Sox.

Of course there may be a problem there. The White Sox don't have his contract anymore. They sold it to the Atlanta Braves when Allen announced his retirement from baseball at the end of last season.

Since then, Allen's name has been a warm hot stove topic.

Walker hit a jumpshot and then squeezed in a basket between two Detroit players. Bing's two free-throws brought Detroit within four points again, but the elusive Walker hit a 30-foot shot and iced the game with an underhanded shot with 46 seconds remaining.

Norm Van Lier had 21 points to lead Chicago, which earned its second the victory in the last eight contests.

Harden Paces Bard's Victory

Kenny Harden pumped in 12 points to lead Bard to a 28-11 Community Branch YMCA youth league basketball win over Boynton.

Sterne Brunson downed North Shore 21-19 as Dennis Premell scored nine for the winners, Quincy Turner six for the Shore. Myron Taylor dumped in eight points in a losing effort as North Shore edged Seely McCord 27-25. Lonnie Harris had six for the winners.

Charles Hudson popped in 10 points to pace King's 39-15 rout of Morton Hills. Greg Harmen had six for the Hill gang.

Ali Planning June 8 Soldier Field Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali will defend his title against England's Joe Bugner in Chicago on June 8 if Ali defeats underdog Chuck Wepner, The Associated Press learned today.

A source told The AP that contracts have been signed for an outdoor fight between Ali and Bugner, the European champion, at Chicago's Soldier Field.

Ali fights Wepner in Cleveland on March 24 and is an overwhelming favorite to defend successfully the crown he won by knocking out George Foreman last October.

Agreement on the contract was reached in London, the source said.

There was no immediate confirmation from the camps of either Ali or Bugner.

According the source, the fight will be on home television but not the closed circuit of recent heavyweight title bouts. Plans are to scale the 110,000 seat stadium at modest prices.

Terms of the contract were not known, but the source said a major United States network had contracted to carry the bout.

Ali and Bugner met in a 12-round bout at Las Vegas, Nev., on Feb. 14, 1973, when both were title aspirants. Ali won a unanimous decision while in quest of the crown he regained from Foreman.

Bugner, the Hungarian-born 25 - year - old, has been clamoring for a shot at the title ever since Ali won it in Zaire last fall.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Referees in the National Basketball Association are taking it on the chin again.

"It's ridiculous. It's not fair," said Portland Trail Blazers Coach Lenny Wilkens after his team dropped a 103-98 verdict to the Boston Celtics Friday night.

"If Johnny Nucotola (chief referee) looked at the film of this game, he'd be sick. It's kind of discouraging out there to get those type of calls.

"They (the Celtics) have a good club," Wilkens said. "Why give them an edge like that?"

Earlier this week, Milwaukee Bucks star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar let loose a verbal blast at referee Jerry Loeber. The 7-foot-3 center called an impromptu news conference after fouling out of a game and admitted that his outburst would result in a $250 fine for violating a rule that prohibits public criticism of officials.

"I don't care," Jabbar said of the fine. "I'm speaking out."

The Trail Blazers led by as many as 10 points in the second period before John Havlicek and Paul Silas ignited the sluggish Celtics in the second half. Portland drew to within two points on the shooting of Sidney Wicks with two minutes left, but Don Chaney and Havlicek combined for four points to put the game out of reach.

Dave Cowens paced Boston with 24 points while Havlicek added 22 and Silas scored 19 while grabbing 18 rebounds. John Johnson led Portland with 24 points.

In other NBA games Friday, Philadelphia defeated Phoenix 108-97, Chicago edged Detroit 97-94, Kansas City-Omaha nipped Washington 103-102, Los Angeles slipped by Milwaukee 105-104, New York stoped Houston 103-94 and Seattle defeated Buffalo 125-106.

A 15-point spurt by Billy Cunningham in the third period lifted Philadelphia to its third consecutive victory.

Two free throws each by Gail Goodrich and Stu Lantz in the final 35 seconds gave the Los Angeles Lakers a victory over Milwaukee.

Walt Frazier's field goal broke a 90-90 deadlock and led the New York Knicks to its victory over Houston.

Jimmy Walker's field goal and two free throws by Nate Archibald enabled Kansas City-Omaha to edge Washington.

Seattle captured its third straight victory as Tommy Burleson and Spencer Haywood scored 22 points each.

Feels Culturally Deprived In Milwaukee

Jabbar Wants To Be Traded By Bucks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar says he feels culturally deprived and has asked the Milwaukee Bucks to trade him, but emphasized Friday night he intends to honor the remaining two years of his contract.

"I don't have any family or friends here. The things I relate to don't happen to be in this city to any meaningful degree," said the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar, the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player three of his five seasons in the league.

Abdul-Jabbar, addressing more than a dozen newsmen after the Bucks' 105-104 defeat by Los Angeles, replied affirmatively when asked if he had requested the club to trade him.

A New York sportscaster had reported Thursday Abdul-Jabbar has told the Bucks he wants to go to New York, where he was raised, or Los Angeles, where he was an All-American at UCLA.

"We've discussed it, but nothing concrete has ever developed," he said of trade talks with Bucks' management. "But I intend to honor my contract to the fullest."

Abdul-Jabbar signed an estimated $1.6-million, five-year contract when the Bucks won draft rights to him in a coin flip with the Phoenix Suns in 1969.

He signed another contract for a reported $400,000 a year in August, 1972. That pact extends through the 1975-76 season. In addition, the Bucks will retain the option to his services for another year after that.

An orthodox Moslem since 1968, Abdul-Jabbar spends much off-season time working with others of his faith in the East. He is known to have become increasingly unhappy with his surroundings here since he and his wife separated about a year ago.

"Culturally, what I'm about and what Milwaukee is about are two different things," he said. "The reason I haven't commented on this before is I don't want to take a knock at Milwaukee or the people here and have them think they're unworthy of me. That's not what it's all about.

"I have no unkind feelings toward the people of Milwaukee or Wisconsin. I want to underline that," he said. "But my family and friends aren't here and culturally what I'm into does not exist here."

Asked what is missing for him here, he replied, "Just people."

He said he is "most definitely" happy with the Bucks as an organization.

Bucks' President William Alverson said the Bucks have had no trade offers from other NBA teams concerning Abdul-Jabbar and indicated he has no immediate plans to seek a trade.

"If a guy is plainly miserable to the point it affects his job, it doesn't do him or his company any good to keep him around," he said. "But I don't think he's capable of holding back on the court. I don't think that's in him. He's too honest."

Alverson said the Bucks have offered to extend Abdul-Jabbar's contract, but that the star has not indicated whether he is receptive.

Indiana Can Forget Glossy Record In NCAA Playoffs

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana may be ranked No. 1 in the country, but will be just one of the "boys" today.

The Hoosiers can forget about their spectacular regular season and all the applause it won them — it's time for the sudden-death NCAA playoffs.

After 29 straight victories this season, the Hoosiers must still win five more to take the national championship. And they start their quest for college basketball's Holy Grail by meeting Texas-El Paso in the Mideast Regionals at Lexington, Ky.

That's one of 16 games today as the nation's best basketball teams begin their countdown toward the prestigious NCAA title. The road eventually will lead to San Diego on March 31, where a new champion will be crowned this year. North Carolina State, the winner last year, did not get an invitation this time.

The Hoosiers, runaway winners in the Big Ten, and Texas-El Paso, 20-5, of the Western Athletic Conference met in the first game of a doubleheader. Oregon State, 18-10, of the Pacific-8 Conference took on Middle Tennessee, 23-4, of the Ohio Valley Conference in the second game.

In the other Mideast Regional doubleheader at Tuscaloosa, Ala., Kentucky, 22-4, of the Southeastern Conference, plays independent Marquette, 23-3, and Central Michigan, 20-5, of the Mid-American Conference, meets independent Georgetown, 18-9.

UCLA, the Pacific-8 champion with an over-all 23-3 record, plays Big Ten power Michigan, 19-7, and Montana, 20-6, of the Big Sky meets independent Utah State, 21-5, in a West Regional doubleheader at Pullman, Wash. In the other West Regional site at Tempe, Ariz., it's Arizona State, 23-3, of the Western Athletic Conference vs. Alabama, 22-4, of the Southeastern Conference, and Nevada-Las Vegas, 22-4, of the West Coast Athletic Conference against San Diego State, 14-11, of the Pacific Coast Athletic Conferece.

The Midwest Regional features games at Lubbock, Tex., and Tulsa, Okla. At Lubbock, Texas A&M, 20-6, of the Southwest Conference takes on independent Cincinnati, 21-5, and Maryland, 22-4, of the Atlantic Coast Conference tackles independent Creighton, 20-6. At Tulsa, it's independent Rutgers, 22-6, against Louisville, 24-2, of the Missouri Valley Conference and independent Notre Dame, 18-8, vs. Kansas, 19-7, of the Big Eight Conference.

Penn, 23-4, of the Ivy League plays Kansas State, 18-8, of the Big Eight and La Salle, 22-6, meets Syracuse, 20-7, in a battle of independents in an East Regional twin bill at Philadelphia. In the other East Regional doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., it's North Carolina, 21-7, of the Atlantic Coast Conference vs. New Mexico State, 20-6, of the Missouri Valley Conference, and Furman, 22-6, of the Southern Conference vs. independent Boston College, 207.

Along with the NCAA playoffs, the National Invitation Tournament opens today in Madison Square Garden in New York. The 16-team field will play toward the finals next Sunday, March 23.

Purdue and Bowling Green were first-round winners in the National Commissioner's Invitational Tournament at Louisville, Ky. Purdue beat Missouri 87-74 and Bowling Green stopped Tennessee 67-58 to advance to today's semifinals against Arizona and Drake.

Old Dominion won the NCAA's Division II championship, beating New Orleans 76-74 Friday night in the finals at Evansville, Ind.

Grand Canyon and Midwestern advanced to the finals of the NAIA tourney at Kansas City. Grand Canyon beat Alcorn State 88-68 and Midwestern stopped St. Mary's 65-50.

Glassboro State whipped Brockport State 76-68 and Lemoyne-Owen stopped Augustana 84-71 to advance to the finals of the NCAA's Division III finals at Reading, Pa.

El Paso Leading As Yankee Wins

Texas School Good Bet For Track Title

DETROIT (AP) — Texas-El Paso, an apparent cinch to recapture the NCAA Indoor Track title today, has at least one American-born standout, new triple jump champ Arnold Grimes.

And even Arnold is taking tips from Russia.

Grimes, a springy sophomore from Akron, Ohio, fell just short of the world hop-step-andjump record Friday night as Texas-El Paso grabbed three of the seven individual titles on the line.

Grims and Sweden's Hans Hoglund, capturing his third straight shot put crown, set the only new meet records for Texas-El Paso, with Grimes' triple jump effort of 55-4 approaching the world mark of 55-8¼ set by Russia's Viktor Saneyev in 1972.

Another opening-day triumph by Australian Peter Farmer in the 35-pound weight throw helped propel Texas-El Paso into Saturday's 11-event windup with 20 points, far ahead of runnerup Kansas with 11, and with plenty of firepower still left.

Seton Hall was a distant third with 8 points, followed by Penn State with 7 and Western Kentucky and Utah State with 6 each.

Grimes, who hit his big jump on his last try, said, "last year, when I jumped against the Russians, I really was impressed and have studied their methods."

Grimes not only is pouring over Russian triple jump material, but he also is in touch with coaches in East Germany and Australia. Grimes bettered by almost one foot the old NCAA mark of 54-6¾ set last year by Tommy Haynes of Middle Tennessee State.

"I wasn't sure that I was ready for this record in terms of my training," said Grimes. "I overtrain a lot, trying new methods, and my ankles hurt as a result. I really have been aiming for the outdoor record in my training."

Hoglund, whose 67-9¾ broke his own NCAA shot put record of 67-7¼ set last year, said, "It was good to win this for the third year in a row. I still intend to follow through on my plans after graduation this year to return to Sweden and teach."

Texas-El Paso was led into Saturday's concluding session by defending pole vault champ Larry Jessee; 7-4 high jumper in Canadian Greg Joy, and potential point-winners in miler Wilson Waigwa and 1,000-yard finalist Frank Munene, both of Kenya, and sprinter Chris Garpenborg.

Two individual champs were dethroned Friday night including Colorado's Kingsley Adams in the long jump, won by Theo Hamilton of Kansas at 26-7¼, and William & Mary's Reggie Clark in the 880, captured by Utah State's Mark Enyeart in 1:52.4

The 440 went to Penn State's Mike Sands in 48.5, while long-haired Nick Rose of Western Kentucky, NCAA cross-country champ, finished explosively to take the two-mile in 8:44.0.

Nets' 16-Game Home Win Streak Ended By Nuggets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The Denver Nuggets haven't replaced the New York Nets as American Basketball Association champions just yet, but they gave a pretty good demonstration Friday night.

"We did it, we did it," Coach Larry Brown whooped and hollered as he congratulated each player following the Nuggets' 102-95 triumph that ended the Nets' 16-game home winning streak.

It was the seventh meeting of the season between the division leaders. The Nuggets, who clinched the Western crown earlier in the week, had beaten the Nets four times in Denver. New York had taken the two previous contests here.

"Even though we're fighting them for the best record in the league, it was so important to prove to ourselves we could come here and win," Brown said. "We talked about it before the game and I think everyone realized the importance of it."

With 10 games left in the regular season—the Nets have 11—Denver holds a comfortable 4½-game bulge in the battle for the home court advantage should the two teams make it to the playoff finals. The Nets' lead over Kentucky in the Eastern Division remained at two games after the Colonels lost Friday night.

New York, which has a 31-5 record at the Nassau Coliseum, didn't consider it much of a home game. The Nets played in St. Louis Wednesday night, in San Antonio Thursday night and had to get up at 5:30 to catch a flight home Friday morning. The Nuggets, meanwhile, arrived here Thursday and had the day off.

"You hate to come home and have a team waiting for you," said Nets Coach Kevin Loughery. "But that's part of the game. I'd like to have a night off, but that's the way it goes."

Both sides took turns blowing healthy leads before Mike Green's tie-breaking, turnaround jump shot put the Nuggets on top for good—91-89—with 4:15 to go. In the next three minutes, Ralph Simpson scored two baskets and a free throw and fed Bobby Jones for another field goal as Denver opened a 98-91 bulge.

Simpson, with 22 points, was one of six Nuggets in double figures. Mack Calvin had 21, Green 18, Dave Robisch 13 and Jones and Byron Beck 12 apiece. Julius Irving topped the Nets with 22.

In Friday night's other ABA games, the Memphis Sounds outscored the Kentucky Colonels 103-100; the Indiana Pacers whipped the Utah Stars 121-111 and the San Antonio Spurs edged the Virginia Squires 97-95.

George Carter scored 24 points and Memphis withstood a furious last-quarter Kentucky rally to pull out a victory over the Colonels.

Indiana staved off a Utah rally and rode forward George McGinnis' game-high 31 points to victory over the Stars.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gordie Howe, pro hockey's most active 47-year-old, continues to get his goals but they don't come as easy as they used to.

"This is definitely my last time around," Howe said Friday night after his Houston Aeros took a 5-4 World Hockey Association decision from the Chicago Cougars.

"At 47, I play some games halfway decent and others, well...I'd like to see the younger guys get a chance to play. I know George Blanda doesn't believe in it, but I do."

Howe picked up his 28th goal, son Mark added his 26th and each picked up a pair of assists in the Houston victory.

"Our line had a lot of ice time tonight so it wasn't surprising that we made a lot of points," reasoned the elder Howe.

Elsewhere in the WHA, Cleveland blanked Edmonton 30, San Diego dumped Toronto 64 and Winnipeg got by Quebec 4-3.

Houston's winning goal came with less than two minutes remaining in the final period when Andre Hinse bounced a shot in off defenseman Pat Stapleton, Chicago's player-coach.

"That last goal was emblematic of the way the whole season has been going for us," moaned Stapleton. "Their game-winning goal bounced in off my chest."

Ralph Backstrom scored two goals for the Cougars, who have lost to Houston 13 straight times.

Frank Hughes and Paul Popiel got the other Aero goals while Mark Lomenda and Bob Liddington connected for Chicago.

Skip Krake, Paul Shmyr and Rich Leduc got the goals and Gerry Cheevers notched his fourth shutout of the season for Cleveland.

Wayne Rivers snapped a 4-4 tie with his 49th goal of the season in the third period and Bob Falkenburg added an insurance tally for San Diego.

Bobby Hull's power play goal midway through the final period gave Winnipeg the victory. It was Hull's 63rd goal in 64 games this season.

Owls Edged By Mohawks

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Tombari's goal 22 seconds into sudden death overtime Friday night gave the Muskegon Mohawks a 3-2 International Hockey League victory over the Columbus Owls.

Columbus took a 2-0 lead in the second period following goals by Jim Doyle and Ed Kenty, but Brian Dirksen and Bob Fowler responded with tallies to send the game into overtime.

Muskegon, 43-24-3, is in first place in the IHL North Division, four points ahead of idle Flint. Columbus dropped to 3730-3 in second place in the South Division.

Meanwhile, South-division leader Dayton took a 4-2 triumph over the Toledo Goaldiggers. Steve Self scored what proved to be the winning goal. Teammate Rick Bragnalo scored into an open net for the final tally. Dayton is now 41-25-3.

In Port Huron, the Flags defeated the Kalamazoo Wings, 52.

Palmetto Lead To Wake Forest

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Wake Forest, the NCAA champion, held a one-stroke team lead and Vance Heafner of North Carolina State held the same individual advantage going into Saturday's second round of the ninth annual Palmetto Golf Tournament.

Heafner toured the 6,800-yard, par-72 Orangeburg Country Club course Friday in 71, carding four birdies and a pair of bogeys on the front nine to turn in 34. He had a bogey and eight pars on the back nine.

Blues Skate Into Playoffs

Blast Expansionist KC Scouts, 6-1

From Associated Press

The St. Louis Blues, skating to their fourth triumph in six nights, moved into the Stanley Cup playoffs for a seventh time and—for a few hours at least—were tied for the lead in the National Hockey League's Division 2.

Jumping on the expansionist Kansas City Scouts for a 6-1 triumph, St. Louis moved 27 points in front of the Minnesota North Stars and mathematically clinched a playoff spot.

With the victory, St. Louis also moved into a three-way tie for the division lead. But hours later, Vancouver clobbered Buffalo 5-1 to move out to a two-point advantage over Chicago and St. Louis, who are tied in second with 71 points.

Pierre Plante led the Blues' attack with three goals which boosted his season production to 29 goals.

"At the beginning of the year I was looking for 30 to 35 goals," Plante said. "With 11 games left in the season, I've still got a shot at it."

Chuck Lefley tallied twice and Garry Unger once for the other St. Louis scores. In the middle period, Kansas City rookie Dave Hudson spoiled Ed Johnston's bid for a shutout.

In other NHL games Friday night, Atlanta nipped the New York Rangers 1-0 and California defeated Detroit 4-2.

Barry Gibbs took a pass from Gerry Meehan and slammed the puck into the net from 20 feet out at 6:58 of the third period as the Flames nipped the Rangers.

Jim Moxey broke a 1-1 tie with a 20-foot shot in the first period, then rookie Dave Hrechkosy scored what proved to be the winning goal in the first minute of the second period as the Seals dumped the Red Wings.

Vancouver took over sole possession of first place in Division 2 with a four-goal second period barrage that buried the Buffalo Sabres.

Nicklaus Erratic...And One Back

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was just one shot out of the lead going into today's third round of the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament. But Jack says he didn't deserve to be in that position.

"I should be either 10 strokes in front or 10 behind. I'm not sure which."

"I'm just not sure whether the good shots should prevail, or the bad ones," said Nicklaus.

He had an unusual mixture of both in compiling a 139 total, five under par and one back of the surprise co-leaders, Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong.

McCord and Armstrong, a pair of non-winning tour sophomores, shared the first-round lead and remained tied Friday with matching 70s that gave them 138 totals halfway through this chase for a $30,000 first prize.

But their work is cut out for them on the 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at Doral Country Club. Not only are they unfamiliar with the top spot, but their challengers include three of the most feared competitors in the game — Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino.

Miller and Trevino were tied at 141—just three back of the leaders and two behind Nicklaus.

Mike Hill, a former Doral champion, made par from five bunkers on his way to a 71 that put him alone in fourth at 140. Tied with Miller and Trevino were former Masters champion Charles Coody, long-hitting Jim Dent, Forrest Fezler and Butch Baird.

Nicklaus had an erratic 70 Friday that included four bogeys, four birdies and an eagle. Over one stretch of five holes he went eagle-bogey-birdie-bogey-bogey.

"It was a most unusual round," Nicklaus said. "The thing that's disappointing about it is that I've had several opportunities to get well in front and I did not take advantage of them."

The first, of course, came in the first round. He was five under and two clear of the field before he hit his second shot in the water and made double bogey on the 18th hole.

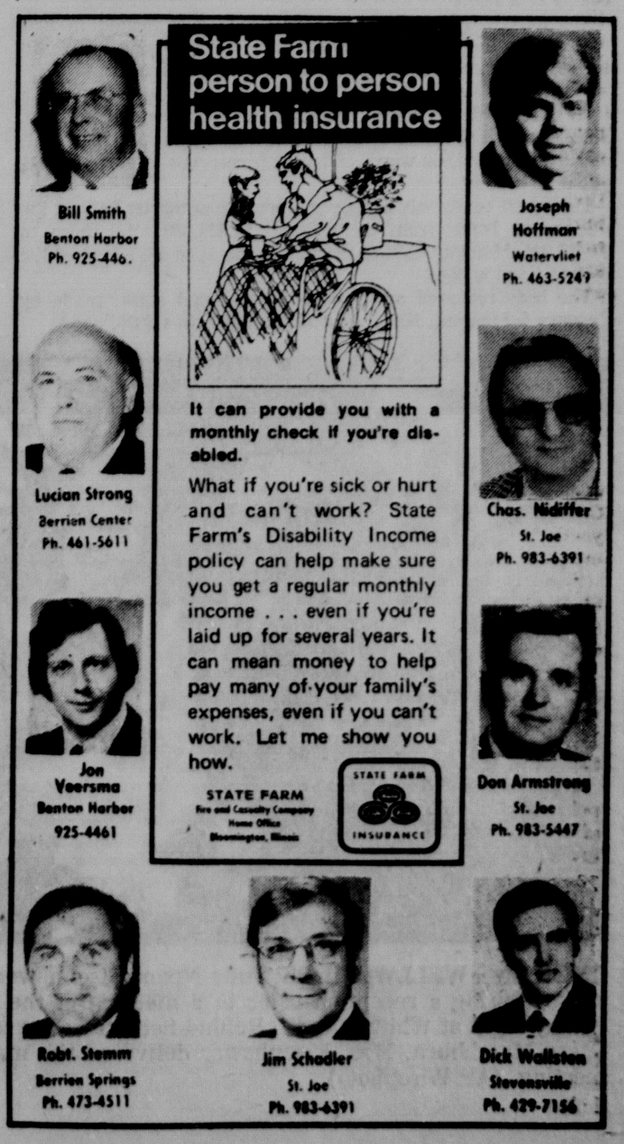
His eagle on the 10th hole Friday gave him a share of the lead. He promptly bogeyed the next hole. He regained a piece of the lead with a 15-foot birdie putt on the next one. But he followed that with two consecutive bogeys.

His play was marked by some excellent shots, and some very bad ones. He three-putted three times. He was in four bunkers. But he had birdie putts of five feet or less three times. And he ripped a beautiful one-iron second shot only three feet from the cup for his eagle.

Trevino, reigning PGA champ and winner last week in the Citrus Open, has had trouble getting started. He was three over on his front nine Thursday. He was two over after seven holes Friday.

"If I can get one good round, one round that I don't start off ragged, I might make it tough on 'em," he said.

Miller, a three-time winner already this season, got to within two strokes of the lead before making bogey on his final hole.



Indiana Can Forget Glossy Record In NCAA Playoffs

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana may be ranked No. 1 in the country, but will be just one of the "boys" today.

The Hoosiers can forget about their spectacular regular season and all the applause it won them — it's time for the sudden-death NCAA playoffs.

After 29 straight victories this season, the Hoosiers must still win five more to take the national championship. And they start their quest for college basketball's Holy Grail by meeting Texas-El Paso in the Mideast Regionals at Lexington, Ky.

That's one of 16 games today as the nation's best basketball teams begin their countdown toward the prestigious NCAA title. The road eventually will lead to San Diego on March 31, where a new champion will be crowned this year. North Carolina State, the winner last year, did not get an invitation this time.

The Hoosiers, runaway winners in the Big Ten, and Texas-El Paso, 20-5, of the Western Athletic Conference met in the first game of a doubleheader. Oregon State, 18-10, of the Pacific-8 Conference took on Middle Tennessee, 23-4, of the Ohio Valley Conference in the second game.

In the other Mideast Regional doubleheader at Tuscaloosa, Ala., Kentucky, 22-4, of the Southeastern Conference, plays independent Marquette, 23-3, and Central Michigan, 20-5, of the Mid-American Conference, meets independent Georgetown, 18-9.

UCLA, the Pacific-8 champion with an over-all 23-3 record, plays Big Ten power Michigan, 19-7, and Montana, 20-6, of the Big Sky meets independent Utah State, 21-5, in a West Regional doubleheader at Pullman, Wash. In the other West Regional site at Tempe, Ariz., it's Arizona State, 23-3, of the Western Athletic Conference vs. Alabama, 22-4, of the Southeastern Conference, and Nevada-Las Vegas, 22-4, of the West Coast Athletic Conference against San Diego State, 14-11, of the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference.

The Midwest Regional features games at Lubbock, Tex., and Tulsa, Okla. At Lubbock, Texas A&M, 20-6, of the Southwest Conference takes on independent Cincinnati, 21-5, and Maryland, 22-4, of the Atlantic Coast Conference tackles independent Creighton, 20-6. At Tulsa, it's independent Rutgers, 22-6, against Louisville, 24-2, of the Missouri Valley Conference and independent Notre Dame, 18-8, vs. Kansas, 19-7, of the Big Eight Conference.

Penn, 23-4, of the Ivy League plays Kansas State, 18-8, of the Big Eight and La Salle, 22-6, meets Syracuse, 20-7, in a battle of independents in an East Regional twin bill at Philadelphia. In the other East Regional doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., it's North Carolina, 21-7, of the Atlantic Coast Conference vs. New Mexico State, 20-6, of the Missouri Valley Conference, and Furman, 22-6, of the Southern Conference vs. independent Boston College, 207.

Along with the NCAA playoffs, the National Invitation Tournament opens today in Madison Square Garden in New York. The 16-team field will play toward the finals next Sunday, March 23.

Purdue and Bowling Green were first-round winners in the National Commissioner's Invitational Tournament at Louisville, Ky. Purdue beat Missouri 87-74 and Bowling Green stopped Tennessee 67-58 to advance to today's semifinals against Arizona and Drake.

Old Dominion won the NCAA's Division II championship, beating New Orleans 76-74 Friday night in the finals at Evansville, Ind.

Grand Canyon and Midwestern advanced to the finals of the NAIA tourney at Kansas City. Grand Canyon beat Alcorn State 88-68 and Midwestern stopped St. Mary's 65-50.

Glassboro State whipped Brockport State 76-68 and Lemoyne-Owen stopped Augustana 84-71 to advance to the finals of the NCAA's Division III finals at Reading, Pa.

Nets' 16-Game Home Win Streak Ended By Nuggets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The Denver Nuggets haven't replaced the New York Nets as American Basketball Association champions just yet, but they gave a pretty good demonstration Friday night.

"We did it, we did it," Coach Larry Brown whooped and hollered as he congratulated each player following the Nuggets' 102-95 triumph that ended the Nets' 16-game home winning streak.

It was the seventh meeting of the season between the division leaders. The Nuggets, who clinched the Western crown earlier in the week, had beaten the Nets four times in Denver. New York had taken the two previous contests here.

"Even though we're fighting them for the best record in the league, it was so important to prove to ourselves we could come here and win," Brown said. "We talked about it before the game and I think everyone realized the importance of it."

With 10 games left in the regular season—the Nets have 11—Denver holds a comfortable 4½ game bulge in the battle for the home court advantage should the two teams make it to the playoff finals. The Nets' lead over Kentucky in the Eastern Division remained at two games after the Colonels lost Friday night.

New York, which has a 31-5 record at the Nassau Coliseum, didn't consider it much of a home game. The Nets played in St. Louis Wednesday night, in San Antonio Thursday night and had to get up at 5:30 to catch a flight home Friday morning. The Nuggets, meanwhile, arrived here Thursday and had the day off.

"You hate to come home and have a team waiting for you," said Nets Coach Kevin Loughery. "But that's part of the game. I'd like to have a night off, but that's the way it goes."

Both sides took turns blowing healthy leads before Mike Green's tie-breaking, turn-around jump shot put the Nuggets on top for good—91-89—with 4:15 to go. In the next three minutes, Ralph Simpson scored two baskets and a free throw and fed Bobby Jones for another field goal as Denver opened a 98-91 bulge.

Simpson, with 22 points, was one of six Nuggets in double figures. Mack Calvin had 21, Green 18, Dave Robisch 13 and Jones and Byron Beck 12 apiece. Julius Irving topped the Nets with 22.

In Friday night's other ABA games, the Memphis Sounds outscored the Kentucky Colonels 103-100; the Indiana Pacers whipped the Utah Stars 121-111 and the San Antonio Spurs edged the Virginia Squires 97-95.

George Carter scored 24 points and Memphis withstood a furious last-quarter Kentucky rally to pull out a victory over the Colonels.

Indiana staved off a Utah rally and rode forward George McGinnis' game-high 31 points to victory over the Stars.

Blast Expansionist KC Scouts, 6-1

From Associated Press

The St. Louis Blues, skating to their fourth triumph in six nights, moved into the Stanley Cup playoffs for a seventh time and—for a few hours at least—were tied for the lead in the National Hockey League's Division 2.

Jumping on the expansionist Kansas City Scouts for a 6-1 triumph, St. Louis moved 27 points in front of the Minnesota North Stars and mathematically clinched a playoff spot.

With the victory, St. Louis also moved into a three-way tie for the division lead. But hours later, Vancouver clobbered Buffalo 5-1 to move out to a two-point advantage over Chicago and St. Louis, who are tied in second with 71 points.

Pierre Plante led the Blues' attack with three goals which boosted his season production to 29 goals.

"At the beginning of the year I was looking for 30 to 35 goals," Plante said. "With 11 games left in the season, I've still got a shot at it."

Chuck Lefley tallied twice and Garry Unger once for the other St. Louis scores. In the middle period, Kansas City rookie Dave Hudson spoiled Ed Johnston's bid for a shutout.

In other NHL games Friday night, Atlanta nipped the New York Rangers 1-0 and California defeated Detroit 4-2.

Barry Gibbs took a pass from Gerry Meehan and slammed the puck into the net from 20 feet out at 6:58 of the third period as the Flames nipped the Rangers.

Jim Moxey broke a 1-1 tie with a 20-foot shot in the first period, then rookie Dave Hrechkosy scored what proved to be the winning goal in the first minute of the second period as the Seals dumped the Red Wings.

Vancouver took over sole possession of first place in Division 2 with a four-goal second period barrage that buried the Buffalo Sabres.

Nicklaus Erratic...And One Back

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was just one shot out of the lead going into today's third round of the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament. But Jack says he didn't deserve to be in that position.

"I should be either 10 strokes in front or 10 behind. I'm not sure which."

"I'm just not sure whether the good shots should prevail, or the bad ones," said Nicklaus.

He had an unusual mixture of both in compiling a 138 total, five under par and one back of the surprise co-leaders, Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong.

McCord and Armstrong, a pair of non-winning tour sophomores, shared the first-round lead and remained tied Friday with matching 70s that gave them 136 totals halfway through this chase for a $30,000 first prize.

But their work is cut out for them on the 7,038-yard Blue Monster course at Doral Country Club. Not only are they unfamiliar with the top spot, but their challengers include three of the most feared competitors in the game — Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino.

Miller and Trevino were tied at 141—just three back of the leaders and two behind Nicklaus.

Mike Hill, a former Doral champion, made par from five bunkers on his way to a 71 that put him alone in fourth at 140. Tied with Miller and Trevino were former Masters champion Charles Coody, long-hitting Jim Dent, Forrest Fezler and Butch Baird.

Nicklaus had an erratic 70 Friday that included four bogeys, four birdies and an eagle. Over one stretch of five holes he went eagle-bogey-birdie-bogey-bogey.

"It was a most unusual round," Nicklaus said. "The thing that's disappointing about it is that I've had several opportunities to get well in front and I did not take advantage of them."

The first, of course, came in the first round. He was five under and two clear of the field before he hit his second shot in the water and made double bogey on the 18th hole.

His eagle on the 10th hole Friday gave him a share of the lead. He promptly bogeyed the next hole. He regained a piece of the lead with a 15-foot birdie putt on the next one. But he followed that with two consecutive bogeys.

His play was marked by some excellent shots, and some very bad ones. He three-putted three times. He was in four bunkers. But he had birdie putts of five feet or less three times. And he ripped a beautiful one-iron second shot only three feet from the cup for his eagle.

Trevino, reigning PGA champ and winner last week in the Citrus Open, has had trouble getting started. He was three over on his front nine Thursday. He was two over after seven holes Friday.

"If I can get one good round, one round that I don't start off ragged, I might make it tough on 'em," he said.

Miller, a three-time winner already this season, got to within two strokes of the lead before making bogey on his final hole.

Howe Vows Season Last One For Him

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gordie Howe, pro hockey's most active 47-year-old, continues to get his goals but they don't come as easy as they used to.

"This is definitely my last time around," Howe said Friday night after his Houston Aeros took a 5-4 World Hockey Association decision from the Chicago Cougars.

"At 47, I play some games halfway decent and others, well...I'd like to see the younger guys get a chance to play. I know George Blanda doesn't believe in it, but I do."

Howe picked up his 28th goal, son Mark added his 26th and each picked up a pair of assists in the Houston victory.

"Our line had a lot of ice time tonight so it wasn't surprising that we made a lot of points," reasoned the elder Howe.

Elsewhere in the WHA, Cleveland blanked Edmonton 30, San Diego dumped Toronto 6-1 and Winnipeg got by Quebec 4-3.

Houston's winning goal came with less than two minutes remaining in the final period when Andre Hinse bounced a shot in off defenseman Pat Stapleton. Chicago's player-coach.

"That last goal was emblematic of the way the whole season has been going for us," moaned Stapleton. "Their game-winning goal bounced in off my chest."

Ralph Backstrom scored two goals for the Cougars, who have lost to Houston 13 straight times.

Frank Hughes and Paul Popiel got the other Aero goals while Mark Lomenda and Bob Liddington connected for Chicago.

Skip Krake, Paul Shmyr and Rich Leduc got the goals and Gerry Cheevers notched his fourth shutout of the season for Cleveland.

Wayne Rivers snapped a 4-4 tie with his 49th goal of the season in the third period and Bob Falkenburg added an insurance tally for San Diego.

Bobby Hull's power play goal midway through the final period gave Winnipeg the victory. It was Hull's 63rd goal in 64 games this season.

Owls Edged By Mohawks

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Tombari's goal 22 seconds into sudden death overtime Friday night gave the Muskegon Mohawks a 3-2 International Hockey League victory over the Columbus Owls.

Columbus took a 2-0 lead in the second period following goals by Jim Doyle and Ed Kenty, but Brian Dirksen and Bob Fowler responded with tallies to send the game into overtime.

Muskegon, 43-24-3, is in first place in the IHL North Division, four points ahead of idle Flint. Columbus dropped to 3730-3 in second place in the South Division.

Meanwhile, South-division leader Dayton took a 4-2 triumph over the Toledo Goaldiggers. Steve Self scored what proved to be the winning goal. Teammate Rick Bragnalo scored into an open net for the final tally. Dayton is now 41-25-3.

In Port Huron, the Flags defeated the Kalamazoo Wings, 52.

El Paso Leading As Yankee Wins

Texas School Good Bet For Track Title

DETROIT (AP) — Texas-El Paso, an apparent cinch to recapture the NCAA Indoor Track title today, has at least one American-born standout, new triple jump champ Arnold Grimes.

And even Arnold is taking tips from Russia.

Grimes, a springy sophomore from Akron, Ohio, fell just short of the world hop-step-and-jump record Friday night as Texas-El Paso grabbed three of the seven individual titles on the line.

Grims and Sweden's Hans Hoglund, capturing his third straight shot put crown, set the only new meet records for Texas-El Paso, with Grimes' triple jump effort of 55-4 approaching the world mark of 55-8¼ set by Russia's Viktor Sanyeev in 1972.

Another opening-day triumph by Australian Peter Farmer in the 35-pound weight throw helped propel Texas-El Paso into Saturday's 11-event windup with 20 points, far ahead of runnerup Kansas with 11, and with plenty of firepower still left.

Seton Hall was a distant third with 8 points, followed by Penn State with 7 and Western Kentucky and Utah State with 6 each.

Grimes, who hit his big jump on his last try, said, "last year, when I jumped against the Russians, I really was impressed and have studied their methods."

Grimes not only is pouring over Russian triple jump material, but he also is in touch with coaches in East Germany and Australia. Grimes bettered by almost one foot the old NCAA mark of 54-6¾ set last year by Tommy Haynes of Middle Tennessee State.

"I wasn't sure that I was ready for this record in terms of my training," said Grimes. "I overtrain a lot, trying new methods, and my ankles hurt as a result. I really have been aiming for the outdoor record in my training."

Hoglund, whose 67-9¾ broke his own NCAA shot put record of 67-7½ set last year, said, "It was good to win this for the third year in a row. I still intend to follow through on my plans after graduation this year to return to Sweden and teach."

Texas-El Paso was led into Saturday's concluding session by defending pole vault champ Larry Jessee; 7-4 high jumper in Canadian Greg Joy, and potential point-winners in miler Wilson Waigwa and 1,000-yard finalist Frank Munene, both of Kenya, and sprinter Chris Garpenborg.

Two individual champs were dethroned Friday night including Colorado's Kingsley Adams in the long jump, won by Theo Hamilton of Kansas at 26-7¼, and William & Mary's Reggie Clark in the 880, captured by Utah State's Mark Enyeart in 1:52.4.

The 440 went to Penn State's Mike Sands in 48.5, while long-haired Nick Rose of Western Kentucky, NCAA cross-country champ, finished explosively to take the two-mile in 8:44.0.

Palmetto Lead To Wake Forest

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Wake Forest, the NCAA champion, held a one-stroke team lead and Vance Heafner of North Carolina State held the same individual advantage going into Saturday's second round of the ninth annual Palmetto Golf Tournament.

Heafner toured the 6,899-yard, par-72 Orangeburg Country Club course Friday in 71, carding four birdies and a pair of bogeys on the front nine to turn in 34. He had a bogey and eight pars on the back nine.

House Condemned; Pair Gets $15,300

A Berrien circuit court jury deliberated about 1½ hours Friday before awarding $15,300 to a former St. Joseph couple whose house was torn down to make way for a new road that will lead to the new bridges over the St. Joseph river and Morrison channel.

Jurors in Judge William S. White's court ended the two-day condemnation trial by awarding the sum to Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Schewee, now of St. Joseph township.

The state highway department declared a necessity to take the property, at 117 Wayne street, last February, and the house itself was torn down last spring. Included with the house was a 33 by 168-foot lot.

Appraisrs from the highway department set the value of the property at $13,650, while two appraisers for the defendants set the value at $21,500 and $20,000. The jury was required to set the award somewhere between the high and low appraisals.

Opposing counsel were Atty. Henry Gleiss, representing the highway department, and Atty. Roccy DeFrancesco, both of St. Joseph.

$1,700 In Jewelry Gone In Dowagiac

DOWAGIAC — An estimated $1,700 worth of jewelry was taken last night in two house burglaries, Dowagiac police reported.

The first burglary was discovered about 8:30 p.m. and occurred at the home of John F. Lemke, 516 Green street. An estimated $800 in jewelry was taken after access was gained through a rear door, police said.

At about 9:37 p.m. police received a second call of a house burglary at the home of Pete Weaver, of 609 Green street. Police said about $900 in jewelry was reported taken from Weaver's home after entrance was gained through an adjoining garage.

Police suspect jewelry was the only thing taken in both burglaries. An investigation into a connection between the two thefts continues.

Occupants of both homes were away when the break-ins occurred.

Courthouse Landlord Paying Off Interest

The Berrien County Building authority at its quarterly meeting Friday voted to pay the $49,001.59 in interest that will come due April 1 on two bond issues employed to build and equip the county courthouse.

The interest rate on a $2,575,000 bond issue floated in 1964 varies from 3 to 3¼ per cent, and on a $850,000 bond issue sold in 1968 the interest cost is between 5.9 and 6 per cent.

Meanwhile, the treasurer's report noted the authority has a total of $641,581 on hand in cash and certificates of deposits. On $190,000 worth of certificates, the authority is getting 9 per cent, and another $445,000 worth of built up reserves is earning 10¼ per cent interest.

Paying off bonds only as they mature, the authority has cut the oustanding bonds from the original $3,425,000 total down to $2,435,000. Maturity date of the first issue is in 1985, and of the second issue in 1989.

The body reviewed and accepted its annual audit, made by Coopers & Lybrand, Niles. Cost of the audit was $675.

HARD TO KILL

South Florida Fleas Drive People Buggy

MIAMI (AP) — It has been a sensational season in South Florida, for fleas.

"I know of people who have given away their animals because of fleas, but that only forces the insects to a new food source, man," says Humane Society Director Kenneth McGovern.

Exterminator Eugene Solomon says fleas have proliferated because Florida's moderate winter has provided ideal breeding conditions for the insects.

"It's collossal, the worst I've seen in 25 years in the business," Solomon says.

He says people try an assortment of measures as flea collars and aerosol fumigation bombs to de-flea but there is no completely satisfying solution to the problem.

"What it comes down to, is that fleas are hardy little rascals that come and go according to the elements, temperature and humidity, and to hell with the insecticides," Solomon says.

"They have developed immunities to certain chemicals and can hide out in suspended animation in the larval stage until the right environmental circumstances come about."

Solomon says that a person can pick up a flea from an animal and take it home with him, "and a single flea can lay as many as 450 eggs in 20 days."

House Condemned; Pair Gets $15,300

A Berrien circuit court jury deliberated about 1½ hours Friday before awarding $15,300 to a former St. Joseph couple whose house was torn down to make way for a new road that will lead to the new bridges over the St. Joseph river and Morrison channel.

Jurors in Judge William S. White's court ended the two-day condemnation trial by awarding the sum to Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Schewee, now of St. Joseph township.

The state highway department declared a necessity to take the property, at 117 Wayne street, last February, and the house itself was torn down last spring. Included with the house was a 33 by 168-foot lot.

Appraisrs from the highway department set the value of the property at $13,650, while two appraisers for the defendants set the value at $21,500 and $20,000. The jury was required to set the award somewhere between the high and low appraisals.

Opposing counsel were Atty. Henry Gleiss, representing the highway department, and Atty. Roccy DeFrancesco, both of St. Joseph.

$1,700 In Jewelry Gone In Dowagiac

DOWAGIAC — An estimated $1,700 worth of jewelry was taken last night in two house burglaries, Dowagiac police reported.

The first burglary was discovered about 8:30 p.m. and occurred at the home of John F. Lemke, 516 Green street. An estimated $800 in jewelry was taken after access was gained through a rear door, police said.

At about 9:37 p.m. police received a second call of a house burglary at the home of Pete Weaver, of 609 Green street. Police said about $900 in jewelry was reported taken from Weaver's home after entrance was gained through an adjoining garage.

Police suspect jewelry was the only thing taken in both burglaries. An investigation into a connection between the two thefts continues.

Occupants of both homes were away when the break-ins occurred.

Courthouse Landlord Paying Off Interest

The Berrien County Building authority at its quarterly meeting Friday voted to pay the $49,001.59 in interest that will come due April 1 on two bond issues employed to build and equip the county courthouse.

The interest rate on a $2,575,000 bond issue floated in 1964 varies from 3 to 3¼ per cent, and on a $850,000 bond issue sold in 1968 the interest cost is between 5.9 and 6 per cent.

Meanwhile, the treasurer's report noted the authority has a total of $641,581 on hand in cash and certificates of deposits. On $190,000 worth of certificates, the authority is getting 9 per cent, and another $445,000 worth of built up reserves is earning 10¼ per-cent interest.

Paying off bonds only as they mature, the authority has cut the oustanding bonds from the original $3,425,000 total down to $2,435,000. Maturity date of the first issue is in 1985, and of the second issue in 1989.

The body reviewed and accepted its annual audit, made by Coopers & Lybrand, Niles. Cost of the audit was $675.

NUCLEAR FUSION PIONEER
Michigan Physicist Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ann Arbor physicist Keeve "Kip" Siegel, who hoped to pioneer the development of a nuclear fusion power source, died here Friday following a stroke. He was 52.

Siegel headed KMS Industries, following a career at the University of Michigan where he headed the Atmospheric Research group and founded Conductron Corp.

An inventor in the field of optics, Siegel collapsed from a stroke while testifying before the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy here Thursday.

Siegel had said, "America as we know it, and American industry as we know it will not survive unless a source of inexpensive energy becomes available in the near future."

He believed the most promising answer is fusion power.

An instructor at Oakland University and former U-M professor of electrical engineering, Sigel was sometimes called "a wonder boy" after founding Conductron on a "shoestring" and building in into a multi-million dollar radar and electronic-optics firm.

More recently he dedicated himself to achieving control of nuclear fission at his KMS Fusion, Inc. laboratories, a division of KMS.

The effort to obtain virtually limitless low cost nonpollutant source of power through a laser fusion reaction is the only privately funded effort of its kind in the U.S.

KMS invested $16 million in the research and it attracted international recognition for Siegel.

Siegel was born in 1923 in New York and graduated from Rennsselaer Polytechnical Institute in 1948 with a degree in physics.

He got his master's in physics there in 1950 and then came to the University of Michigan. He headed the Upper Atmosphere group until 1956.

While on the U-M faculty he founded Conductron Corp. and built it into one of Ann Arbor's largest industries. McDonnell-Douglas purchased Conductron in 1956 and moved its operations to St. Louis.

The U.S. Air Force cited Siegel while he was president of Conductron for inventions and developments "which gained him an international reputation as a leader in the field of electronics."

In 1963, he was named chairman of the U.S. Scientific Radio Union.

He founded KMS Industries and made it a conglomerate by buying industries across the country. Recently he began selling off some KMS subsidiaries to raise funds for the laser fusion research.

Siegel is survived by his wife, Ruth; two sons, Leigh and David both of Ann Arbor and a sister, Mrs. Carl Abraham of New York.

Burial will be in Ann Arbor.

Ex-Sheriff Awaits Sentencing

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — A former Eaton County Sheriff's detective is awaiting sentencing for larceny stemming from the theft a year ago of a bicycle from the sheriff's department property locker.

The larceny charge was filed by Sheriff Gene Hoag. A week before Hoag had defended the detective, Jerome DesRochers Jr., saying the missing bicycle didn't involve enough evidence for either prosecution or departmental discipline.

Hoag said several people this week convinced him DesRochers took the bicycle. DesRochers admitted taking the bike and later destroying it when an investigation was launched, Hoag said.

DesRochers pleaded guilty to the larceny charge Thursday before Charlotte District Court Judge Joseph Bader. A short time later, DesRochers resigned his job with the sheriff's department, which he had held for seven years.

Delegate Choice Should Be Easy

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An affirmative action plan to choose delegates is expected to be adopted by the Michigan Democratic Party without much trouble, even though the question almost split national Democrats.

"I don't doubt we'll hear some discussion of it at the committee meeting Saturday," said Morley Winograd, state Democratic Party chairman, Friday. But there are no major stumbling blocks in the way of adoption at the Democratic State Central Committee meeting today in Warren, he said.

Women, blacks, youth and other minority groups are assured roles in delegate selection for the 1980 national convention and beyond under the affirmative action plan.

Affirmative action was approved by the Democratic national Midterm Convention Dec. 6-8 in Kansas City. It prompted AFL-CIO delegates, including Michigan AFL-CIO President William Marshall, to accuse party leaders of a double-cross.

Marshall, who says he won't be at Saturday's state committee meeting, and other national AFL-CIO delegates said the plan would result in mandatory quotas in delegate selection.

Marshall has complained that party leaders ignored labor in a rush to embrace minority groups. At one point, Marshall said he considered dropping out of the Democratic National Committee.

Because of the expansion of the Democratic National Committee from about 200 members to just over 300, the state Democratic committee will name three new representatives from Michigan.

North Vietnamese Troops Overrun Another Outpost

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese forces today overran another outpost defending the provincial capital of Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon along the Cambodian border.

It was the fourth outpost to fall in the area in the last two days.

Government forces reopened the only overland route to Tay Ninh from Saigon, enabling a large South Vietnamese convoy to reach Tay Ninh with large stocks of munitions and fuel in anticipation of a large-scale North Vietnamese assault.

In the central highlands, a 300-man garrison fell to a tankled North Vietnamese attack 25 miles northwest of Ban Me Thuot, a provincial capital 155 miles north of Saigon which the Viet Cong claimed had fallen to Communist-led troops.

A military command spokesman today denied the claim, saying "both South and North Vietnamese forces are now in the city."

The command spokesman said Communist sappers launched attacks Friday and early today against government positions close to Kontum and Pleiku.

A government ammunition depot five miles northwest of Pleiku and the airbase closer to the city were attacked and 1,000 artillery rounds were destroyed by commando squads, he said.

In Saigon, Indonesian representatives on the four-nation peacekeeping commission announced they were pulling out of 10 team sites in South Vietnam because of danger to personnel. A statement said one Indonesian was trapped by the fighting at Ban Me Thuot.

In Cambodia, Communist-led insurgents shelled the isolated Mekong River naval base of Neak Luong for a second straight day, military sources said.

More than 1,000 rounds slammed into the town, killing 50 persons and wounding 150 persons, most of them civilians, and the situation was "critical," military sources said.

Drinking Water Standard Proposed For U.S. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting under the mandate of a recently enacted law, the Environmental Protection Agency has proposed the first national quality standards for drinking water.

The proposed interim standards, published Friday in the Federal Register, set maximum permissible levels for a variety of contaminants and specified requirements for monitoring most of the nation's 240,000 public water supplies.

The interim standards will take effect next June after a three-month period to receive and consider public comments, and permanent standards will take effect in December 1976.

"These proposals represent the first comprehensive effort to regulate uniformly and effectively the purity of the nation's drinking water," EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said in a statement accompanying the proposed standards.

"And, this is just the first step in our research and standard-setting activities designed to protect public health and provide the highest quality water supply for the American people," he said.

Creation of the regulations was required by the Safe Drinking Water Act, signed into law by President Ford last Dec. 17. The measure authorized $156.5 million for water quality improvement projects.

Primary responsibility for assuring safe drinking water still rest with the states, however, provided they demonstrate their ability to enforce standards at least as stringent as the federal standards, the EPA noted.

It said federal officials would intervene only in cases where a state either fails to enforce the minimum standards or chooses not to accept responsibility.

The new law requires a public announcement if a local water system does not comply with the standards or does not perform proper monitoring.

The proposed regulations set maximum permissible contaminant levels for 10 inorganic chemicals, total concentrations of organic chemicals, nine types of pesticides and fluorides. They also specify maximum levels for 10 inorganic chemicals, total concentrations of organic chemicals, nine types of pesticides and flourides. They also specify maximum levels for the turbidity, or murkiness, of drinking water and for microbiological contaminants.

Train said the regulations will be adjusted as more information becomes available from research projects, including one involving a study of organic chemicals in 80 water supplies.

Previous EPA studies of drinking water in New Orleans and Cincinnati disclosed the presence of organic material that has cancer-causing or poisoning potential.

Radiological contamination is not covered by the new regulations, but standards for those will be added soon, the EPA said.

Besides accepting written comments on the regulations, the EPA will conduct public hearings in Boston, April 15; Chicago, April 17; San Francisco, April 22, and Washington on April 25.

GUILTY: A federal court jury Friday convicted David Hall, former Oklahoma governor and Dallas financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor of attempting to bribe Oklahoma's secretary of state to swing a $10 million investment of state retirement funds into a company owned by Taylor. Hall also was convicted of attempting to extort $50,000 from Taylor. He will appeal the conviction. (AP Wirephoto)

Milliken Fund Cut Critized

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. Williamlliken was criticized Friday for recommending a $22.9 million reduction in funding for state mental institutions.

State Sen. Joseph Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, also blasted a state plan calling for a reduction in the fiscal year starting in July of 2,000 staff and 3,600 patients from state institutions.

"I do not believe that 3,618 patients can be successfully assimilated into our communities," said Snyder.

"Our recent recession, inflation and accelerating unemployment rate has increased the need for mental health services," Snyder said Friday in a letter to Milliken.

"The response on the part of our state to this crisis has been to decrease present levels of mental health programming and to budget for continued decreases."

"The mental health budget you have proposed," Snyder wrote Milliken, "does not meet the present needs of our system and most importantly is not in the best interests of our mentally ill and mentally retarded citizens."

Milliken Asks Rail Decision Be Changed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to reverse its denial for two additional hearings on a railroad plan that critics say could result in abandonment of 1,400 miles of track in Michigan.

"Mr. George Chandler of the ICC, in denying my request, told my office today that he believed the only reason for my request was political considerations," Milliken telegramed to other federal officials.

Hearings have been scheduled in Lansing and Traverse City, but Milliken requested additional hearings in Saginaw and Adrian.

His telegram Friday went to Undersecretary of Transportation John Barnum and ICC Chairman George M. S Stafford in Washington.

The plan of the United States Railway Association would exclude some 1,400 miles of track from Conrail, the structure being used to reorganize bankrupt railroads.

"Our state has been hardest hit in the nation by the energy crisis, by unemployment, and by the USRA plan," said Milliken. "I can assure you that this governor and the public, the business and the labor communities of this state want to be heard for very real economic reasons."

Delegate Choice Should Be Easy

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An affirmative action plan to choose delegates is expected to be adopted by the Michigan Democratic Party without much trouble, even though the question almost split national Democrats.

"I don't doubt we'll hear some discussion of it at the committee meeting Saturday," said Morley Winograd, state Democratic party chairman, Friday. But there are no major stumbling blocks in the way of adoption at the Democratic State Central Committee meeting today in Warren, he said.

Women, blacks, youth and other minority groups are assured roles in delegate selection for the 1980 national convention and beyond under the affirmative action plan.

Affirmative action was approved by the Democratic national midterm Convention Dec. 6-8 in Kansas City. It prompted AFL-CIO delegates, including Michigan AFL-CIO President William Marshall, to accuse party leaders of a double-cross.

Marshall, who says he won't be at Saturday's state committee meeting, and other national AFL-CIO delegates said the plan would result in mandatory quotas in delegate selection.

Marshall has complained that party leaders ignored labor in a rush to embrace minority groups. At one point, Marshall said he considered dropping out of the Democratic National Committee.

Because of the expansion of the Democratic National Committee from about 200 members to just over 300, the state Democratic committee will name three new representatives from Michigan.

Landscaping Is Topic For Short Course

A landscape short course for Berrien county homeowners this month and next is being sponsored by the Berrien county cooperative extension service.

The short course is designed to help those who want to improve their landscape or plan to landscape a new home.

It will be held at the Roosevelt elementary school in Stevensville on March 25, April 1, 8, and 15 beginning at 7:30 p.m., according to Berrien county agricultural agent James Neibauer. Each session will feature slide presentations. The sessions:

March 25 — Facets of Home Landscape Design, Dr. Joseph Cox, landscape architect specialist, Michigan State university.

April 1 — Lawns, Establishing and Maintaining, James Neibauer, Berrien agent.

Fruit Trees for You?, Harvey Belter, Berrien county extension agricultural agent.

April 8 — Trees for your Landscape, Clare Musgrove, Berrien county extension director.

Insects, Diseases and Pesticide Use, Neibauer.

April 15 — Take Your Landscape Apart in Order to Put One together, Dr. Cox.

Those interested may confirm registration for the course by sending $1 to the Cooperative Extension Service, 107 Courthouse, St. Joseph, Mi. 49085.

Checks should be made payable to the Berrien county extension service. The fee is for landscape bulletins which will be provided.

If there is space available, the registration fee can be paid at the door.

Now's Fine Time To Plan Facelifts

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Winter is the ideal time to review the exterior decoration of your house with spring improvements in mind.

Look at it not only from an aestetic viewpoint, but from a practical one — proper placement of plantings can make a house warmer, blocking north winds and letting in sunlight, an economy factor, too.

It is a good time to observe the outdoor incinerator, clothes dryer and barbecue in relation to the landscape.

Should any of these things be screened out with trees, bushes, other plantings? You may need to purchase older plantings that can serve as screens in the immediate future, but the cost should be viewed as a long-term investment.

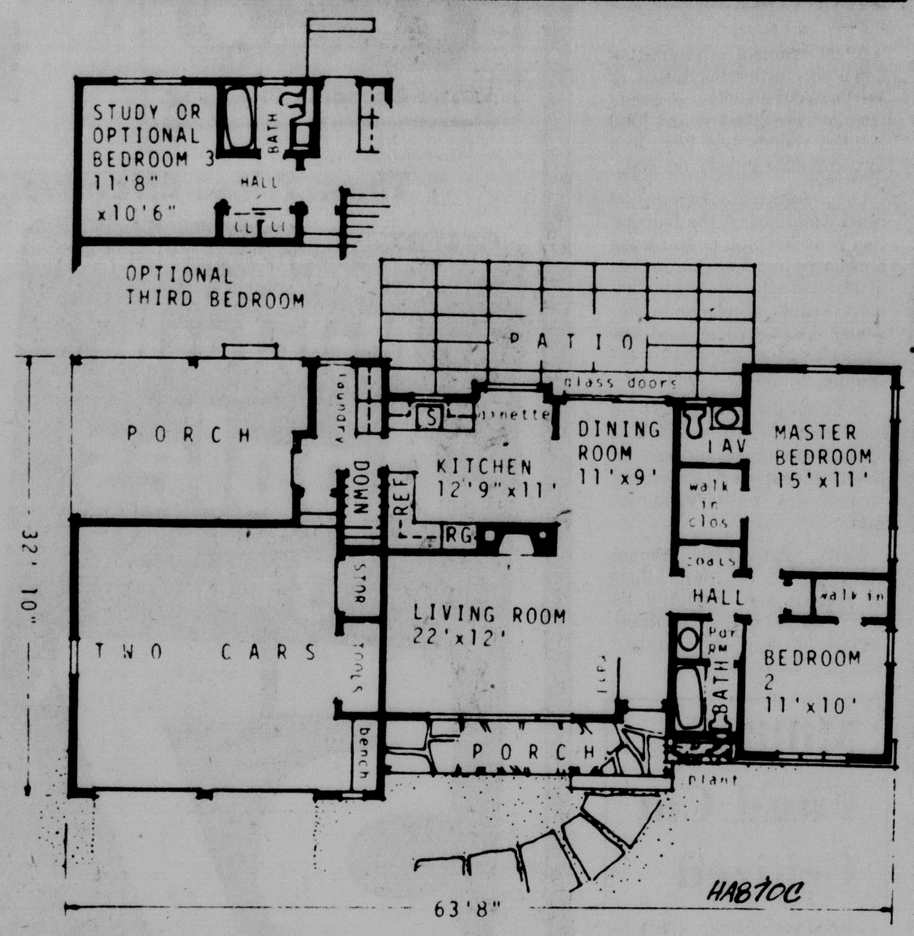
A method chosen by one family began with photographs, long shots and close-ups of their house, front and back. They examined enlarged photographs to decide how plantings in front of the house could be improved and they used black markers to draw a more attractive size and dimension for some bushes that needed only ruthless pruning.

Two cedar trees that were keeping sunlight from the dining area were earmarked for removal because the family used the room for breakfast and it seemed dreary. They decided they couldn't be sentimental about it. They replaced the trees with rhododendron.

Some people have the problem in reverse — plantings haven't grown as they had anticipated, and sometimes all the plants grow out of the balance that they had envisioned when they planned the plot.

If plants are put in willy-nilly, you can't always tell how they will look in relation to one another when they grow.

Experts should be consulted about any plants bought to use around the house.



CHARM AND CHARACTER describe this handsome two-bedroom ranch, ideal for the beginning family or the retired couple. Two bedrooms, with the option of a third in the basement, are included in the 1,060 square feet of living space. A finished basement doubles the amount of space available. Plan HA870C is by Lester Cohen, Room 505, 48 W. 48th street, New York, N.Y. 10036. Anyone wishing to find out the cost of the blueprint can write to the architect, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Caulking Gun: A Cure For Leaks

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The home owner has always known, in a rather vague way, that caulking the outside of his house is a good way to keep water from entering it.

What usually happens, though, is that he does nothing about it until the horse is stolen from the barn.

Any time you see the outside of a house being caulked, you can be reasonably certain that a leak has been noticed somewhere inside, probably damaging walls, ceilings and floors.

The same opening that admits water also admits air and plays havoc with the operation of heating and air-conditioning systems.

In looking for openings on the outside of a house, it is necessary to use a ladder, even for a one-story house, because it is difficult to see small gaps from a position on the ground.

Today's Real Estate by Florian L. Beles

Graduate of the Real Estate Institute
Realtor - Berrien Real Estate Service

There has been much said about "leverage" in making real estate investment. Leverage means that by using a small amount of money, the investor can accomplish big things. It is another way of saying, "Use other people's money to build an estate."

Those other people are quite anxious to let you use their money at a price, with security.

A common example of leverage in real estate could be that you buy a duplex for $20,000 and pay $3,000 down, the balance of $17,000 being borrowed from other people at an interest rate of 6%.

You collect $100 a month on the two apartments, a total of $2,400 a year, paying $1,020 interest on the $17,000. You have a net interest earning of $1,380, giving you a return on your $3,000 investment, before taxes, of 46%.

Payments to amortize the loan, with interest, over 20 years would be $121.72. You can make the payments out of rental earnings and still have money left after taxes and upkeep to do with as you want. You are letting other people's money work for you. You are using leverage.

Here is an example of leverage cited in a book, "Creative Real Estate Investment", published by the California Real Estate Association:

"Several years ago . . . a mail carrier ... bought house after house for never more than 10% down. He did the needed clean up work. He rented them for enough to pay taxes, maimenance and payments. In approximately 10 years he owned 15 clear houses. Then he resigned from the post office and became a full-time investor and real estate rental operator."

Quite a record!

There are considerably more complicated methods of using leverage. It can be through long term lease, sale and lease-back, options on vacant land, and many other situations.

Leverage is especially helpful in building an estate when there is increasing demand for real estate to serve an expanding population. The increasing demand raises the value of the real estate, and owner's equity.

If you invested $3,000 in a $20,000 property which doubled in value in 20 years, at which time you had it paid off from rental income, your $3,000 is now worth $40,000. Every dollar is now worth more than $13.

Your Realtor is versed in using leverage for investment purposes and can guide you on which leverage route might be best in your situation. He can probably help you find property that will help share in city's growth and build an estate doing it.

Leverage is only one of many ways that real estate can be used to accomplish this purpose. Investment can take other forms as well. Leverage does offer excitement and some risk. Most worthwhile accomplishments use the same two ingredients.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The wood on the house we bought has no finish of any kind. I got a little cheaper price by agreeing to paint it myself. I'd like to use latex paint. Will one coat be sufficient to cover?

A. — Possibly. But my recommendation has always been to use two coats of exterior latex paint on a wood surface which has never been painted.

Q. — In fitting a door to an opening, how much space should be left at the bottom?

A. — One-eighth of an inch is about right under ordinary circumstances, which would include a threshold under the bottom of the door. Should there be a rug in the room over which the door will move, then the opening should be just enough to clear the rug. If the door slides across the rug rather than slightly over it, there soon will be a worn area there.

Q. — Would plywood paneling attached to the present gypsum board walls help to make a room soundproof?

A. — Yes, especially if you attach the paneling to the present walls with an adhesive. Be especially if you attach the present walls with an adhesive. Be especially careful about following the directions on the adhesive container.

Q. — There is a fruit stain on our marble coffee table. It won't come out with water no matter how hard I rub. I'm afraid to try a chemical on it. Is there something that will take out the stain?

A. — Clean well with water, then soak a white paper napkin in a 25 per cent hydrogen peroxide solution and place it on the stain. Let it stay there a couple of days, covering it with a piece of glass to keep it in place. The treatment may have to be repeated two or three times.

Q. — The wood paneling in our family room is covered with varnish. Can I paint right over it?

A. — Yes, but the gloss must be removed first. This can be done with sandpaper or one of the liquid preparations made specifically for this purpose.

Inspector Gets A Permit, Too

WATERVLIET — Watervliet Township Building Inspector William Gaines issued a permit to himself along with three other permits during February.

Gaines took out a permit to install a hall-bath in the basement of his home, off North M-140, Watervliet. Estimated cost was $350.

Permits issued to others include: Fred Jones, route 1, Red Arrow highway, to build pole type building and roof loading dock, $9,500.

Lionel Hanks, Hagar Shore road, erect 24 by 4 foot wood frame garage, $2,400.

John Van Drasek, route 1, box 165, Shorelane, insulate and tile three ceilings, $1,000.

New House Due For Township

COLOMA — Coloma Township Building Inspector Richard Pearson issued two permits during February, one for a new house.

The house permit was issued to Riley McIntosh of Benton Harbor to build a 24 by 38-foot one-story frame house with garage in Atherton Crest subdivision, estimated cost, $20,000.

The second permit was issued to Jack Herman, Paw Paw Lake road, to remodel his porch, $500.

North Vietnamese Troops Overrun Another Outpost

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese forces today overran another outpost defending the provincial capital of Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon along the Cambodian border.

It was the fourth outpost to fall in the area in the last two days.

Government forces reopened the only overland route to Tay Ninh from Saigon, enabling a large South Vietnamese convoy to reach Tay Ninh with large stocks of munitions and fuel in anticipation of a large-scale North Vietnamese assault.

In the central highlands, a 300-man garrison fell to a tankled North Vietnamese attack 25 miles northwest of Ban Me Thuot, a provincial capital 155 miles north of Saigon which the Viet Cong claimed had fallen to Communist-led troops.

A military command spokesman today denied the claim, saying "both South and North Vietnamese forces are now in the city."

The command spokesman said Communist sappers launched attacks Friday and early today against government positions close to Kontum and Pleiku.

A government ammunition depot five miles northwest of Pleiku and the airbase closer to the city were attacked and 1,000 artillery rounds were destroyed by commando squads, he said.

In Saigon, Indonesian representatives on the four-nation peacekeeping commission announced they were pulling out of 10 team sites in South Vietnam because of danger to personnel. A statement said one Indonesian was trapped by the fighting at Ban Me Thuot.

In Cambodia, Communist-led insurgents shelled the isolated Mekong River naval base of Neak Luong for a second straight day, military sources said.

More than 1,000 rounds slammed into the town, killing 50 persons and wounding 150 persons, most of them civilians, and the situation was "critical," military sources said.

Drinking Water Standard Proposed For U.S. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting under the mandate of a recently enacted law, the Environmental Protection Agency has proposed the first national quality standards for drinking water.

The proposed interim standards, published Friday in the Federal Register, set maximum permissible levels for a variety of contaminants and specified requirements for monitoring most of the nation's 240,000 public water supplies.

The interim standards will take effect next June after a three-month period to receive and consider public comments, and permanent standards will take effect in December 1976.

"These proposals represent the first comprehensive effort to regulate uniformly and effectively the purity of the nation's drinking water," EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said in a statement accompanying the proposed standards.

"And, this is just the first step in our research and standard-setting activities designed to protect public health and provide the highest quality water supply for the American people," he said.

Creation of the regulations was required by the Safe Drinking Water Act, signed into law by President Ford last Dec. 17. The measure authorized $156.5 million for water quality improvement projects.

Primary responsibility for assuring safe drinking water still rest with the states, however, provided they demonstrate their ability to enforce standards at least as stringent as the federal standards, the EPA noted.

It said federal officials would intervene only in cases where a state either fails to enforce the minimum standards or chooses not to accept responsibility.

The new law requires a public announcement if a local water system does not comply with the standards or does not perform proper monitoring.

The proposed regulations set maximum permissible contaminant levels for 10 inorganic chemicals, total concentrations of organic chemicals, nine types of pesticides and fluorides. They also specify maximum levels for 10 inorganic chemicals, total concentrations of organic chemicals, nine types of pesticides and flourides. They also specify maximum levels for the turbidity, or murkiness, of drinking water and for microbiological contaminants.

Train said the regulations will be adjusted as more information becomes available from research projects, including one involving a study of organic chemicals in 80 water supplies.

Previous EPA studies of drinking water in New Orleans and Cincinnati disclosed the presence of organic material that has cancer-causing or poisoning potential.

Radiological contamination is not covered by the new regulations, but standards for those will be added soon, the EPA said.

Besides accepting written comments on the regulations, the EPA will conduct public hearings in Boston, April 15; Chicago, April 17; San Francisco, April 22, and Washington on April 25.

GUILTY: A federal court jury Friday convicted David Hall, former Oklahoma governor and Dallas financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor of attempting to bribe Oklahoma's secretary of state to swing a $10 million investment of state retirement funds into a company owned by Taylor. Hall also was convicted of attempting to extort $50,000 from Taylor. He will appeal the conviction. (AP Wirephoto)

Milliken Asks Rail Decision Be Changed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to reverse its denial for two additional hearings on a railroad plan that critics say could result in abandonment of 1,400 miles of track in Michigan.

"Mr. George Chandler of the ICC, in denying my request, told my office today that he believed the only reason for my request was political considerations," Milliken telegramed to other federal officials.

Hearings have been scheduled in Lansing and Traverse City, but Milliken requested additional hearings in Saginaw and Adrian.

His telegram Friday went to Undersecretary of Transportation John Barnum and ICC Chairman George M. S Stafford in Washington.

The plan of the United States Railway Association would exclude some 1,400 miles of track from Conrail, the structure being used to reorganize bankrupt railroads.

"Our state has been hardest hit in the nation by the energy crisis, by unemployment, and by the USRA plan," said Milliken. "I can assure you that this governor and the public, the business and the labor communities of this state want to be heard for very real economic reasons."

Milliken Fund Cut Critized

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. Williamlliken was criticized Friday for recommending a $22.9 million reduction in funding for state mental institutions.

State Sen. Joseph Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, also blasted a state plan calling for a reduction in the fiscal year starting in July of 2,000 staff and 3,600 patients from state institutions.

"I do not believe that 3,618 patients can be successfully assimilated into our communities," said Snyder.

"Our recent recession, inflation and accelerating unemployment rate has increased the need for mental health services," Snyder said Friday in a letter to Milliken.

"The response on the part of our state to this crisis has been to decrease present levels of mental health programming and to budget for continued decreases."

"The mental health budget you have proposed," Snyder wrote Milliken, "does not meet the present needs of our system and most importantly is not in the best interests of our mentally ill and mentally retarded citizens."

Official Wants Charges Probed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — U.S. Secret Service Director H. Stewart Knight says recent allegations that Lee Harvey Oswald did not kill President John F. Kennedy should be "thoroughly investigated."

Knight said, however, he still believes the Warren Commission finding that Oswald, acting alone, assassinated Kennedy.

Landscaping Is Topic For Short Course

A landscape short course for Berrien county homeowners this month and next is being sponsored by the Berrien county cooperative extension service.

The short course is designed to help those who want to improve their landscape or plan to landscape a new home.

It will be held at the Roosevelt elementary school in Stevensville on March 25, April 1, 8, and 15 beginning at 7:30 p.m., according to Berrien county agricultural agent James Neibauer. Each session will feature slide presentations. The sessions:

March 25 — Facets of Home Landscape Design, Dr. Joseph Cox, landscape architect specialist, Michigan State university.

April 1 — Lawns, Establishing and Maintaining, James Neibauer, Berrien agent.

Fruit Trees for You?, Harvey Belter, Berrien county extension agricultural agent.

April 8 — Trees for your Landscape, Clare Musgrove, Berrien county extension director.

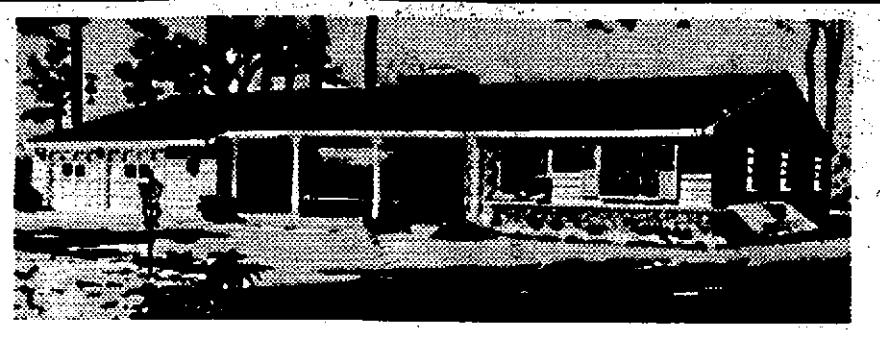
Insects, Diseases and Pesticide Use, Neibauer.

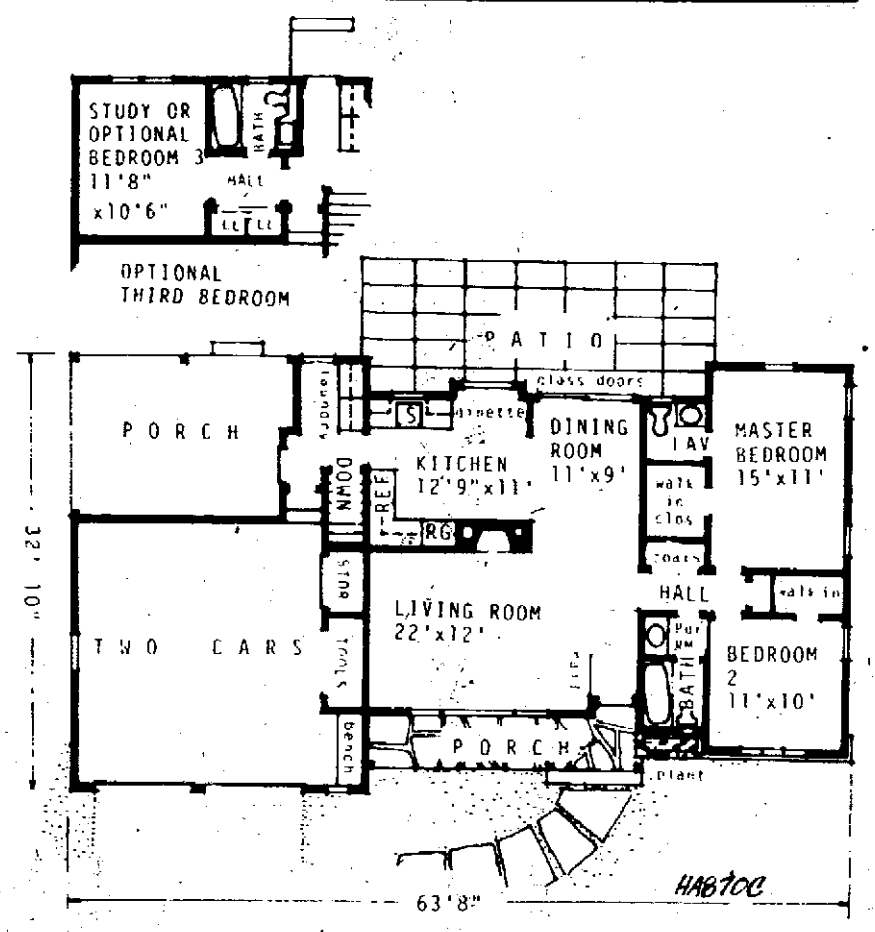
April 15 — Take Your Landscape Apart in Order to Put One together, Dr. Cox.

Those interested may confirm registration for the course by sending $1 to the Cooperative Extension Service, 107 Courthouse, St. Joseph, Mi. 49085.

Checks should be made payable to the Berrien county extension service. The fee is for landscape bulletins which will be provided.

If there is space available, the registration fee can be paid at the door.





CHARM AND CHARACTER describe this handsome two-bedroom ranch, ideal for the beginning family or the retired couple. Two bedrooms, with the option of a third in the basement, are included in the 1,060 square feet of living space. A finished basement doubles the amount of space available. Plan HA870C is by Lester Cohen, Room 505, 48 W. 48th street, New York, N.Y. 10036. Anyone wishing to find out the cost of the blueprint can write to the architect, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Now's Fine Time To Plan Facelifts

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Winter is the ideal time to review the exterior decoration of your house with spring improvements in mind.

Look at it not only from an aestetic viewpoint but from a practical one — proper placement of plantings can make a house warmer, blocking north winds and letting in sunlight, an economy factor, too.

It is a good time to observe the outdoor incinerator, clothes dryer and barbecue in relation to the landscape.

Should any of these things be screened out with trees, bushes, other plantings? You may need to purchase older plantings that can serve as screens in the immediate future, but the cost should be viewed as a long-term investment.

A method chosen by one family began with photographs, long shots and close-ups of their house, front and back. They examined enlarged photographs to decide how plantings in front of the house could be improved and they used black markers to draw a more attractive size and dimension for some bushes that needed only ruthless pruning.

Two cedar trees that were keeping sunlight from the dining area were earmarked for removal because the family used the room for breakfast and it seemed dreary. They decided they couldn't be sentimental about it. They replaced the trees with rhododendron.

Some people have the problem in reverse — plantings haven't grown as they had anticipated, and sometimes all the plants grow out of the balance that they had envisioned when they planned the plot.

If plants are put in willy-nilly, you can't always tell how they will look in relation to one another when they grow.

Experts should be consulted about any plants bought to use around the house.

The Caulking Gun: A Cure For Leaks

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The home owner has always known, in a rather vague way, that caulking the outside of his house is a good way to keep water from entering it.

What usually happens, though, is that he does nothing about it until the horse is stolen from the barn.

Any time you see the outside of a house being caulked, you can be reasonably certain that a leak has been noticed somewhere inside, probably damaging walls, ceilings and floors.

The same opening that admits water also admits air and plays havoc with the operation of heating and air-conditioning systems.

In looking for openings on the outside of a house, it is necessary to use a ladder, even for a one-story house, because it is difficult to see small gaps from a position on the ground.

Today's Real Estate by Florian L. Beles

There has been much said about "leverage" in making real estate investment. Leverage means that by using a small amount of money, the investor can accomplish big things. It is another way of saying, "Use other people's money to build an estate."

Those other people are quite anxious to let you use their money at a price, with security.

A common example of leverage in real estate could be that you buy a duplex for $20,000 and pay $3,000 down, the balance of $17,000 being borrowed from other people at an interest rate of 6%.

You collect $100 a month on the two apartments, a total of $2,400 a year, paying $1,020 interest on the $17,000. You have a net interest earning of $1,380, giving you a return on your $3,000 investment, before taxes, of 46%.

Payments to amortize the loan, with interest, over 20 years would be $121.72. You can make the payments out of rental earnings and still have money left after taxes and upkeep to do with as you want. You are letting other people's money work for you. You are using leverage.

Here is an example of leverage cited in a book, "Creative Real Estate Investment", published by the California Real Estate Association:

"Several years ago . . . a mail carrier ... bought house after house for never more than 10% down. He did the needed clean up work. He rented them for enough to pay taxes, maintenance and payments. In approximately 10 years he owned 15 clear houses. Then he resigned from the post office and became a full-time investor and real estate rental operator."

Quite a record!

There are considerably more complicated methods of using leverage. It can be through long term lease, sale and lease-back, options on vacant land, and many other situations.

Leverage is especially helpful in building an estate when there is increasing demand for real estate to serve an expanding population. The increasing demand raises the value of the real estate, and owner's equity.

If you invested $3,000 in a $20,000 property which doubled in value in 20 years, at which time you had it paid off from rental income, your $3,000 is now worth $40,000. Every dollar is now worth more than $13.

Your Realtor is versed in using leverage for investment purpodes and can guide you on which leverage route might be best in your situation. He can probably help you find property that will help share in city's growth and build an estate doing it.

Leverage is only one of many ways that real estate can be used to accomplish this purpose. Investment can take other forms as well. Leverage does offer excitement and some risk. Most worthwhile accomplishments use the same two ingredients.

If you are intereste in purchasing Real Estate, call Berrien Real Estate Service 983-1585.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The wood on the house we bought has no finish of any kind. I got a little cheaper price by agreeing to paint it myself. I'd like to use latex paint. Will one coat be sufficient to cover?

A. — Possibly. But my recommendation has always been to use two coats of exterior latex paint on a wood surface which has never been painted.

Q. — In fitting a door to an opening, how much space should be left at the bottom?

A. — One-eighth of an inch is about right under ordinary circumstances, which would include a threshold under the bottom of the door. Should there be a rug in the room over which the door will move, then the opening should be just enough to clear the rug. If the door slides across the rug rather than slightly over it, there soon will be a worn area there.

Q. — Would plywood paneling attached to the present gypsum board walls help to make a room soundproof?

A. — Yes, especially if you attach the paneling to the present walls with an adhesive. Be especially if you attach the present walls with an adhesive. Be especially careful about following the directions on the adhesive container.

Q. — There is a fruit stain on our marble coffee table. It won't come out with water no matter how hard I rub. I'm afraid to try a chemical on it. Is there something that will take out the stain?

A. — Clean well with water, then soak a white paper napkin in a 25 per cent hydrogen peroxide solution and place it on the stain. Let it stay there a couple of days, covering it with a piece of glass to keep it in place. The treatment may have to be repeated two or three times.

Q. — The wood paneling in our family room is covered with varnish. Can I paint right over it?

A. — Yes, but the gloss must be removed first. This can be done with sandpaper or one of the liquid preparations made specifically for this purpose.

Storm Windows are THE BEST INVESTMENT you'll ever make...
"In as little as six years, they pay for themselves in lower heating bills; after that, it's like getting a 13 percent dividend on your investment every year. If you have air conditioning, leave storm windows on in summer. You'll keep 30 percent more of the cool air you are paying so dearly to get."
...from Reader's Digest, December, '74
According to the American Gas Association, "Storm windows and doors. Smart buy. If your home doesn't have storm windows and doors, you may be losing as much as 20% of your heat! So you can readily see how they can pay for themselves in very little time."
The Price of Storm Windows Will NEVER be Lower!

MARKET TURNS UPWARD: The stock market ended the week on an upward note after four sessions of decline. The Dow Jones average closed at 773.47 Friday, up 3.37 from the week prior, while the Associated Press average rose by 0.6 over the same period, to close at 256.4. Analysts attributed the market rise to news of a decline in business inventories and a decline in business loan demands. (AP Wirephoto)

Crash Suit Asks $950,000 Award

The widow of a South Haven area man who died two weeks after a Nov. 16, 1974 auto accident sued Friday in Berrien circuit court for a total of $950,000.

In another suit, a Coloma man named two individuals, two insurance firms and the secretary of state as defendants in a suit in which he asks the court to determine who he can sue as financially responsible for the loss of his eye and other injuries. The plaintiff was David K. Fritz.

Mrs. Betty J. Lewis, South Haven, widow of Doyle E. Lewis, who died last Nov. 30 after an auto crash on US-33 in Hagar township, asks $506,000 from Michael J. McCann, Benton Harbor, and $450,000 from Vincent and Coretta Farone, man and wife owners of Club 33 bar in Hagar township.

Mrs. Lewis alleges McCann, driver of the other car, was en route home from Club 33 bar, crossed the centerline of US-33 and collided with her husband's auto, traveling in the other direction.

The plaintiff charges the operators of the bar contributed to her husband's death, under provisions of the Dram Shop act, in that they served the other driver intoxicating beverages when he allegedly was already under the influence.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mrs. Lewis and her daughter, Robbie Ann, 8.

Fritz, in a suit prepared by Atty. S. Jack Keller, said he lost his right eye and sustained other injuries on Nov. 26, 1973, in an auto accident and has been unable since to determine the proper party to file claims against. He stated he was a passenger in a car driven by Timothy Sibley of Coloma, and owned by Audie Moore.

The suit indicated it could not be determined that Moore had insurance, and the State of Michigan Fund for Uninsured Motorists has neither admitted nor denied if the Moore vehicle was insured.

The Auto-Owners Insurance Co. holds Sibley was not insured under a policy Sibley's mother had with the firm, according to the suit. Fritz named his own insurer, Progressive Insurance Co., another defendant.

Fritz asked that the court "determine who is responsible to defend and be financially responsible for plaintiff's claims for permanent injuries."

In another suit, Jessiebell Dannaffel of Benton Harbor asks $60,000 from the Anchor Beauty Salon, 76 Wall street, Benton Harbor. She alleges she was a customer at the salon and fell down a flight of basement stairs as she sought the rest room. The suit claimed injuries to the head, neck, back, arms and legs.

Jonelle Hopkins of Benton Harbor asks $60,000 from Sentry Insurance Co. His suit says he was injured in a traffic accident in St. Joseph on Feb. 12, 1974. He said he had a no-fault policy with Sentry, and that the firm terminated all loss of work benefits and medical payments incurred after Dec. 31, 1974, in violation of the insurance contract.

Hopkins asks $30,000 for past and future wage losses and medical expenses, and $30,000 for punitive damages.

Decatur Native Will Leave Ford

DETROIT — Malcolm L. Denise, a Decatur, Mich., native and Ford Motor company vice president, has announced his retirement after more than 33 years with the motor firm.

Denise, 61, for the past 15 years has been vice president for labor relations and headed the firm's bargaining team during the last six sets of negotiations with the United Auto Workers' union.

He and his family live in Grosse Pointe.

His retirement was announced at a meeting of the board of directors this week and in a news release from the company.

Denise was born Oct. 29, 1913, in Decatur, and received his bachelor of arts and law degree from the University of Michigan.

He began his law career in 1937 as an associate in the Detroit law firm of Lucking, Van Auken and Sprague and joined the Ford legal staff in 1946.

He was appointed general industrial relations manager for labor relations in 1955 and was elected Ford vice president and appointed vice president of labor relations in 1959.

He is a national chairman of the University of Michigan law school fund and vice chairman of the Michigan executive committee for United Negro College fund, Inc.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: The National Weather Service predicts rain Saturday in much of the South and in Northern California and snow flurries in the Ohio Valley region and the inland Pacific Northwest from California to the Rockies. (AP Wirephoto Map)

April Seminar To Show The Future To Executives

"The Emerging Future: Myths and Realities," is the title of a seminar for Twin City executives Thursday, April 10, at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

The seminar will be sponsored by the Industrial Management Training program, an affiliate of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with Michigan State university center and Western Michigan university area office.

Roger H. Curry, executive vice president of the chamber and executive seminar program chairman, said the seminar will be conducted by Dr. William Lazer, professor, graduate school of business, Michigan State university.

The seminar will deal with the following: Future developments in population, income, productivity, geographic trends, the cores of cities and development of suburbs, the youth and their rebellion, the feminist movement and women's liberation, the new family scene, the emerging social class, the impact of ecology and environmental issues, and new thrusts in business organization as a result of these developments.

Dr. Lazer will look at the lifestyles and environmental factors and forces, Curry said, as well as the economic factors and forces that will affect and shape business opportunities and internal organization.

Dr. Lazer holds degrees of bachelor of commerce from the University of Manitoba, Canada, master of business administration from the University of Chicago, and a Ph.D. from Ohio State university. He was a post-doctoral Ford Foundation Fellow at the Institute of Basic Mathematics for Application to Business conducted at Harvard university.

In 1972 he was designated outstanding marketing educator of the year by Sales and Marketing Executives International.

In 1974 he received the highest honor MSU can bestow on a faculty member, the distinguished faculty award, in recognition of outstanding contributions to the intellectual development of the university.

He has authored or coauthored nine books, including "Marketing Management: A Systems Perspective;" "Social Marketing: Perspectives and Viewpoints"; "Managerial Marketing: Policies, Decisions and Strategies"; and "Mathematical Models and Methods in Marketing."

Dr. Lazer has written extensively for professional journals and business periodicals, having published 4 monographs, over 85 articles, and chapters for more than 40 books in business administration.

Curry said the seminar begins with registration at 11:45 a.m. followed by luncheon. Deadline for reservations, which have been mailed to executives, is Thursday, April 3. Cost of the seminar is $25 per person, which includes registration, luncheon and coffee.

Defendant Changes To Guilty Plea

A criminal trial in Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns' court had been underway for about two hours Thursday when the defendant decided to plead guilty to a lesser charge.

Larry Donnell Hurse, 21, address unknown, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling. He went to trial on a charge of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

Hurse was accused of breaking into the home of his uncle, Benjamin Hurse, at 1654 East Empire avenue, Benton township, on Dec. 17. He was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing of up to 10 years in prison.

Buchanan Pair Hurt In Crash

NILES — Ronald Bailey, 20, of 934 Main street, Buchanan, was listed in fairly good condition this morning at Niles Pawating hospital after being injured in a one-vehicle accident here early today.

A passenger in the jeep driven by Bailey, Gary Houseworth, 21, also of 934 Main street, Buchanan, was treated for minor injuries he received in the 1:40 a.m. accident and later released from Pawating hospital, police said.

Police said Bailey was headed north o Third street in Niles an attempted to pass an auto when it turned left in front of him. The driver swerved to avoid an accident and the jeep turned over, police said.

Bailey was ticketed for driving too fast for road conditions.

Crash Sets Car Afire; No One Hurt

A Hastings, Mich., woman escaped unhurt from her auto that crashed into a guard rail on I-94 in Lake township Friday and burst into flames, reported state police from the Benton Harbor post.

Georgine Marie Simpson, 19, told troopers she was eastbound when the left rear tire blew out. She said she applied the brakes and the car went out of control.

The accident occurred about 10:35 a.m. near Livingston road. Troopers said that firemen from Lake township extinguished the blaze that destroyed the vehicle. No tickets were issued, police stated.

FREIGHT

Dowagiac To Keep 'Some' Rail Service

DOWAGIAC — U.S. Railway association officials yesterday assured those battling to preserve a freight rail link for Dowagiac that at least some service will be included in the federal Conrail reorganization plan.

Officials told city leaders that a study of the Penn Central line between Dowagiac and Niles shows it should be included in the reorganization.

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. called yesterday's decision "half a victory" since Dowagiac also is battling to have the Penn Central track between here and Kalamazoo included in the federal Conrail freight plan. In the original Conrail plan, both the Penn Central line from Kalamazoo to Dowagiac and Dowagiac to Niles would have been dropped, unless subsidized by the state.

Mayor Graham Woodhouse said he was told federal officials expect to make a decision on the Kalamazoo to Dowagiac line within two weeks.

The Penn Central line between Dowagiac and Niles is part of the current passenger (Amtrak) train route between Chicago and Detroit.

Graper said that including the Dowagiac to Niles line would enable Dowagiac to be hooked up to Elkhart, Ind., considered a major center in Conrail's plan, by lines from Elkhart to South Bend and north to Niles. With a connection to Elkhart, Graper said freight service out of Dowagiac could travel the entire Conrail system.

Conrail's plan shows a line from Detroit to Kalamazoo, but Kalamazoo and Elkhart would be connected via lines through Vicksburg and Three Rivers. Dowagiac officials challenged federal figures showing the Niles to Dowagiac line had too little freight traffic to permit a profit and drew a formal apology from U.S. Railway association officials for errors in the figures showing the line's freight traffic.

Mayor Woodhouse said the Niles to Buchanan portion of the Penn Central line also will be in the Conrail plan if Amtrak, which handles passenger service, will agree to meet its maintenance costs.

Already included in Conrail's original plan for freight service is the Penn Central line from Benton Harbor to Niles, which runs through Sodus and Eau Claire.

Two Sawyer Teens Hurt In Rollover

THREE OAKS — Two Sawyer teenagers were injured in a one-car accident north of here early this morning, state police from the New Buffalo post said.

Listed in fairly good condition at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was James Dean, 16, route 1, Sawyer, identified by police as the driver of the auto.

A passenger, Phillip Naumann, 16, route 4, Sawyer, was treated and released from Memorial hospital, troopers said.

Police said Dean lost control of the auto at the intersection of Three Oaks road and Indian Trails road in Chikaming township about 3 a.m. today. The car struck a guard rail, rolled over twice, coming to rest on its top, police said.

Dean was ticketed for careless driving, troopers said.

Fine Or Jail Ordered For Hoosier

NILES — Kenneth Lloyd, 23, of Mishawaka, Ind., was ordered to pay $500 in fines and court costs, or serve four months in jail, when sentenced in Berrien Fifth District court in Niles yesterday, following a guilty plea on a charge of possession of a police radio monitor in his vehicle.

Sheriff's deputies from the Galien substation said Lloyd was arrested after deputies stopped an auto on California road in Weesaw township about 3 a.m. Thursday, for a traffic violation. Deputies said they found a portable radio in the car that could monitor Berrien county and South Bend, Ind., police broadcasts.

Decatur Fire Blamed On Children

DECATUR — A Decatur man suffered smoke inhalation Friday when he attempted to get a burning mattress out of his house after it was set on fire by children playing with a cigarette lighter, the Decatur fire department reported.

Treated and released from Lee Memorial hospital for smoke inhalation was Robert Peterson, White Oak street. The fire started about 5:50 p.m. The Decatur fire department responded and extinguished the flames. Damage was limited to the mattress.

In a separate blaze about 12:30 p.m. lan estimated $300 damage was done to an addition of a mobile home occupied by John Kirby, Burgess road.

Decatur fire officials reported the the fire was started by a woodburning stove. No one was reported injured.

STORMS DUE

Big Lake Shoreline Dike Repair Urged

DETROIT (AP) — Owners of Great Lakes' shoreline property have been warned to repair dikes and seawalls as the spring storm season approaches.

The U.S. Commerce Department's Lake Survey Center says that except for Lake Ontario, all the lakes are expected to be at above-normal levels, only slightly lower than the extremely high levels of the last few years.

"Our forecasts have proven to be quite accurate...," said Benjamin DeCooke, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers' hydraulics branch. "However, major deviations in rain and snowfall such as occurred in December and January can alter those forecasts."

DeCooke said the lake-level situation is improving, but added that levels are high enough to cause damage if a bad storm should occur.

The Lake Survey unit considers the west end of Lake Erie, Lake St. Clair, Saginaw Bay and Green Bay as critical areas.

The Lake Survey monitors water levels at more than 50 gauging stations around the lakes.

Official Wants Charges Probed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — U.S. Secret Service Director H. Stewart Knight says recent allegations that Lee Harvey Oswald did not kill President John F. Kennedy should be "thoroughly investigated."

Knight said, however, he still believes the Warren Commission finding that Oswald, acting alone, assassinated Kennedy.

would not be liable in any legal action.

Since Bryan is only a part-time employe, his activities are not subject to the union contract, which covers only full-time employes, Stump said, in response to another question. Since Bryan only does marine and posse work, he does not take work away from any regular deputy, Stump said.

Stump said that since the effective date of the union contract there had been no grievances filed against him, and that the union steward had told him none were being contemplated.

At the time of the accident, Stump said, Bryan had asked for and received permission to accompany the other deputy to the scene of an accident investigation as part of his internship work at KVCC. He was not being paid, Stump said.

Stump continued that all claims are submitted through the claims committee of the county board of commissioners which examines them and either accepts or rejects them according to standard procedures. These claims are also subject to an annual audit by the state treasury department, according to Stump.

Stump commented that he believed McCaw's comments were politically motivated in view of the fact that he had fired McCaw when he was a deputy for "insubordination, argumentative attitude and disrespectful manner of speech." Stump noted that at no time during his 10 months as a deputy was McCaw a certified police officer.

Stump also said that McCaw appealed his dismissal to the state labor relations commission, but lost the case.

MANUFACTURER HITS HARASSMENT 'GAME'

Editor,

Having worked in the field of customer relations for a national organization for 20 years, I feel it is most important to comment on the article published in the Herald-Palladum March 8 entitled, "15-Year-Old Is His Own Best Consumer Advocate."

Since this was an Associated Press release, it will appear in newspapers across the country, and at first glance would seem to be an interesting story, but it's really nothing more than another article encouraging dishonesty.

It is certainly proper for a consumer to register complaints, but this kind of publicity can only lead to more abuse of the privilege to complain. In reading the article, it's quite obvious that the 15-year-old treats this as a game, as he's contacted 150 companies and has "raked in" $550 of free merchandise. . .and with the blessing of his parents.

While all this sounds like "fun," what is really overlooked is that the customer is paying for this in high prices, just like so many other questionable or outright dishonest practices have had an effect on the high cost of living today.

It takes a rather large staff to handle customer complaints in any organization, and speaking from experience, we encounter many who look at this matter in the same light, i.e., their philosophy seems to be, "It doesn't hurt to try. . . let's see what we can get for free."

Actually, it costs a great deal of money to maintain a customer relations or similar department to handle these matters, and this expense is ultimately a part of overhead that must be recovered in the selling price. As a secondary effect, this causes a certain amount of suspicion of legitimate complaints, and not all who are entitled to settlement are served properly.

I realize there are many other abuses, and this may seem like a small matter; however, manufacturers generally agree that customers have a right to complain if treated dishonestly, and will make fair adjustments. However, any article published that would encourage a form of deception or harassment just for the sake of getting more than you're entitled to, is morally wrong, no matter how it's presented.

As a businessman, I feel that we do have to take a stand by replying to news articles of this type. . . to prevent misguided persons from trying this, and to simply point out a wrongdoing. In fact, this response is needed rather than the impersonal attitude of so many who merely comment about this clever "rip-off" of large companies.

Our country was founded on the principle that a man has a right to speak out against that which he thinks is wrong, and we in the business community have the responsibility to make this reply. Furthermore, we should encourage others to speak out against abuses that will eventually hurt no one but themselves; we've seen the effect of higher costs resulting in decreased sales and a slowdown in manufacturing, which causes loss of jobs.

A final point that should not be overlooked is the opposite of protest is silent apathy towards such behavior, which really gives the impression of approval; we look the other way while this is going on.

Thank you for hearing the manufacturer's side. It's really upsetting to read this formula, "How To Succeed In Getting Something For Nothing," while we really need lessons in morality and ethics.

I'm forwarding a copy of this letter to the Daily Tribune in Royal Oak, Michigan, where the article originated.

HE'S TIRED OF 'BEING ROBBED'

Editor,

As everyone well knows, we are in a period of high inflation, recession and unemployment.

I, for one, am getting tired of being robbed! Namely by the government, the super rich oil companies and auto makers!

Government? For one, the bureau to run the bureau to run the bureau. Eating up my tax dollar and wanting more! Two, Mr. Congressman, Senator, County and City Governments, etc. etc., voting in their own payhikes. Eating up my tax dollar and wanting more! Many or most of these people have good businesses or jobs on the side. Many of them get the fresh hot tips on the best investments, and have money to invest, and are wealthy. I do not deny them this privilege. But, we the people have nothing to say about their payhikes out of our tax dollars!

And now the newspaper says that welfare people can get a job making up to $9,000.00 and not lose any welfare benefits, while I, making less than $8,000.00 when working, cannot even get medicaid for my children while I'm laid off! On the other hand, if my children were illegitamate, I could get the medicaid and more!

America: Are we still "we the people" as stated in our priceless constitution? Or is it time to change our constitution to read: We The Government?

As for the super rich oil companies and auto makers, there seems to be a conspiracy of some type. Our country is telling us to save our energy, to conserve our natural resources. One popular way they would like to do this is by raising the allready high prices and rationing! Letting the rich man have all he wants to fool around with, while we, the majority are forced to sit at home and watch him!, as our unfavorite passtime! Don't get me wrong. I too say, "save our natural resources", but, listen:

There are many stories of the fancy experimental carburators from Detroit accidently slipping through on a new car. The proud owner braggs up fantastic gas milage from his new family sedan. He takes it to the dealer for the 1,000 mile service check, gets it back and only gets the normal 12 to 15 odd miles per gallon! Some of these may be just stories, but I believe there must be at least a certain amount of truth to some of them.

It is said many times over that our super rich oil companies will make an inventor rich, solely for the purpose of keeping a realy good gas saving device off of the market, out of Mr. John Q. Publics hands and pocket book. "Save our natural resources".

Also, I think the government should lay off of automotive smog controls until we get better gas milage for our cars and trucks, big and small, new and old, which should in itself produce less pollution. Then, smog controls that won't poison us with sulphur or something else, and give better, not less gas milage, should go hand in hand. I am in favor of the working man getting a little better break. The rich man has been getting more than his fair share too long! Without the working man, where would the government be? Broke, because the rich do not pay taxes!

Also, it is said that most American homes are not insulated, wasting vast amounts of our precious resources! How about some easy to get government aid (no red tape, must have proof of installed insulation) to get these homes insulated and "save our natural resources"!

And, how about a yearly, fall news article on how to set heating controls such as limit and fan switches, and thermostats (i.e. temp. rise intervals etc.) for heating efficiency and comfort. Much is said in the manuals about comfort settings, but nothing about efficiency. Also, are our heating units designed for maximum fuel efficiency? Or would more research help to "save our natural resources"?

These are a few things that could put much of America back to work. And to blazes with high priced Arab oil!

Youth, 15 Ordered To Stand Trial

A 15-year-old Benton Heights youth was ordered to stand trial in circuit court on armed robbery and car theft charges Thursday when Berrien Probate Judge Ronald Lange waived jurisdiction over the boy.

Kenneth Duane Spear, 15, whose last known address was 2159 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights.

Spear is accused of robbing Ophelia Thorton, of 2494 Irving drive, Benton township, of her car keys and then stealing her car on Feb. 27. Assistant Prosecutor John Sullivan said a .35 caliber rifle was allegedly used in the robbery.

MARKET TURNS UPWARD: The stock market ended the week on an upward note after four sessions of decline. The Dow Jones average closed at 773.47 Friday, up 3.37 from the week prior, while the Associated Press average rose by 0.6 over the same period, to close at 256.4. Analysts attributed the market rise to news of a decline in business inventories and a decline in business loan demands. (AP Wirephoto)

Buchanan Pair Hurt In Crash

NILES — Ronald Bailey, 20, of 934 Main street, Buchanan, was listed in fairly good condition this morning at Niles Pawating hospital after being injured in a one-vehicle accident here early today.

A passenger in the jeep driven by Bailey, Gary Houseworth, 21, also of 934 Main street, Buchanan, was treated for minor injuries he received in the 1:40 a.m. accident and later released from Pawating hospital, police said.

Police said Bailey was headed north o Third street in Niles an attempted to pass an auto when it turned left in front of him. The driver swerved to avoid an accident and the jeep turned over, police said.

Bailey was ticketed for driving too fast for road conditions.

Crash Sets Car Afire; No One Hurt

A Hastings, Mich., woman escaped unhurt from her auto that crashed into a guard rail on I-94 in Lake township Friday and burst into flames, reported state police from the Benton Harbor post.

Georgine Marie Simpson, 19, told troopers she was eastbound when the left rear tire blew out. She said she applied the brakes and the car went out of control.

The accident occurred about 10:35 a.m. near Livingston road. Troopers said that firemen from Lake township extinguished the blaze that destroyed the vehicle. No tickets were issued, police stated.

FREIGHT

Dowagiac To Keep 'Some' Rail Service

DOWAGIAC — U.S. Railway association officials yesterday assured those battling to preserve a freight rail link for Dowagiac that at least some service will be included in the federal Conrail reorganization plan.

Officials told city leaders that a study of the Penn Central line between Dowagiac and Niles shows it should be included in the reorganization.

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. called yesterday's decision "half a victory" since Dowagiac also is battling to have the Penn Central track between here and Kalamazoo included in the federal Conrail freight plan. In the original Conrail plan, both the Penn Central line from Kalamazoo to Dowagiac and Dowagiac to Niles would have been dropped, unless subsidized by the state.

Mayor Graham Woodhouse said he was told federal officials expect to make a decision on the Kalamazoo to Dowagiac line within two weeks.

The Penn Central line between Dowagiac and Niles is part of the current passenger (Amtrak) train route between Chicago and Detroit.

Graper said that including the Dowagiac to Niles line would enable Dowagiac to be hooked up to Elkhart, Ind., considered a major center in Conrail's plan, by lines from Elkhart to South Bend and north to Niles. With a connection to Elkhart, Graper said freight service out of Dowagiac could travel the entire Conrail system.

Conrail's plan shows a line from Detroit to Kalamazoo, but Kalamazoo and Elkhart would be connected via lines through Vicksburg and Three Rivers. Dowagiac officials challenged federal figures showing the Niles to Dowagiac line had too little freight traffic to permit a profit and drew a formal apology from U.S. Railway association officials for errors in the figures showing the line's freight traffic.

Mayor Woodhouse said the Niles to Buchanan portion of the Penn Central line also will be in the Conrail plan if Amtrak, which handles passenger service, will agree to meet its maintenance costs.

Already included in Conrail's original plan for freight service is the Penn Central line from Benton Harbor to Niles, which runs through Sodus and Eau Claire.

Two Sawyer Teens Hurt In Rollover

THREE OAKS — Two Sawyer teenagers were injured in a one-car accident north of here early this morning, state police from the New Buffalo post said.

Listed in fairly good condition at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was James Dean, 16, route 1, Sawyer, identified by police as the driver of the auto.

A passenger, Phillip Naumann, 18, route 4, Sawyer, was treated and released from Memorial hospital, troopers said.

Police said Dean lost control of the auto at the intersection of Three Oaks road and Indian Trails road in Chikaming township about 3 a.m. today. The car struck a guard rail, rolled over twice, coming to rest on its top, police said.

Dean was ticketed for careless driving, troopers said.

STORMS DUE

Big Lake Shoreline Dike Repair Urged

DETROIT (AP) — Owners of Great Lakes' shoreline property have been warned to repair dikes and seawalls as the spring storm season approaches.

The U.S. Commerce Department's Lake Survey Center says that except for Lake Ontario, all the lakes are expected to be at above-normal levels, only slightly lower than the extremely high levels of the last few years.

"Our forecasts have proven to be quite accurate...," said Benjamin DeCosse, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers' hydraulics branch. "However, major deviations in rain and snowfall such as observed in December and January can alter those forecasts."

DeCosse said the lake-level situation is improving, but added that levels are high enough to cause damage if a bad storm should occur.

The Lake Survey unit considers the west end of Lake Erie, Lake St. Clair, Saginaw Bay and Green Bay as critical areas.

The Lake Survey monitors water levels at more than 50 gauging stations around the lakes.

Crash Suit Asks $950,000 Award

The widow of a South Haven area man who died two weeks after a Nov. 16, 1974 auto accident sued Friday in Berrien circuit court for a total of $950,000.

In another suit, a Coloma man named two individuals, two insurance firms and the secretary of state as defendants in a suit in which he asks the court to determine who he can sue as financially responsible for the loss of his eye and other injuries. The plaintiff was David K. Fritz.

Mrs. Betty J. Lewis, South Haven, widow of Doyle E. Lewis, who died last Nov. 30 after an auto crash on US-33 in Hagar township, asks $506,000 from Michael J. McCann, Benton Harbor, and $450,000 from Vincent and Coretta Farone, man and wife owners of Club 33 bar in Hagar township.

Mrs. Lewis alleges McCann, driver of the other car, was en route home from Club 33 bar, crossed the centerline of US-33 and collided with her husband's auto, traveling in the other direction.

The plaintiff charges the operators of the bar contributed to her husband's death, under provisions of the Dram Shop act, in that they served the other driver intoxicating beverages when he allegedly was already under the influence.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mrs. Lewis and her daughter, Robbie Ann, 8.

Fritz, in a suit prepared by Atty. S. Jack Keller, said he lost his right eye and sustained other injuries on Nov. 26, 1973, in an auto accident and has been unable since to determine the proper party to file claims against. He stated he was a passenger in a car driven by Timothy Sibley of Coloma, and owned by Audie Moore.

The suit indicated it could not be determined that Moore had insurance, and the State of Michigan Fund for Uninsured Motorists has neither admitted nor denied if the Moore vehicle was insured.

The Auto-Owners Insurance Co. holds Sibley was not insured under a policy Sibley's mother had with the firm, according to the suit. Fritz named his own insurer, Progressive Insurance Co., another defendant.

Fritz asked that the court "determine who is responsible to defend and be financially responsible for plaintiff's claims for permanent injuries."

In another suit, Jessiebell Dannaffel of Benton Harbor asks $60,000 from the Anchor Beauty Salon, 76 Wall street, Benton Harbor. She alleges she was a customer at the salon and fell down a flight of basement stairs as she sought the rest room. The suit claimed injuries to the head, neck, back, arms and legs.

Jonelle Hopkins of Benton Harbor asks $60,000 from Sentry Insurance Co. His suit says he was injured in a traffic accident in St. Joseph on Feb. 12, 1974. He said he had a no-fault policy with Sentry, and that the firm terminated all loss of work benefits and medical payments incurred after Dec. 31, 1974, in violation of the insurance contract.

Hopkins asks $30,000 for past and future wage losses and medical expenses, and $30,000 for punitive damages.

Decatur Native Will Leave Ford

DETROIT — Malcolm L. Denise, a Decatur, Mich., native and Ford Motor company vice president, has announced his retirement after more than 33 years with the motor firm.

Denise, 61, for the past 15 years has been vice president for labor relations and headed the firm's bargaining team during the last six sets of negotiations with the United Auto Workers' union.

He and his family live in Grosse Pointe.

His retirement was announced at a meeting of the board of directors this week and in a news release from the company.

Denise was born Oct. 29, 1913, in Decatur, and received his bachelor of arts and law degree from the University of Michigan.

He began his law career in 1937 as an associate in the Detroit law firm of Lucking, Van Auken and Sprague and joined the Ford legal staff in 1946.

He was appointed general industrial relations manager for labor relations in 1955 and was elected Ford vice president and appointed vice president of labor relations in 1959.

He is a national chairman of the University of Michigan law school fund and vice chairman of the Michigan executive committee for United Negro College fund, Inc.

Fine Or Jail Ordered For Hoosier

NILES — Kenneth Lloyd, 23, of Mishawaka, Ind., was ordered to pay $500 in fines and court costs, or serve four months in jail, when sentenced in Berrien Fifth District court in Niles yesterday, following a guilty plea on a charge of possession of a police radio monitor in his vehicle.

Sheriff's deputies from the Galien substation said Lloyd was arrested after deputies stopped an auto on California road in Weesaw township about 3 a.m. Thursday, for a traffic violation. Deputies said they found a portable radio in the car that could monitor Berrien county and South Bend, Ind., police broadcasts.

Decatur Fire Blamed On Children

DECATUR — A Decatur man suffered smoke inhalation Friday when he attempted to get a burning mattress out of his house after it was set on fire by children playing with a cigarette lighter, the Decatur fire department reported.

Treated and released from Lee Memorial hospital for smoke inhalation was Robert Peterson, White Oak street. The fire started about 5:50 p.m. The Decatur fire department responded and extinguished the flames. Damage was limited to the mattress.

In a separate blaze about 12:30 p.m. an estimated $300 damage was done to an addition of a mobile home occupied by John Kirby, Burgess road.

Decatur fire officials reported the the fire was started by a woodburning stove. No one was reported injured.

April Seminar To Show The Future To Executives

"The Emerging Future: Myths and Realities," is the title of a seminar for Twin City executives Thursday, April 10, at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

The seminar will be sponsored by the Industrial Management Training program, an affiliate of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with Michigan State university center and Western Michigan university area office.

Roger H. Curry, executive vice president of the chamber and executive seminar program chairman, said the seminar will be conducted by Dr. William Lazer, professor, graduate school of business, Michigan State university.

The seminar will deal with the following: Future developments in population, income, productivity, geographic trends, the cores of cities and development of suburbs, the youth and their rebellion, the feminist movement and women's liberation, the new family scene, the emerging social class, the impact of ecology and environmental issues, and new thrusts in business organization as a result of these developments.

Dr. Lazer will look at the lifestyles and environmental factors and forces, Curry said, as well as the economic factors and forces that will affect and shape business opportunities and internal organization.

Dr. Lazer holds degrees of bachelor of commerce from the University of Manitoba, Canada, master of business administration from the University of Chicago, and a Ph.D. from Ohio State university. He was a post-doctoral Ford Foundation Fellow at the Institute of Basic Mathematics for Application to Business conducted at Harvard university.

In 1972 he was designated outstanding marketing educator of the year by Sales and Marketing Executives International.

In 1974 he received the highest honor MSU can bestow on a faculty member, the distinguished faculty award, in recognition of outstanding contributions to the intellectual development of the university.

He has authored or co-authored nine books, including "Marketing Management: A Systems Perspective;" "Social Marketing: Perspectives and Viewpoints"; "Managerial Marketing: Policies, Decisions and Strategies"; and "Mathematical Models and Methods in Marketing."

Dr. Lazer has written extensively for professional journals and business periodicals, having published 4 monographs, over 85 articles, and chapters for more than 40 books in business administration.

Curry said the seminar begins with registration at 11:45 a.m. followed by luncheon. Deadline for reservations, which have been mailed to executives, is Thursday, April 3. Cost of the seminar is $25 per person, which includes registration, luncheon and coffee.

File No. 75-343-DO
ORDER TO ANSWER
STATE OF MICHIGAN
CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF BERRIEN

PAUL REECE
Plaintiff.
vs.
PEGGI E. REECE
Defendant.

On February 11, 1975 an action was filed by Paul Reece, Plaintiff, against Peggi E. Reece, Defendant, in this Court to obtain a final divorce from the bonds of matrimony.

It having been stated to the Court that the Plaintiff has made a diligent inquiry to ascertain the present address of the Defendant, since the Defendant has not been seen nor heard from since the 29th day of January, 1975, and that as of this date, said inquiry has been unsuccessful.

It is hereby ordered that the Defendant, Peggi E. Reece, shall answer or take such other action as may be permitted by law on or before, 1975. Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against such Defendant for the relief demanded in the complaint filed in this Court.

Circuit Judge.

CERTIFICATE OF AMENDMENT TO ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF TWIN CITY AREA TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

THE UNDERSIGNED INCORPORATORS, for the purpose of amending the original Articles of Incorporation of Twin City Area Transportation Authority, pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 55, Public Acts of 1963, as last amended by Act No. 212, Public Acts of 1969, being Sections 124.351 to 124.359, inclusive, Compiled Laws of 1948:

1. The name of the corporation is Twin City Area Transportation Authority. The location of the registered office is 271 Market Street, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022.

2. Article XVI of said Articles of Incorporation is hereby amended to read as follows:

A participating member municipality may withdraw from the Authority during the first contract year between the Authority and the State of Michigan upon delivery to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, at least sixty (60) days prior to the end of the first contractual year, a certified copy of a Resolution of Withdrawal duly adopted by such Municipality, in which case the withdrawal shall be effective at the end of the first contract year of August 26, 1974, to August 26, 1975. After the first contract year, a participating member municipality may withdraw from the Authority upon delivery to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, at least six (6) months prior to the end of the fiscal year, a certified copy of a Resolution of Withdrawal duly adopted by such member municipality, in which case the same shall be effective at the end of such fiscal year. In the event of withdrawal by a participating municipality, its representatives shall be deemed to have resigned from the Board of Trustees and the Board of Trustees shall be automatically reduced by the number of representatives appointed by the withdrawing municipality. A withdrawing municipality shall have no further interest in the assets of the Authority and shall not be responsible for any liabilities incurred after the date of withdrawal.

3. The foregoing amendment was adopted by majority of the members.

would not be liable in any legal action.

Since Bryan is only a part-time employe, his activities are not subject to the union contract, which covers only full-time employes, Stump said, in response to another question. Since Bryan only does marine and posse work, he does not take work away from any regular deputy, Stump said.

Stump said that since the effective date of the union contract there had been no grievances filed against him, and that the union steward had told him none were being contemplated.

At the time of the accident, Stump said, Bryan had asked for and received permission to accompany the other deputy to the scene of an accident investigation as part of his internship work at KVCC. He was not being paid, Stump said.

Stump continued that all claims are submitted through the claims committee of the county board of commissioners which examines them and either accepts or rejects them according to standard procedures. These claims are also subject to an annual audit by the state treasury department, according to Stump.

Stump commented that he believed McCaw's comments were politically motivated in view of the fact that he had fired McCaw when he was a deputy for "insubordination, argumentative attitude and disrespectful manner of speech." Stump noted that at no time during his 10 months as a deputy was McCaw a certified police officer.

Stump also said that McCaw appealed his dismissal to the state labor relations commission, but lost the case.

MANUFACTURER HITS HARASSMENT 'GAME'

Editor,

Having worked in the field of customer relations for a national organization for 20 years, I feel it is most important to comment on the article published in the Herald-Palladum March 8 entitled, "15-Year-Old Is His Own Best Consumer Advocate."

Since this was an Associated Press release, it will appear in newspapers across the country, and at first glance would seem to be an interesting story, but it's really nothing more than another article encouraging dishonesty.

It is certainly proper for a consumer to register complaints, but this kind of publicity can only lead to more abuse of the privilege to complain. In reading the article, it's quite obvious that the 15-year-old treats this as a game, as he's contacted 150 companies and has "raked in" $500 of free merchandise. . and with the blessing of his parents.

While all this sounds like "fun," what is really overlooked is that the customer is paying for this in high prices, just like so many other questionable or outright dishonest practices have had an effect on the high cost of living today.

It takes a rather large staff to handle customer complaints in any organization, and speaking from experience, we encounter many who look at this matter in the same light, i.e., their philosophy seems to be, "It doesn't hurt to try. . . let's see what we can get for free."

Actually, it costs a great deal of money to maintain a customer relations or similar department to handle these matters, and this expense is ultimately a part of overhead that must be recovered in the selling price. As a secondary effect, this causes a certain amount of suspicion of legitimate complaints, and not all who are entitled to settlement are served properly.

I realize there are many other abuses, and this may seem like a small matter; however, manufacturers generally agree that customers have a right to complain if treated dishonestly, and will make fair adjustments. However, any article published that would encourage a form of deception or harassment just for the sake of getting more than you're entitled to, is morally wrong, no matter how it's presented.

As a businessman, I feel that we do have to take a stand by replying to news articles of this type. . . to prevent misguided persons from trying this, and to simply point out a wrongdoing. In fact, this response is needed rather than the impersonal attitude of so many who merely comment about this clever "rip-off" of large companies.

Our country was founded on the principle that a man has a right to speak out against that which he thinks is wrong, and we in the business community have the responsibility to make this reply. Furthermore, we should encourage others to speak out against abuses that will eventually hurt no one but themselves; we've seen the effect of higher costs resulting in decreased sales and a slowdown in manufacturing, which causes loss of jobs.

A final point that should not be overlooked is the opposite of protest is silent apathy towards such behavior, which really gives the impression of approval; we look the other way while this is going on.

Thank you for hearing the manufacturer's side. It's really upsetting to read this formula, "How To Succeed In Getting Something For Nothing," while we really need lessons in morality and ethics.

I'm forwarding a copy of this letter to the Daily Tribune in Royal Oak, Michigan, where the article originated.

HE'S TIRED OF 'BEING ROBBED'

Editor,

As everyone well knows, we are in a period of high inflation, recession and unemployment.

I, for one, am getting tired of being robbed! Namely by the government, the super rich oil companies and auto makers!

Government? For one, the bureau to run the bureau to run the bureau. Eating up my tax dollar and wanting more! Two, Mr. Congressman, Senator, County and City Governments, etc. etc., voting in their own payhikes. Eating up my tax dollar and wanting more! Many or most of these people have good businesses or jobs on the side. Many of them get the fresh hot tips on the best investments, and have money to invest, and are wealthy. I do not deny them this privilege. But, we the people have nothing to say about their payhikes out of our tax dollars!

And now the newspaper says that welfare people can get a job making up to $9,000.00 and not lose any welfare benefits, while I, making less than $8,000.00 when working, cannot even get medicaid for my children while I'm laid off! On the other hand, if my children were illegitamate, I could get the medicaid and more!

America: Are we still "we the people" as stated in our priceless constitution? Or is it time to change our constitution to read: We The Government?

As for the super rich oil companies and auto makers, there seems to be a conspiracy of some type. Our country is telling us to save our energy, to conserve our natural resources. One popular way they would like to do this is by raising the already high prices and rationing! Letting the rich man have all he wants to fool around with, while we, the majority are forced to sit at home and watch him!, as our unfavorite pastime! Don't get me wrong. I too say, "save our natural resources", but, listen:

There are many stories of the fancy experimental carburators from Detroit accidently slipping through on a new car. The proud owner braggs up fantastic gas milage from his new family sedan. He takes it to the dealer for the 1,000 mile service check, gets it back and only gets the normal 12 to 15 odd miles per gallon! Some of these may be just stories, but I believe there must be at least a certain amount of truth to some of them.

It is said many times over that our super rich oil companies will make an inventor rich, solely for the purpose of keeping a realy good gas saving device off of the market, out of Mr. John Q. Publics hands and pocket book. "Save our natural resources".

Also, I think the government should lay off of automotive smog controls until we get better gas milage for our cars and trucks, big and small, new and old; which should in itself produce less pollution. Then, smog controls that won't poison us with sulphur or something else, and give better, not less gas milage, should go hand in hand. I am in favor of the working man getting a little better break. The rich man has been getting more than his fair share too long! Without the working man, where would the government be? Broke, because the rich do not pay taxes!

Also, it is said that most American homes are not insulated, wasting vast amounts of our precious resources! How about some easy to get government aid (no red tape, must have proof of installed insulation) to get these homes insulated and "save our natural resources"!

And, how about a yearly, fall news article on how to set heating controls such as limit and fan switches, and thermostats (i.e. temp. rise intervals etc.) for heating efficiency and comfort. Much is said in the manuals about comfort settings, but nothing about efficiency. Also, are our heating units designed for maximum fuel efficiency? Or would more research help to "save our natural resources"?

These are a few things that could put much of America back to work. And to blazes with high priced Arab oil!

and,

WHEREAS the cities of Benton Harbor, Michigan and St. Joseph, Michigan, and the above named owners or interested parties have been unable to agree on the compensation to be paid them for said lands or their respective interests therein,

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the City of Benton Harbor, Michigan and the City of St. Joseph, Michigan, hereby determine it is neceessary to acquire the above described easements, lands or interests in lands for the purpose of providing for the orderly expansion of Ross Field Airport, establishing clear zones and height easements and complying with requirements of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics and the United States Government,

RESOLVED FURTHER that the aforesaid improvements and expansion of Ross Field Airport are for the use and benefit of the general public,

RESOLVED FURTHER that Carl Cooper, Attorney for the City of Benton Harbor, A. G. Preston, Jr., Attorney for the City of St. Joseph, and Carl R. Burdick, Special Counsel, and any of them, are hereby appointed, authorized and directed to institute condemnation proceedings in their behalf in the Circuit Court for the County of Berrien, State of Michigan, where the above described private property and interests therein are located, pursuant to the provisions of Act 149, Public Acts of 1911, as amended, being Michigan Statutes Annotated 8.11 et. seq., and the provision of any other statutes in such case made and provided,

RESOLVED FURTHER that the Clerk of the City of Benton Harbor and the Clerk of the City of St. Joseph shall make and deliver a certified copy of this resolution to said attorneys who shall prepare and file in the name of the City of Benton Harbor and the City of St. Joseph, petition or complaint signed by them or any of them, in their official character, duly verified, and shall attach thereto a certified copy of this resolution and they shall thereafter do all things necessary to prosecute and complete the proceedings for condemnation of said lands.

Commissioner Gast, seconded by Commissioner Selent moved approval of the foregoing resolution. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Hanley and Selent. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioners Gillespie and Smith. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION FIXING DATE FOR HEARING

WHEREAS on February 27, 1975, the City Manager made a determination that the house and premises known as 523 Church St., St. Joseph, Michigan, is dangerous to life, limb or property and has deteriorated to the point where it has become a public nuisance and that said structure is beyond repair and should be torn down and completely removed pursuant to Section 2.506 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of St. Joseph,

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the City Commission hereby sets Monday, April 7, 1975 at 7:30 o'clock P.M. in the Commission Chamber in the City Hall as the date, time and place on which the owner may appear before the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph and be heard respecting the condition of the building or structure.

RESOLVED FURTHER that the City Clerk shall notify the owner of such building or structure of his determination and of the date on which the owner may appear before the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph and be heard as more particularly set forth in Section 2.508 et seq of the Code of Ordinances of the City of St. Joseph.

Commissioner Gast, seconded by Commissioner Selent moved approval of the foregoing resolution. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Hanley and Selent. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioners Gillespie and Smith. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION FIXING DATE OF HEARING

WHEREAS on February 27, 1975, the City Manager made a determination that the house and premises known as 902 Lions Park Drive, St. Joseph, Michigan, is dangerous to life, limb or property and has deteriorated to the point where it has become a public nuisance and that said structure is beyond repair and should be torn down and completely removed pursuant to Section 2.506 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of St. Joseph.

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the City Commission hereby acknowledges receipt of such determination and accepts the findings thereon contained.

RESOLVED FURTHER that the City Commission hereby sets Monday, April 7, 1975 at 7:30 o'clock P.M. in the Commission Chamber in the City Hall as the date, time and place on which the owner may appear before the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph and be heard respecting the condition of the building or structure.

RESOLVED FURTHER that the City Clerk shall notify the owner of such building or structure of his determination and of the date on which the owner may appear before the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph and be heard as more particularly set forth in Section 2.508 et seq of the Code of Ordinances of the City of St. Joseph,

RESOLUTION DENYING SOLICITATION REQUEST

WHEREAS the Black Christian Nationalist Church, Inc., Detroit, Michigan, requested permission to solicit donations in the City of St. Joseph on December, 1974 and

WHEREAS the City Commission, by resolution December 9, 1974, denied the request of this church and

WHEREAS by letter dated February 21, 1975, the Black Christian Nationalist Church, Inc. has again requested permission to solicit small donations in the City of St. Joseph during the month of March and

WHEREAS the City Commission is fully advised in the premises

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the solicitation request of the Black Christian Nationalist Church dated February 21, 1975 be and hereby is denied.

Commissioner Gast, seconded by Commissioner Selent moved approval of the foregoing resolution. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Hanley and Selent. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioners Gillespie and Smith. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CITY OF ST. JOSEPH TO PARTICIPATE IN THE STATE JOINT PURCHASING PROGRAM

WHEREAS during the past year the State of Michigan has provided cooperative purchasing for local use of government thru the use of contracts, and

WHEREAS at the present time, through the use of the State Contract there can be a savings of approximately 30% on tires, $4.50 per ton on salt and savings on trucks, police cars, and chloride as well as many other items and

WHEREBY it is possible to enter into separate contracts for individual items

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the City Manager of the City of St. Joseph is hereby authorized to join the State cooperative purchase program and to enter into a contract for the purchase of tires, salt and chloride.

Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gast moved approval of the foregoing resolution. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Hanley and Selent. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioners Gillespie and Smith. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

Commissioner Gast asked about the INSURANCE APPRAISAL PROGRAM asked by GENE O'TOOLE and the manager reported that Mr. O'Toole had submitted some information and would submit additional information in the near future.

Commissioner Gast also reviewed the DIAL-A-RIDE PROGRAM AND RECENT REPORT and noted that the Commission must make a decision as to whether or not it will continue the program before the end of June, 1975.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Selent moved to adjourn until Monday, March 10, 1975 at 7:30 P.M.

Youth, 15 Ordered To Stand Trial

A 15-year-old Benton Heights youth was ordered to stand trial in circuit court on armed robbery and car theft charges Thursday when Berrien Probate Judge Ronald Lange waived jurisdiction over the boy.

Kenneth Duane Spear, 15, whose last known address was 2150 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights.

Spear is accused of robbing Ophelia Thorton, of 2004 Irving drive, Benton township, of her car keys and then stealing her car on Feb. 27. Assistant Prosecutor John Sullivan said a 35 caliber rifle was allegedly used in the robbery.

Brothers Ask Hearings In Fight Death

Two of four brothers charged with manslaughter in connection with the stabbing death of Spencer Sesson have been arrested and were arraigned Friday afternoon in Berrien Fifth District court.

Demanding preliminary examinations were Otis Ray Harris, 20, of Ohio street, and Charles E. Harris, 21, of 1040 Columbus, both of Benton Harbor, charged with manslaughter in connection with Sesson's death during a fight on East Main street March 1.

Sesson, a medical corpsman in Vietnam and the holder of a Purple Heart, was stabbed to death during the fight. Benton Township Patrolman John Murphy reports that two other Harris brothers, Larry, 24, and Joe, 18, both of Benton Harbor, are also being sought on manslaughter charges. Following arraignments yesterday Otis and Charles Harris were jailed in lieu of $10,000 and $15,000 bonds, respectively.

Also in court yesterday, three others demanded preliminary examinations and six were sentenced. Demanding examinations were:

Jimmy Doss, 19, of 333 Lincoln, Benton Harbor, charged with armed robbery of Ron Newman and Marilyn Berkey at Ron's Party store, Benton Harbor, March 7. He was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Henry Sanders, 50, of 421 Washington, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, in a car March 14 in Benton township. He posted $1,000 bond and was released.

Beverly Ziegert, 31, of Blue Star highway, Hagar township, charged with writing three insufficient funds checks within a period of ten days in Benton Harbor. She was freed on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Sentenced were:

Thomas A. Crossno, 46, of 2088 East Empire, Benton township, fine and costs of $100 for simple assault (reduced from assault with intent to commit rape) against Deborah M. Anderson Jan. 14 at his residence.

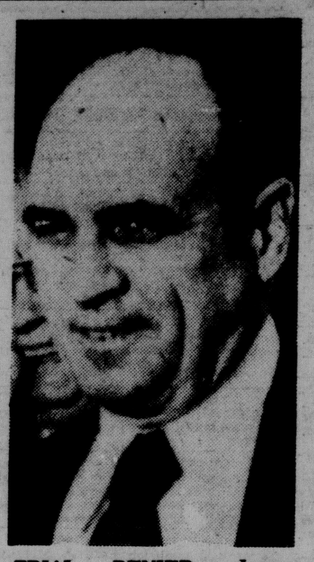
Tommie Lee Jones, 28, of 1110 McIntosh, Benton Harbor, 14 days in jail and 18 months probation for assault and battery against Jerry Franks Nov. 5 in Benton township.

Joseph Lee Atkins, 21, of 834 Ogden, Benton Harbor, 10 days in jail and $50 for assault and battery against Diane Atkins March 13 in Benton township.

David C. Fields, 42, of Hartford, $121 for petty larceny of merchandise from Benton Harbor Hilltop Feb. 13.

Marion Brazell Jr., 39, of Detroit, five days in jail and $100, or 15 days in jail total, for driving while license suspended Feb. 28 in Lincoln township.

Jimmy Ott, 31, of Linco road, Baroda, $90 for driving while intoxicated Aug. 31 in Pipestone township.



TRIAL DENIED: James McCord Jr. arrives at U.S. District court in Washington Friday to present a motion for a new trial. McCord lost his last-ditch fight against going to prison for the Watergate break-in when U.S. District Judge John Sirica rejected the motion. (AP Wirephoto)

Funeral Tab Will Be Paid

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Hillsdale County officials have agreed to pay funeral expenses for six brothers and sisters who died Thursday in a fire which destroyed their home in Cambria Township.

The childrens' mother, Della Fletcher, told officials she had no money or resources left after the early morning blaze hit her home.

Department of Social Services officials said Friday they would pay the bill and then will contact the children's father, Ralph Brown of Jackson, to see if he can reimburse the county for at least part of the expenses.

The congregation of a Baptist church near the fire scene launched a drive to raise funds for the family.

Veterans Day Change Is Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans Day observances would return to Nov. 11 under legislation proposed by several congressmen, including James O'Hara, D-Mich.

"I think the Congress erred when it shifted Veterans Day to the last Monday in October, as part of a realignment of a number of national holidays to provide for three-day weekends throughout the year," the Utica lawmaker said.

O'Hara said Veterans Day, originally known as Armistice Day, marked the end of World War I at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

Watervliet And Coloma Mayors Criticize Condition Of Tracks

WATERVLIET — Watervliet Mayor Robert Flaherty has joined with Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall in criticizing both the condition of track in the Coloma-Watervliet area and the speed of trains there.

Flaherty said "poor maintenance" was to blame for the track conditions.

"The tracks bounce up and down through the Watervliet downtown area and in particular at the Main street crossing, said Flaherty. "And with the speeds of the trains through town, — should they ever derail, they could level the train depot and endanger both the city hall and the fire station, let alone any of the businesses located adjacent to the tracks." Flaherty said, "I feel something must be done to correct the situation."

Flaherty said Watervliet police had checked the speed of trains through town. The speed limit for trains is 25 mile per hour inside the city limits of Watervliet, according to the mayor.

Randall had previously expressed concern over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads track conditions and speed of trains following a 13-car train derailment March 7 just west of the downtown Coloma business district.

New Buffalo Art Contest

NEW BUFFALO — Central committee of the New Buffalo Heritage Days festival is sponsoring an art contest for high school age area youth. The contest is to select a cover design for this year's festival directory, a committee spokesman said. Ronald Ferguson, New Buffalo high school art director, will be in charge. Theme of this year's festival is "ethnic pride." First, second and third place awards will be given. A $25 savings bond is one of the prizes. Contest closing date will be announced later.

CERAMICS: Mrs. August (Olga) Meyer, above, has opened ceramic studio at 3219 Townline road, Sodus. "Olga Ceramics" offers finished ceramic pieces in addition to unfinished items, plus greenware and supplies for sale. Custom work and ceramic lessons are also availalbe. Studio hours are 1 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Saturday. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Niles Library Plans Mental Health Films

NILES — Four films dealing with mental health will be shown in the Niles Community library auditorium on March 24.

Sponsored by the Berrien county Society for Mental Health, each movie will be shown twice during the day with a 15 minute discussion following each presentation.

Robert Tollaksen, director of consultation and education services at the Riverwood Community Health center, will present to answer questions, according to a society spokesman.

The films, which are open to the public, and times are as follows: "The World is the Right Size," 1 and 6 p.m.; "Journey," 1:30 and 6:30 p.m.; "The Aldrin Film," 2:15 and 7:15 p.m.; and "The Fragile Mind," 3:45 and 7:45 p.m.

Further information regarding the films is available by contacting Mrs. Lon (Joan) Blauvelt, 206 Phillips road, Niles, publicity chairman of the mental health society.

ORDER TO ANSWER
PAUL REECE
Plaintiff,
vs.
PEGGI E. REECE
Defendant.

On February 11, 1975 an action was filed by Paul Reece, Plaintiff, against Peggi E. Reece, Defendant, in this Court to obtain a final divorce from the bonds of matrimony.

It having been stated to the Court that the Plaintiff has made a diligent inquiry to ascertain the present address of the Defendant, since the Defendant has not been seen nor heard from since the 29th day of January, 1975, and that as of this date, said inquiry has been unsuccessful.

It is hereby ordered that the Defendant, Peggi E. Reece, shall answer or take such other action as may be permitted by law on or before, 1975. Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against such Defendant for the relief demanded in the complaint filed in this Court.

Circuit Judge.

CERTIFICATE OF AMENDMENT TO ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF TWIN CITY AREA TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

THE UNDERSIGNED INCORPORATORS, for the purpose of amending the original Articles of Incorporation of Twin City Area Transportation Authority, pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 55, Public Acts of 1963, as last amended by Act No. 212, Public Acts of 1969, being Sections 124.351 to 124.359, inclusive, Compiled Laws of 1948:

1. The name of the corporation is Twin City Area Transportation Authority. The location of the registered office is 271 Market Street, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022.

2. Article XVI of said Articles of Incorporation is hereby amended to read as follows:

A participating member municipality may withdraw from the Authority during the first contract year between the Authority and the State of Michigan upon delivery to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, at least sixty (60) days prior to the end of the first contractual year, a certified copy of a Resolution of Withdrawal duly adopted by such Municipality, in which case the withdrawal shall be effective at the end of the first contract year of August 26, 1974, to August 26, 1975. After the first contract year, a participating member municipality may withdraw from the Authority upon delivery to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, at least six (6) months prior to the end of the fiscal year, a certified copy of a Resolution of Withdrawal duly adopted by such member municipality, in which case the same shall be effective at the end of such fiscal year. In the event of withdrawal by a participating municipality, its representatives shall be deemed to have resigned from the Board of Trustees and the Board of Trustees shall be automatically reduced by the number of representatives appointed by the withdrawing municipality. A withdrawing municipality shall have no further interest in the assets of the Authority and shall not be responsible for any liabilities incurred after the date of withdrawal.

3. The foregoing amendment was adopted by majority of the members.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR MARLIN PERKINS,

star of TV's "Wild Kingdom"

You must have eaten some exotic food in your travels. What are the strangest dishes you've been served?—E. C. Fortney, Jr., Parkersburg, W. Va.

● At the Explorers Club annual meeting and banquet at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York, they serve a large table of weird dishes such as pickled Persian sheeps' eyeballs, preserved toasted caterpillars and rattlesnake meat. In the Australian outback, the aborigines offered us witchety grubs. But they were still alive and looked something like our own grubs, so we turned them down. In Alaska I was offered fresh blubber from a seal by a young Eskimo who had hacked off some with a rusty knife. Many people offer us unusual foods that we try and find delicious. Recently, in the Falkland Islands, I heard a story about a sailor who lived for more than a year on a small island by eating the raw base of the tussock grass and what he could find washed up on the beach. I tried the grass and found it delicious, something like hearts of palm.

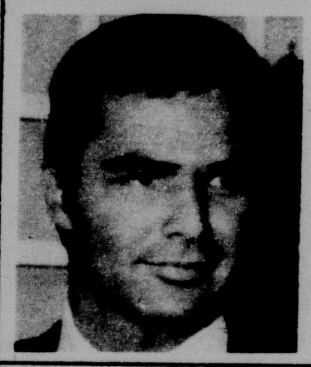
FOR PETER BOGDANOVICH

How do you feel about the use of nudity in films?—L.P., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Too much is like painting a canvas with just one shade of red, so that it becomes merely a piece of wall that has been framed. If nudity has to be used, it should be unexpected and brief. Anything else loses impact, and all the producer gains is a blasé audience.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

Did you ever think of having your own TV show?—Dean Gesualdo, Las Vegas, Nev.



● Many times. I thought about it in 1958 and did "Riverboat" and NBC canceled me. I thought about it again in 1965 and did "Hawk" and ABC canceled me. And I thought about it yet again in 1971 and did "Dan August" and CBS canceled me. If I ever think about it again, maybe I should try Public TV. (P.S. I am doing a series of specials for NBC.)

FOR ART BUCHWALD

The picture that's printed with your column looks old. Why don't you get a new one taken?—William Popper, N.Y., N.Y.

● My syndicate doesn't make money on my column. They make it on my photo. If they don't have to replace it, they can report a profit. Also, newspapers won't change the picture because their readers would get shook up. Anytime you change something in a paper, people get nervous. This is my last photo, taken in 1973. Since the photos of Howard Hughes are 25 years old, I think I'm very up-to-date.

FOR JEANE DIXON

After I saw "The Exorcist" I heard that you had predicted that everyone who saw the movie would die within five years. The movie did nothing to me. What prompted you to make such a prediction?—Joan Blooner, Rutledge, Tenn.

● I made no prediction whatsoever about that movie. How rumors like this get started is a mystery to me.

FOR GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA

I just saw your book "Italia Mia" and wondered how difficult it was for you to take all those pictures?—B. Berns, Kenosha, Wis.

● Taking them was easy. Choosing the right ones for the book was the problem. You see, I took 20,000 photos, but could use only 191. I got heart palpitations every time I made a rejection, and was almost a basket case by the time I'd finished "killing off" my hard work.

FOR MORTY GUNTY

Which do you prefer, working before a live audience or being on TV?—H. H., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● It's hard to choose. On TV, one reaches much larger audiences, but with a live audience, you can tell right away if you're going over well. The morning after my first TV appearance, I walked the streets praying someone would recognize me. Finally, a lady stared, turned to her husband and said: "That's the comedian we saw on TV last night—you know, the one with the funny name—HUMPTY DUMPTY."

FOR VICTOR BORGE

Do you fool around with the piano offstage as well as on it? —E. E., Lynchburg, Va.

● After you read this, I guess you'll say I do. I once bet a friend I could tell the time by my piano. I played a rousing Sousa march in my hotel room. The occupant of the room next door banged on the wall and shouted angrily: "Stop that noise! Don't you know it's one-thirty in the morning?"

FOR SUSAN CLARK

You've costarred with Rock Hudson and Dean Martin. What's it like doing love scenes with those gorgeous men? —B. G., Amarillo, Texas

● Painful. From Rock I got puffed lips and from Dean I got bruised ribs.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is it true that a movie star once sent Rona Barrett a live scorpion?—John McDonough, Kendall Park, N.J.

Rona Barrett

● It was a tarantula, according to Rona. Her secretary received a tennis-ball canister in the mail, with a dead tarantula inside. Rona suspected a very well-known actor of sending it, and says her proof soon came. A friend of hers was at a party where the guests were watching TV. When Rona didn't make her nightly newscast (because of a strike), the actor in question shrieked, "My God, we've killed her!" And his then-wife said, "Well, that's what you wanted. And our fingerprints are all over the can." Rona says the actor later admitted the whole thing and that they're now friendly, but not friends. Says the actor, contacted by FAMILY WEEKLY: "Rona is a friend of mine now. She's a nice lady. I don't want to say any more about it."

Brothers Ask Hearings In Fight Death

Two of four brothers charged with manslaughter in connection with the stabbing death of Spencer Sesson have been arrested and were arraigned Friday afternoon in Berrien Fifth District court.

Demanding preliminary examinations were Otis Ray Harris, 20, of Ohio street, and Charles E. Harris, 21, of 1040 Columbus, both of Benton Harbor; charged with manslaughter in connection with Sesson's death during a fight on East Main street March 1.

Sesson, a medical corpsman in Vietnam and the holder of a Purple Heart, was stabbed to death during the fight. Benton Township Patrolman John Murphy reports that two other Harris brothers, Larry, 24, and Joe, 18, both of Benton Harbor, are also being sought on manslaughter charges. Following arraignments yesterday Otis and Charles Harris were jailed in lieu of $10,000 and $15,000 bonds, respectively.

Also in court yesterday, three others demanded preliminary examinations and six were sentenced. Demanding examinations were:

Jimmy Doss, 19, of 333 Lincoln, Benton Harbor, charged with armed robbery of Ron Newman and Marilyn Berkey at Ron's Party store, Benton Harbor, March 7. He was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Henry Sanders, 50, of 421 Washington, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, in a car March 14 in Benton township. He posted $1,000 bond and was released.

Beverly Ziegert, 31, of Blue Star highway, Hagar township, charged with writing three insufficient funds checks within a period of ten days in Benton Harbor. She was freed on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Sentenced were:

Thomas A. Crossno, 46, of 2088 East Empire, Benton township, fine and costs of $100 for simple assault (reduced from assault with intent to commit rape) against Deborah M. Anderson Jan. 14 at his residence.

Tommie Lee Jones, 28, of 1110 McIntosh, Benton Harbor, 14 days in jail and 18 months probation for assault and battery against Jerry Franks Nov. 5 in Benton township.

Joseph Lee Atkins, 21, of 834 Ogden, Benton Harbor, 10 days in jail and $50 for assault and battery against Diane Atkins March 13 in Benton township.

David C. Fields, 42, of Hartford, $121 for petty larceny of merchandise from Benton Harbor Hilltop Feb. 13.

Marion Brazell Jr., 39, of Detroit, five days in jail and $100, or 15 days in jail total, for driving while license suspended Feb. 28 in Lincoln township.

Jimmy Ott, 31, of Linco road, Baroda, $90 for driving while intoxicated Aug. 31 in Pipestone township.

TRIAL DENIED: James McCord Jr. arrives at U.S. District court in Washington Friday to present a motion for a new trial. McCord lost his last-ditch fight against going to prison for the Watergate break-in when U.S. District Judge John Sirica rejected the motion. (AP Wirephoto)

Funeral Tab Will Be Paid

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Hillsdale County officials have agreed to pay funeral expenses for six brothers and sisters who died Thursday in a fire which destroyed their home in Cambria Township.

The childrens' mother, Della Fletcher, told officials she had no money or resources left after the early morning blaze hit her home.

Department of Social Services officials said Friday they would pay the bill and then will contact the children's father, Ralph Brown of Jackson, to see if he can reimburse the county for at least part of the expenses.

The congregation of a Baptist church near the fire scene launched a drive to raise funds for the family.

Veterans Day Change Is Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans Day observances would return to Nov. 11 under legislation proposed by several congressmen, including James O'Hara, D-Mich.

"I think the Congress erred when it shifted Veterans Day to the last Monday in October, as part of a realignment of a number of national holidays to provide for three-day weekends throughout the year," the Utica lawmaker said.

O'Hara said Veterans Day, originally known as Armistice Day, marked the end of World War I at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

Watervliet And Coloma Mayors Criticize Condition Of Tracks

WATERVLIET — Watervliet Mayor Robert Flaherty has joined with Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall in criticizing both the condition of track in the Coloma-Watervliet area and the speed of trains there.

Flaherty said "poor maintenance" was to blame for the track conditions.

"The tracks bounce up and down through the Watervliet downtown area and in particular at the Main street crossing, said Flaherty. "And with the speeds of the trains through town, — should they ever derail, they could level the train depot and endanger both the city hall and the fire station, let alone any of the businesses located adjacent to the tracks." Flaherty said, "I feel something must be done to correct the situation."

Flaherty said Watervliet police had checked the speed of trains through town. The speed limit for trains is 25 mile per hour inside the city limits of Watervliet, according to the mayor.

Randall had previously expressed concern over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads track conditions and speed of trains following a 13-car train derailment March 7 just west of the downtown Coloma business district.

New Buffalo Art Contest

NEW BUFFALO — Central committee of the New Buffalo Heritage Days festival is sponsoring an art contest for high school age area youth. The contest is to select a cover design for this year's festival directory, a committee spokesman said. Ronald Ferguson, New Buffalo high school art director, will be in charge. Theme of this year's festival is "ethnic pride." First, second and third place awards will be given. A $25 savings bond is one of the prizes. Contest closing date will be announced later.

CERAMICS: Mrs. August (Olga) Meyer, above, has opened ceramic studio at 3219 Townline road, Sodus. "Olga Ceramics" offers finished ceramic pieces in addition to unfinished items, plus greenware and supplies for sale. Custom work and ceramic lessons are also availalbe. Studio hours are 1 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Saturday. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Niles Library Plans Mental Health Films

NILES — Four films dealing with mental health will be shown in the Niles Community library auditorium on March 24.

Sponsored by the Berrien county Society for Mental Health, each movie will be shown twice during the day with a 15 minute discussion following each presentation.

Robert Tollaksen, director of consultation and education services at the Riverwood Community Health center, will present to answer questions, according to a society spokesman.

The films, which are open to the public, and times are as follows: "The World is the Right Size," 1 and 6 p.m.; "Journey," 1:30 and 6:30 p.m.; "The Aldrin Film," 2:15 and 7:15 p.m.; and "The Fragile Mind," 3:45 and 7:45 p.m.

Further information regarding the films is available by contacting Mrs. Lon (Joan) Blauvelt, 206 Phillips road, Niles, publicity chairman of the mental health society.

Berrien Marriage Licenses

The following marriage licenses were issued by Berrien County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke:

Michael Arthur Herington, 28, and Vicki Ernata Schriner, 28, both of Coloma.

Paul Silas Pelfrey, 26, Brenda Kay Gregory, 27, both of Galien.

William Lee Belin, 22, and Sharon Renee Zimmerman, 23, both of Berrien Springs.

Roger James Popp, 28, Coloma, and Barbara Anne Baldwin, 24, Stevensville.

Jon Earl Bell, 20, and Stephanie Jean Schmoeller, 20, both of St. Joseph.

Clem Thomas, III, 21, and BridgetKae Tucker, 20, both of Berrien Springs.

Christopher Conrad Lucas, 18, Dowagiac, and Agnes Marie Bell, 19, Niles.

Donald Duane Nimtz, 26, and Cynthia Rae Fralick, 24, both of Niles.

Max Wayne Carter, 24, and Jean Margaret Ferebee, 23 both of Buchanan.

Joseph William Padgett, 27 and Christine Marie Pucheu, 24, both of Eau Claire.

On Dean's List

YPSILANTI — Evangeline Portice, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Portice, 972 Woodward avenue, Benton Harbor, has been named to the dean's list at Eastern Michigan university for the winter semester, according to school officials here.

BILE APPROVED

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission has approved a $378,858 rate increase for Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association of Gladstone.

A SPECIAL ESSAY BY TRUMAN CAPOTE: An American Author Writes About His Own Success, Pride...and Conflict

What It's Like To Be Married To Howard Cosell

Howard and Emmy Cosell and their grandson Justin, 5

Jill Krementz

"The only two things I ever saw anybody reading were . . . The Mobile Register and The Montgomery Advertiser . . . ."

Looking Back On My Life...

Truman Capote on Success, Pride...and Conflict

By Truman Capote

"In school I did very badly and failed all my grades. They really thought there was something simpleminded about me. Quite seriously. And I began to develop a strong inferiority complex."

I'm neither learned nor educated. In fact, I'm not only a high school dropout, I'm a high school throwout. However, most of my life I've been involved with the arts. Like anyone involved with the arts, I've had a considerable conflict, personal conflict, with the terms elitist culture and popular culture, for reasons that I will try to explain. But to do that I have to go a bit into my own background.

I spent much of my early childhood in a very small town in Alabama that depended entirely upon cotton for its economy. Cotton and lumber. There was no library in this town. The only thing that I ever saw anybody reading was the two papers that arrived on the 6 o'clock bus from Mobile, The Mobile Register and The Montgomery Advertiser; that, and a few sort of farm magazines. What I mean is that I didn't know anybody who was interested in reading. If so, I was totally unaware of them. But for some curious reason, when I was about four years old, and with the help of an old lady who could scarcely read herself, I became obsessed with the idea of learning to read. Gradually I did. This was two years before I was old enough to go to the local school. And I learned to read, really, very well. And bit by bit I taught myself to write too. So by the time I went to first grade in school, I could already read and write and had done it virtually by myself and for no explainable reason. I mean, no model, no particular motivation, just the great obsession and desire to do so. But instead of being encouraged by the teachers at school, I was actually punished for it. They thought that there was something a bit freaky about it. I was almost never called on in class to read aloud because it made the other children feel bad. Because of this, I developed a sense of isolation and started writing little stories when I was about seven or eight. I wrote every day. My stories were totally different from the things that I read in the magazines and newspapers I was able to obtain. They were about things around me. they were real, and there was nothing childish about them. I never thought of them as being either good or bad. It was just something that I was doing; but gradually I began to realize that there was something . . . a door beyond which I couldn't go. There was some marvelous, meritorious thing there beyond this door, but I couldn't open the door because I had no access to it. But I knew it was there and it was the first time that I became aware, really, of the difference between good and bad, excellent and poor.

If it hadn't been for a sort of a freak happening, I think that I might, at that point, have just become an intellectually arrested case. In school I did very badly and failed all my grades. They really thought there was something simpleminded about me. Quite seriously. And I began to develop a strong inferiority complex. But I knew there was something beyond all this if only I could just reach out and touch it. And then because of this freakish thing that happened, everything changed.

This was during the Depression, and the WPA, which was making jobs for all kinds of people, dispatched teams of psychiatrists all over the U.S. to examine children, to give them IQ tests. So suddenly one day in this little town these three psychiatrists turned up, two men and a woman. They came to our school, where we must have had about 350 kids, and gave IQ tests to all of us. So I took the test along with everybody else, handed the thing in, and I went home; and that evening these three people came driving up to the house and they talked to my relatives and they asked if they could give me their test again, or a variation of it. So the next day I took the test again. They then talked to my family and asked if I could go to New York to take part in an educational experiment at the Horace Mann School. Several children who had made high scores around the country were being assembled there for closer research. Later, they arranged for me to go to a special school, which I did for three or four years. And whatever education I got, I got there.

But I was very bored with it. All I wanted to do was write. At this time, and I guess I was about 16, I started sending things to various magazines. One of them was "The New Yorker." And suddenly, one day (this was the beginning of the war and I think they had a very severe shortage of staff) I got a note from them asking me if I would be interested in a permanent job working at "The New Yorker." They didn't know anything about me, they didn't know how old I was, nothing, but I called and I made an appointment and appeared. The editor was a man named Harold Ross, a very ferocious man, and I'm rather small. When I was 17 I looked maybe 11 years old, and when I walked in the room Mr. Ross looked at me for the longest while,

This article was adapted by Truman Capote from an address he made at the recent Palm Coast Symposium on "The Human Condition." Mr. Capote was one of 13 outstanding leaders in arts and letters, science, education and social thought who addressed the gathering of educators at Palm Coast, Fla.

Dr. Norman Young

One of the symposium's subjects was the interplay of art and life, and it was this subject (particularly popular culture vs. elite culture) that Mr. Capote took as his starting point.

The setting was the ITT-developed Palm Coast, the growing new community located between Daytona Beach and St. Augustine on Florida's Atlantic Coast. Motivator of both Palm Coast and the symposium is Dr. Norman Young, urban planner, behavioral psychologist and scholar.

"We're looking for people to write children's books."

If you ever wanted to write and be published this is your opportunity.

by Francis Gemme

Francis Gemme, a Founder of the Institute of Children's Literature, is the President and Publisher of Gallery House and a consultant to Young Reader's Press.

We need writers. There are over 200 publishers of books for children and more than 400 magazines, all of which have a need for writers.

We know that many people could help to fill this need for children's writers if they could only get started. Are you one of those people? Do you have the urge to write and the ambition to work at it but are unable to get professional training? Are you tied to your home or job? Perhaps you lack confidence in your ability?

Have you ever read a children's story and said, "I can do better than that"? Have you ever deplored the lack of good new literature for young readers? Do you love children? Do you want to do something important with your life? Do you want the personal satisfaction and the rewards that come with writing for children? That very attitude may be the clue to you that you can do it, for the desire to write must come first.

Stories only you can write.

Once you learn to use the basic writing techniques, writing for children is easier than you think. Your personal experiences, fantasies, personality traits, and hobbies all lend themselves to good subjects. Many of these subjects have been written about — plainly and simply — and have been published. You probably have within yourself many children's stories that only you can write.

A new kind of school.

The Institute of Children's Literature was founded to encourage more and better writing for young readers. Top writers and publishers have worked together to create a professional course to teach you to write for young children and for teenagers. They include people like Lee Wyndham, a teacher and author of forty-eight books, including How To Write for Children and Teenagers, Hardie Gramatky, author and illustrator of many famous children's books like Little Toot, and John Ledes, President of Astor Honor Books and author of many award-winning children's books. In total, these professional writers have published hundreds and hundreds of books and magazine articles for young readers. They know how to write — how to teach — and how to help you publish.

Learning to write and to sell.

The early success of this course has been repeated many times by people like yourself who knew in their hearts that they could write in a way that would enrich children's reading experiences.

This course will train you step-by-step from the writing of the opening sentence through the selling of a finished manuscript. Yes, you will have completed a manuscript suitable for publication when you finish this course.

Your own instructor.

Because writing is a very personal experience, we believe that the teaching of writing must also be personalized. That is why, in addition to writing materials, textbooks, instruction, and assignments, you will receive personal guidance on every lesson from your own instructor.

The instructor chosen for you will be a professional writer who will remain with you throughout the course. He will show you how to use your personal feelings, experiences, imagination, and interests to write for children — in your spare time at home.

Work at your own pace.

A writing course is most effective when you can work at the time you feel most like working. With this course, there is no bell to end the class and no interruptions from other students. You and your instructor can work together at the pace most suitable for you. This flexible schedule allows more time for each student than is possible in a classroom situation.

You mail your completed work to your instructor who carefully reads and edits each assignment. He then writes you a long personal letter explaining in detail his corrections and makes specific recommendations. You receive professional advice and guidance while you work where you want — when you want.

The rewards.

Although many writers of children's books earn $15,000 to $20,000 and more a year, the benefits of a career in writing also include the challenge, the excitement, and the great satisfaction of doing something important with your life. When you complete this course, you will be a qualified writer with a future. And what a future!

The market is unlimited. Editors and publishers of children's literature are crying out for talented writers.

This year, more than 30 million children's books will be published, producing total sales of over 170 million dollars! And over 400 periodicals for children with a combined circulation of over 80,000,000 will be published. Books and magazine articles for children are frequently adapted for television and for the movies. In addition, there are twenty-four children's book clubs and a rapidly expanding children's paperback market.

Writing is truly satisfying only when your work is published and, for writers of children's literature, it has never been easier to find a publisher.

Will you take the first step?

You may be a teacher, be taking care of a home, or be a concerned grandparent. You may not even believe that you have the necessary background to become a successful writer. But, as an author, you will be judged solely on your ability to write — not on your age, sex, education, or previous writing experience.

For example, female authors appear on the best sellers list as frequently as do male authors and, in the field of children's literature, there are as many female editors as there are male editors.

Free test.

To find qualified men and women with an aptitude for writing, the Faculty and Consultants of of the Institute have prepared a special Aptitude Test. It is offered free of charge and will be graded at no charge to you by members of our staff.

If you want to be a writer, send in the coupon below for this free test and for a free brochure which fully describes the Institute, our course, our faculty, the current publishing market for children's literature, and your new future. If you demonstrate an aptitude for writing, you will be eligible to enroll. Of course, there is no obligation.

FOR MARLIN PERKINS,

star of TV's "Wild Kingdom"

You must have eaten some exotic food in your travels. What are the strangest dishes you've been served?—E. C. Fortney, Jr., Parkersburg, W. Va.

● At the Explorers Club annual meeting and banquet at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York, they serve a large table of weird dishes such as pickled Persian sheeps' eyeballs, preserved toasted caterpillars and rattlesnake meat. In the Australian outback, the aborigines offered us witchety grubs. But they were still alive and looked something like our own grubs, so we turned them down. In Alaska I was offered fresh blubber from a seal by a young Eskimo who had hacked off some with a rusty knife. Many people offer us unusual foods that we try and find delicious. Recently, in the Falkland Islands, I heard a story about a sailor who lived for more than a year on a small island by eating the raw base of the tussock grass and what he could find washed up on the beach. I tried the grass and found it delicious, something like hearts of palm.

FOR PETER BOGDANOVICH

How do you feel about the use of nudity in films?—L.P., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Too much is like painting a canvas with just one shade of red, so that it becomes merely a piece of wall that has been framed. If nudity has to be used, it should be unexpected and brief. Anything else loses impact, and all the producer gains is a blasé audience.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

Did you ever think of having your own TV show?—Dean Gesualdo, Las Vegas, Nev.

● Many times. I thought about it in 1958 and did "Riverboat" and NBC canceled me. I thought about it again in 1965 and did "Hawk" and ABC canceled me. And I thought about it yet again in 1971 and did "Dan August" and CBS canceled me. If I ever think about it again, maybe I should try Public TV. (P.S. I am doing a series of specials for NBC.)

● My syndicate doesn't make money on my column. They make it on my photo. If they don't have to replace it, they can report a profit. Also, newspapers won't change the picture because their readers would get shook up. Anytime you change something in a paper, people get nervous. This is my last photo, taken in 1973. Since the photos of Howard Hughes are 25 years old, I think I'm very up-to-date.

FOR JEANE DIXON

After I saw "The Exorcist" I heard that you had predicted that everyone who saw the movie would die within five years. The movie did nothing to me. What prompted you to make such a prediction?—Joan Bloomer, Rutledge, Tenn.

● I made no prediction whatsoever about that movie. How rumors like this get started is a mystery to me.

FOR GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA

I just saw your book "Italia Mia" and wondered how difficult it was for you to take all those pictures?—B. Berns, Kenosha, Wis.

● Taking them was easy. Choosing the right ones for the book was the problem. You see, I took 20,000 photos, but could use only 191. I got heart palpitations every time I made a rejection, and was almost a basket case by the time I'd finished "killing off" my hard work.

FOR MORTY GUNTY

Which do you prefer, working before a live audience or being on TV?—H. H., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● It's hard to choose. On TV, one reaches much larger audiences, but with a live audience, you can tell right away if you're going over well. The morning after my first TV appearance, I walked the streets praying someone would recognize me. Finally, a lady stared, turned to her husband and said: "That's the comedian we saw on TV last night—you know, the one with the funny name—HUMPTY DUMPTY."

FOR VICTOR BORGE

Do you fool around with the piano offstage as well as on it? —E. E., Lynchburg, Va.

● After you read this, I guess you'll say I do. I once bet a friend I could tell the time by my piano. I played a rousing Sousa march in my hotel room. The occupant of the room next door banged on the wall and shouted angrily: "Stop that noise! Don't you know it's one-thirty in the morning?"

FOR SUSAN CLARK

You've costarred with Rock Hudson and Dean Martin. What's it like doing love scenes with those gorgeous men? —B. G., Amarillo, Texas

● Painful. From Rock I got puffed lips and from Dean I got bruised ribs.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is it true that a movie star once sent Rona Barrett a live scorpion?—John McDonough, Kendall Park, N.J.

● It was a tarantula, according to Rona. Her secretary received a tennis-ball canister in the mail, with a dead tarantula inside. Rona suspected a very well-known actor of sending it, and says her proof soon came. A friend of hers was at a party where the guests were watching TV. When Rona didn't make her nightly newscast (because of a strike), the actor in question shrieked, "My God, we've killed her!" And his then-wife said, "Well, that's what you wanted. And our fingerprints are all over the can." Rona says the actor later admitted the whole thing and that they're now friendly, but not friends. Says the actor, contacted by FAMILY WEEKLY: "Rona is a friend of mine now. She's a nice lady. I don't want to say any more about it."

then rang a bell for his male secretary and the secretary came in and he said: "Jim, what kind of joke is this? What is this kid doing in here?"

So we talked and he finally got the point and he said, "Well, I'll tell you. We simply can't send you outside on any kind of assignments, but we'll keep you here in the office." Which was true. I was tucked away in a small office for two years and wasn't allowed to be seen too often, and we had that little boy Capote down there doing "Talk of the Town." But here's the point I am coming to: It was at this juncture that I had to make a real decision. I didn't want to be a "New Yorker" writer. I admired the magazine, I admired everyone there, and I knew they had done brilliant things, but I knew that if I stayed on there, I would fall into "The New Yorker" pattern, all that precision writing and editing, and I just didn't want to be that kind of writer. And this is when I started making a decision between elitist and pop culture. I considered "The New Yorker" representative of popular culture in a way that I didn't think at that moment I wanted my writing to be. And so, after a great deal of hemming and hawing, I left, went off by myself and wrote my first novel. It was called "Other Voices, Other Rooms." And it had a curious success. Some said it was successful because it had a certain notorious quality; others said it was successful because of all the publicity that surrounded it—mainly due to a rather exotic photograph of me that appeared on the jacket.

Whatever it was, I felt guilty about it. I didn't feel that I could be very good if I was successful. There was a conflict in my mind because I had been so brainwashed by my colleagues into believing that if you were commercially successful you couldn't be good. Of course, that's ridiculous, but it was a kind of paranoiac reaction that developed. And this is what I mean about the personal conflict that intrudes between the ideas of elitist and popular culture. It took me several years to rid myself of that paranoia. There was the feeling that I didn't want to be successful; I was too snobbish to want to be successful. But then gradually I went on with my writing and published four or five books and they all more or less had the same kind of reviews and critical-commercial success.

But then came a great crisis; I decided I wanted to work in forms other than prose-fiction. I'd always been a great film enthusiast; in fact, when I was living in that small town in Alabama, I saw every film shown at the only movie house. It influenced my writing tremendously, my sense of construction and speed, of shaping things in filmic images. It was all right to go to films, but it wasn't correct to work in them. If you worked in films, then you were being disloyal to literature. Still, I wanted to work in films and I did.

I found the movies a very exciting medium, and about a tenth as difficult as writing a novel, because a film script is nothing but construction and dialogue. I liked writing scripts, and yet all the time I felt this continuing conflict. I felt I really shouldn't be doing this, I should be working on a book or a short story. I really shouldn't be wasting my time. I'm being disloyal to my own particular gifts. There was a truth

"When I was 17 I looked maybe 11 years old, and when I walked in the room Mr. Ross looked at me for the longest while, then rang a bell for his male secretary and the secretary came in and he said: 'Jim, what kind of joke is this? What is this kid doing in here?'" in it that caused a genuine conflict and produced in me a nervous condition; but somehow I couldn't drag myself away from working in film images. The next treacherous step was when I became fascinated by television. Television: the most evil thing of all. But I began to write and work in television and did about 10 or 15 programs and became absorbed with it as a medium. Although I realized that very few people whose opinions I respected had any real feeling about it, I felt an undertow, the feeling that I was doing the right thing for me, that I was moving my talents into a medium that had a more immediate impact on people and was reaching much larger audiences than I would reach otherwise. I decided, "Well, okay; you can't have it both ways. You can't have the respect of elitist coteries, and at the same time demand the attention of large audiences: you have to make a compromise." And that leaves me today with certain conflicts that I haven't yet resolved. I don't know how I will resolve them, but I feel that I would rather work in different media than stay with one particular medium, namely prose-writing—even though I know that happens to be my strongest medium of all.

Looking Back On My Life...

Truman Capote on Success, Pride...and Conflict

By Truman Capote

"In school I did very badly and failed all my grades. They really thought there was something simpleminded about me. Quite seriously. And I began to develop a strong inferiority complex."

I'm neither learned nor educated. In fact, I'm not only a high school dropout, I'm a high school throwout. However, most of my life I've been involved with the arts. Like anyone involved with the arts, I've had a considerable conflict, personal conflict, with the terms elitist culture and popular culture, for reasons that I will try to explain. But to do that I have to go a bit into my own background.

I spent much of my early childhood in a very small town in Alabama that depended entirely upon cotton for its economy. Cotton and lumber. There was no library in this town. The only thing that I ever saw anybody reading was the two papers that arrived on the 6 o'clock bus from Mobile, The Mobile Register and The Montgomery Advertiser; that, and a few sort of farm magazines. What I mean is that I didn't know anybody who was interested in reading. If so, I was totally unaware of them. But for some curious reason, when I was about four years old, and with the help of an old lady who could scarcely read herself, I became obsessed with the idea of learning to read. Gradually I did. This was two years before I was old enough to go to the local school. And I learned to read, really, very well. And bit by bit I taught myself to write too. So by the time I went to first grade in school, I could already read and write and had done it virtually by myself and for no explainable reason. I mean, no model, no particular motivation, just the great obsession and desire to do so. But instead of being encouraged by the teachers at school, I was actually punished for it. They thought that there was something a bit freaky about it. I was almost never called on in class to read aloud because it made the other children feel bad. Because of this, I developed a sense of isolation and started writing little stories when I was about seven or eight. I wrote every day. My stories were totally different from the things that I read in the magazines and newspapers I was able to obtain. They were about things around me. they were real, and there was nothing childish about them. I never thought of them as being either good or bad. It was just something that I was doing; but gradually I began to realize that there was something... a door beyond which I couldn't go. There was some marvelous, meritorious thing there beyond this door, but I couldn't open the door because I had no access to it. But I knew it was there and it was the first time that I became aware, really, of the difference between good and bad, excellent and poor.

If it hadn't been for a sort of a freak happening, I think that I might, at that point, have just become an intellectually arrested case. In school I did very badly and failed all my grades. They really thought there was something simpleminded about me. Quite seriously. And I began to develop a strong inferiority complex. But I knew there was something beyond all this if only I could just reach out and touch it. And then because of this freakish thing that happened, everything changed.

This was during the Depression, and the WPA, which was making jobs for all kinds of people, dispatched teams of psychiatrists all over the U.S. to examine children, to give them IQ tests. So suddenly one day in this little town these three psychiatrists turned up, two men and a woman. They came to our school, where we must have had about 350 kids, and gave IQ tests to all of us. So I took the test along with everybody else, handed the thing in, and I went home; and that evening these three people came driving up to the house and they talked to my relatives and they asked if they could give me their test again, or a variation of it. So the next day I took the test again. They then talked to my family and asked if I could go to New York to take part in an educational experiment at the Horace Mann School. Several children who had made high scores around the country were being assembled there for closer research. Later, they arranged for me to go to a special school, which I did for three or four years. And whatever education I got, I got there.

But I was very bored with it. All I wanted to do was write. At this time, and I guess I was about 16, I started sending things to various magazines. One of them was "The New Yorker." And suddenly, one day (this was the beginning of the war and I think they had a very severe shortage of staff) I got a note from them asking me if I would be interested in a permanent job working at "The New Yorker." They didn't know anything about me, they didn't know how old I was, nothing, but I called and I made an appointment and appeared. The editor was a man named Harold Ross, a very ferocious man, and I'm rather small. When I was 17 I looked maybe 11 years old, and when I walked in the room Mr. Ross looked at me for the longest while,

This article was adapted by Truman Capote from an address he made at the recent Palm Coast Symposium on "The Human Condition." Mr. Capote was one of 13 outstanding leaders in arts and letters, science, education and social thought who addressed the gathering of educators at Palm Coast, Fla.

Dr. Norman Young

One of the symposium's subjects was the interplay of art and life, and it was this subject (particularly popular culture vs. elite culture) that Mr. Capote took as his starting point.

The setting was the ITT-developed Palm Coast, the growing new community located between Daytona Beach and St. Augustine on Florida's Atlantic Coast. Motivator of both Palm Coast and the symposium is Dr. Norman Young, urban planner, behavioral psychologist and scholar.

What It's Like Being Married to Howard Cosell

A Candid Talk With Emmy Cosell

By Janet Muchovej

Elizabeth Gee

"Howard got attention by saying what he thought," says Emmy Cosell. "I think he was right for his time."

Somehow I had expected Howard Cosell's wife to be a quiet woman, someone who is used to taking a backseat to her famous husband. But Emmy Cosell ("I came before the Emmy Awards!") is nobody's shadow. She is chatty and charming, gracious and uncommonly energetic. Recently we talked in the Cosells' luxurious apartment on Manhattan's East Side. A framed book jacket from Howard's best seller, "Cosell," was on one wall and a Leroy Neiman painting on another. Mr. Neiman had written, "To Howard and his lifetime Emmy, January 22, 1974."

FAMILY WEEKLY: Did you realize you were marrying a man who was destined for fame?

EMMY: No, I certainly did not. I married Howard during World War II. He was in the Army, and after his discharge he planned to practice law. I won't say that I didn't sense an aura of success about him; I felt that Howard would do well. I'm attracted to people who at least have the drive. My father is that kind of person, and that's the kind of person who appeals to me. But I never expected this!

FW: How did you meet your husband?

EMMY: We were in the Army. I was a WAC secretary to a major and he was an officer. We met in May, and were married 13 months later. I think if we had been married in a month, our marriage would have been just as successful.

FW: What were your early married years like?

EMMY: It was very difficult to get housing, so we lived with Howard's parents in Brooklyn for the first three years. Then we moved to a development here in New York called Peter Cooper Village, which was absolutely marvelous for a young couple because it had supervised playgrounds, programs for children and interesting neighbors. All of us were just out of the Army, starting new careers. Karl Malden and John Forsythe lived there. There were others, but I remember those two because we remain friendly today.

"Howard's not the kind of person who likes me to be away. It's the childish side of his nature. He can't find things. He gets headaches. I try to laugh about it, but it doesn't make for a very relaxed vacation if you know your husband is in New York being unhappy and disorganized."

FW: Did you continue to work after you were married?

EMMY: No, I never worked. I got pregnant and concentrated on raising a family. I suppose if my days weren't full—and I mean they are full—from the time I get up at 6:30 in the morning until we go to bed at night, I would have wanted a career. I do sympathize, and in many ways empathize, with Women's Liberation. Perhaps it's a flaw in me—which I sincerely doubt—but I thoroughly enjoyed raising my children. I found it to be a full-time job, an absorbing job, an interesting job. And now, Howard is truly a full-time job!

I travel with him. The football season means 15 weeks of constant travel. I take my needlepoint and the books I want to read. And "Monday Night Football" is not just a football game. I'm his hostess. There's always a dinner party for the sponsors, who feel they're entitled to be wined and dined, and of course they are. They want to meet Howard Cosell's wife because they're curious. I know when I meet celebrities, I'm curious about their wives too.

And then there's almost always a cocktail party before the game itself. Again, we're expected to be at that. When we're in town, the owners very often have a dinner party with members of the team, and they would like me to be there. So there again it's a job. It's pleasant, but it's a job.

FW: It must be very exciting to have raised your family, then suddenly be in the national limelight, go to parties, do all of that traveling.

EMMY: Oh, yes, I've been very fortunate. I read articles about women who have gone through menopause and are emotionally undone. I can understand that. Your children are grown, and there you are, feeling abandoned in an empty house. But this just didn't happen to me. I never had a chance to say to myself, "Oh, look, I'm ready to begin my fifties, I'm all alone and my children don't need me." For me there was never any pause. My life became more interesting.

FW: Tell us about your children and grandchildren.

EMMY: My oldest daughter, Jill Cohane, is 29. When we speak of our children, it always includes our son-in-law, whom we love very dearly. Jill and Peter have three children, Justin, age five, Jared, age three, and Caitlin, age two months.

Hilary, who's 23, is at Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University. Hilary plans to be a newspaperwoman. Not broadcasting—newspapers.

FW: How do your children feel about their father's success?

EMMY: They find it very difficult to cope with. It doesn't rub off on Jill too much because her name is no longer Cosell. Hilary has the double sword of having his name. There aren't that many Cosells; I don't know any others. People make it a joke: "Oh, you must be Howard Cosell's daughter, ha-ha! . . ." And of course she is!

And when the girls read columns that are derogatory, they react. It hurts them and they get angry. Howard has promised Hilary that he'll never speak at a college she's attending. Northwestern has asked Howard to speak there. After Hilary graduates, fine. But Northwestern will not see him until that time.

FW: When Mr. Cosell first became a sportscaster, he was extremely controversial. How did that affect you?

EMMY: I cannot believe people who say that such things don't get to them, don't hurt or anger them. It's very hard to take. But fortunately in my case, I believed in all the stands Howard took. Plus I thought it was time someone said these things. Sports is not a sacred part of life. I agreed with Howard that in this country they had made sports a sacred thing. But athletes are human! And I'm sure the owners got very irritated when Howard took the side of the players.

But it's better to tell the truth as you see it. Howard never would have succeeded on any other basis anyhow. There are enough sportscasters in the world that there wouldn't have been a place for one more who had never played the game, who was from New York, Jewish, and hardly the prep-school type. He got attention by saying what he thought, and then there was a place for him. I think he was right for his time. Howard and I have talked about that.

FW: Is there anything that you've had to give up because of Howard's success?

EMMY: Other than privacy, no. But until you lose privacy, you don't know how precious it is. We were in New Orleans for the Super Bowl, and it was nice that people greeted him warmly, but it turned out that we couldn't even walk in the streets. People would approach us and say, "Could I have my picture taken with you?" or "Could I have your autograph?" Finally we decided we'd better stay in the hotel. That takes some of the fun out of life.

FW: Is Howard still planning to run for the U.S. Senate in 1976?

EMMY: No. It's something I would love to see him do, and it would certainly be a lovely way to spend our declining years. But I think he'd have trouble getting the nomination. Also, he wouldn't be able to work for ABC. He'd have to take whatever money we've managed to accumulate and be prepared to spend a great deal of it campaigning. He might end up out in the cold, and how do you start all over again?

FW: Do you and your husband have any special plans for 1975?

EMMY: Oh, I'm a seashore nut. If I had my way, I'd live on the ocean. I don't go to the beach in the summer any more because Howard can never stay. He's not the kind of person who likes me to be away. It's the childish side of his nature. He can't find things. He gets headaches. I try to laugh about it, but it doesn't make for a very relaxed vacation if you know your husband is in New York being unhappy and disorganized.

But this summer we're apparently going to rectify that. Howard suggested that I rent a house, at which point I leaped to my feet to make the arrangements. Jill and the children will join me. And Howard says he'll try to take a week off, and he'll come out weekends. I hope it works out!

"We're looking for people to write children's books."

If you ever wanted to write and be published this is your opportunity.

by Francis Gemme

We need writers. There are over 200 publishers of books for children and more than 400 magazines, all of which have a need for writers.

We know that many people could help to fill this need for children's writers if they could only get started. Are you one of those people? Do you have the urge to write and the ambition to work at it but are unable to get professional training? Are you tied to your home or job? Perhaps you lack confidence in your ability?

Have you ever read a children's story and said, "I can do better than that"? Have you ever deplored the lack of good new literature for young readers? Do you love children? Do you want to do something important with your life? Do you want the personal satisfaction and the rewards that come with writing for children? That very attitude may be the clue to you that you can do it, for the desire to write must come first.

Stories only you can write.

Once you learn to use the basic writing techniques, writing for children is easier than you think. Your personal experiences, fantasies, personality traits, and hobbies all lend themselves to good subjects. Many of these subjects have been written about — plainly and simply — and have been published. You probably have within yourself many children's stories that only you can write.

A new kind of school.

The Institute of Children's Literature was founded to encourage more and better writing for young readers. Top writers and publishers have worked together to create a professional course to teach you to write for young children and for teenagers. They include people like Lee Wyndham, a teacher and author of forty-eight books, including How To Write for Children and Teenagers, Hardie Gramatky, author and illustrator of many famous children's books like Little Toot, and John Ledes, President of Astor Honor Books and author of many award-winning children's books. In total, these professional writers have published hundreds and hundreds of books and magazine articles for young readers. They know how to write — how to teach — and how to help you publish.

Learning to write and to sell.

The early success of this course has been repeated many times by people like yourself who knew in their hearts that they could write in a way that would enrich children's reading experiences.

This course will train you step-by-step from the writing of the opening sentence through the selling of a finished manuscript. Yes, you will have completed a manuscript suitable for publication when you finish this course.

Your own instructor.

Because writing is a very personal experience, we believe that the teaching of writing must also be personalized. That is why, in addition to writing materials, textbooks, instruction, and assignments, you will receive personal guidance on every lesson from your own instructor.

The instructor chosen for you will be a professional writer who will remain with you throughout the course. He will show you how to use your personal feelings, experiences, imagination, and interests to write for children — in your spare time at home.

Work at your own pace.

A writing course is most effective when you can work at the time you feel most like working. With this course, there is no bell to end the class and no interruptions from other students. You and your instructor can work together at the pace most suitable for you. This flexible schedule allows more time for each student than is possible in a classroom situation.

You mail your completed work to your instructor who carefully reads and edits each assignment. He then writes you a long personal letter explaining in detail his corrections and makes specific recommendations. You receive professional advice and guidance while you work where you want — when you want.

The rewards.

Although many writers of children's books earn $15,000 to $20,000 and more a year, the benefits of a career in writing also include the challenge, the excitement, and the great satisfaction of doing something important with your life. When you complete this course, you will be a qualified writer with a future. And what a future!

Francis Gemme, a Founder of the Institute of Children's Literature, is the President and Publisher of Gallery House and a consultant to Young Reader's Press.

The market is unlimited. Editors and publishers of children's literature are crying out for talented writers.

This year, more than 30 million children's books will be published, producing total sales of over 170 million dollars! And over 400 periodicals for children with a combined circulation of over 80,000,000 will be published. Books and magazine articles for children are frequently adapted for television and for the movies. In addition, there are twenty-four children's book clubs and a rapidly expanding children's paperback market.

Writing is truly satisfying only when your work is published and, for writers of children's literature, it has never been easier to find a publisher.

Will you take the first step?

You may be a teacher, be taking care of a home, or be a concerned grandparent. You may not even believe that you have the necessary background to become a successful writer. But, as an author, you will be judged solely on your ability to write — not on your age, sex, education, or previous writing experience.

For example, female authors appear on the best sellers list as frequently as do male authors and, in the field of children's literature, there are as many female editors as there are male editors.

Free test.

To find qualified men and women with an aptitude for writing, the Faculty and Consultants of of the Institute have prepared a special Aptitude Test. It is offered free of charge and will be graded at no charge to you by members of our staff.

If you want to be a writer, send in the coupon below for this free test and for a free brochure which fully describes the Institute, our course, our faculty, the current publishing market for children's literature, and your new future. If you demonstrate an aptitude for writing, you will be eligible to enroll. Of course, there is no obligation.

Truman Capote

then rang a bell for his male secretary and the secretary came in and he said: "Jim, what kind of joke is this? What is this kid doing in here?"

So we talked and he finally got the point and he said, "Well, I'll tell you. We simply can't send you outside on any kind of assignments, but we'll keep you here in the office." Which was true. I was tucked away in a small office for two years and wasn't allowed to be seen too often, and we had that little boy Capote down there doing "Talk of the Town." But here's the point I am coming to: It was at this juncture that I had to make a real decision. I didn't want to be a "New Yorker" writer. I admired the magazine, I admired everyone there, and I knew they had done brilliant things, but I knew that if I stayed on there, I would fall into "The New Yorker" pattern, all that precision writing and editing, and I just didn't want to be that kind of writer. And this is when I started making a decision between elitist and pop culture. I considered "The New Yorker" representative of popular culture in a way that I didn't think at that moment I wanted my writing to be. And so, after a great deal of hemming and hawing, I left, went off by myself and wrote my first novel. It was called "Other Voices, Other Rooms." And it had a curious success. Some said it was successful because it had a certain notorious quality; others said it was successful because of all the publicity that surrounded it—mainly due to a rather exotic photograph of me that appeared on the jacket.

Whatever it was, I felt guilty about it. I didn't feel that I could be very good if I was successful. There was a conflict in my mind because I had been so brainwashed by my colleagues into believing that if you were commercially successful you couldn't be good. Of course, that's ridiculous, but it was a kind of paranoiac reaction that developed. And this is what I mean about the personal conflict that intrudes between the ideas of elitist and popular culture. It took me several years to rid myself of that paranoia. There was the feeling that I didn't want to be successful; I was too snobbish to want to be successful. But then gradually I went on with my writing and published four or five books and they all more or less had the same kind of reviews and critical-commercial success.

But then came a great crisis; I decided I wanted to work in forms other than prose-fiction. I'd always been a great film enthusiast; in fact, when I was living in that small town in Alabama, I saw every film shown at the only movie house. It influenced my writing tremendously, my sense of construction and speed, of shaping things in filmic images. It was all right to go to films, but it wasn't correct to work in them. If you worked in films, then you were being disloyal to literature. Still, I wanted to work in films and I did.

I found the movies a very exciting medium, and about a tenth as difficult as writing a novel, because a film script is nothing but construction and dialogue. I liked writing scripts, and yet all the time I felt this continuing conflict. I felt I really shouldn't be doing this, I should be working on a book or a short story. I really shouldn't be wasting my time. I'm being disloyal to my own particular gifts. There was a truth in it that caused a genuine conflict and produced in me a nervous condition; but somehow I couldn't drag myself away from working in film images. The next treacherous step was when I became fascinated by television. Television: the most evil thing of all. But I began to write and work in television and did about 10 or 15 programs and became absorbed with it as a medium. Although I realized that very few people whose opinions I respected had any real feeling about it, I felt an undertow, the feeling that I was doing the right thing for me, that I was moving my talents into a medium that had a more immediate impact on people and was reaching much larger audiences than I would reach otherwise. I decided, "Well, okay; you can't have it both ways. You can't have the respect of elitist coteries, and at the same time demand the attention of large audiences: you have to make a compromise." And that leaves me today with certain conflicts that I haven't yet resolved. I don't know how I will resolve them, but I feel that I would rather work in different media than stay with one particular medium, namely prose-writing—even though I know that happens to be my strongest medium of all.

"When I was 17 I looked maybe 11 years old, and when I walked in the room Mr. Ross looked at me for the longest while, then rang a bell for his male secretary and the secretary came in and he said: 'Jim, what kind of joke is this? What is this kid doing in here?'"

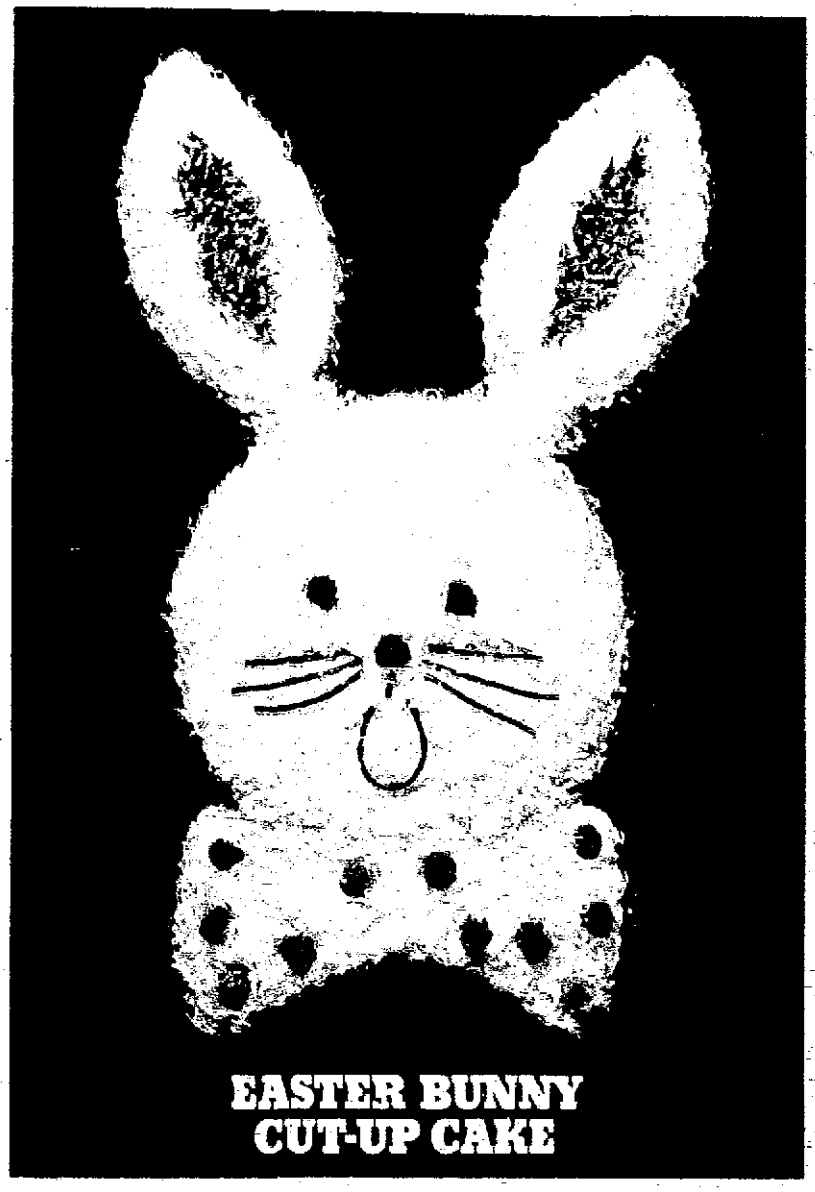
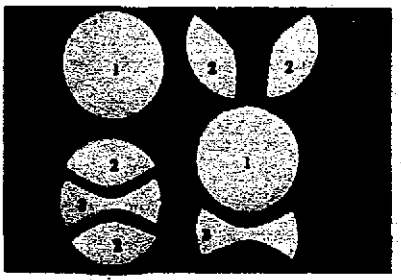
BAKE A BAKER'S® COCONUT BUNNY CAKE AND COMPLIMENTS MULTIPLY.



What family wouldn't love this delightful Easter cake? And it's surprisingly easy.

THE EASY RECIPE



Start with two 9" layers you've baked from scratch or from your favorite cake mix. Cut according to diagram. Arrange bunny on a tray. And top with fluffy-white frosting.

Sprinkle lavishly with Baker's® Angel Flake® Coconut. Tint a small amount of coconut pink for his ears by tossing it with a few drops of red food coloring diluted with water. Decorate with gumdrops for eyes, nose and polka dots on tie. Licorice for mouth and whiskers.

Once you serve this delicious Easter treat, you'll be glad you didn't settle for anything less than tender, moist Baker's Angel Flake Coconut. After all, Baker's is the coconut your best desserts deserve. Ask any bunny.

And one more bonus: An envelope of Burpee® Bachelor's Button or Aster seeds, worth 35¢ (retail value) comes in each specially marked package of Baker's® Coconut. Pick one today.

What It's Like Being Married to Howard Cosell

A Candid Talk With Emmy Cosell

By Janet Machovej

Elizabeth Gee

"Howard got attention by saying what he thought," says Emmy Cosell. "I think he was right for his time."

Somehow I had expected Howard Cosell's wife to be a quiet woman, someone who is used to taking a backseat to her famous husband. But Emmy Cosell ("I came before the Emmy Awards!") is nobody's shadow. She is chatty and charming, gracious and uncommonly energetic. Recently we talked in the Cosells' luxurious apartment on Manhattan's East Side. A framed book jacket from Howard's best seller, "Cosell," was on one wall and a Leroy Neiman painting on another. Mr. Neiman had written, "To Howard and his lifetime Emmy, January 22, 1974."

FAMILY WEEKLY: Did you realize you were marrying a man who was destined for fame?

EMMY: No, I certainly did not. I married Howard during World War II. He was in the Army, and after his discharge he planned to practice law. I won't say that I didn't sense an aura of success about him; I felt that Howard would do well. I'm attracted to people who at least have the drive. My father is that kind of person, and that's the kind of person who appeals to me. But I never expected this!

FW: How did you meet your husband?

EMMY: We were in the Army. I was a WAC secretary to a major and he was an officer. We met in May, and were married 13 months later. I think if we had been married in a month, our marriage would have been just as successful.

FW: What were your early married years like?

EMMY: It was very difficult to get housing, so we lived with Howard's parents in Brooklyn for the first three years. Then we moved to a development here in New York called Peter Cooper Village, which was absolutely marvelous for a young couple because it had supervised playgrounds, programs for children and interesting neighbors. All of us were just out of the Army, starting new careers. Karl Malden and John Forsythe lived there. There were others, but I remember those two because we remain friendly today.

"Howard's not the kind of person who likes me to be away. It's the childish side of his nature. He can't find things. He gets headaches. I try to laugh about it, but it doesn't make for a very relaxed vacation if you know your husband is in New York being unhappy and disorganized."

FW: Did you continue to work after you were married?

EMMY: No, I never worked. I got pregnant and concentrated on raising a family. I suppose if my days weren't full—and I mean they are full—from the time I get up at 6:30 in the morning until we go to bed at night, I would have wanted a career. I do sympathize, and in many ways empathize, with Women's Liberation. Perhaps it's a flaw in me—which I sincerely doubt—but I thoroughly enjoyed raising my children. I found it to be a full-time job, an absorbing job, an interesting job. And now, Howard is truly a full-time job!

I travel with him. The football season means 15 weeks of constant travel. I take my needlepoint and the books I want to read. And "Monday Night Football" is not just a football game. I'm his hostess. There's always a dinner party for the sponsors, who feel they're entitled to be wined and dined, and of course they are. They want to meet Howard Cosell's wife because they're curious. I know when I meet celebrities, I'm curious about their wives too.

And then there's almost always a cocktail party before the game itself. Again, we're expected to be at that. When we're in town, the owners very often have a dinner party with members of the team, and they would like me to be there. So there again it's a job. It's pleasant, but it's a job.

FW: It must be very exciting to have raised your family, then suddenly be in the national limelight, go to parties, do all of that traveling.

EMMY: Oh, yes, I've been very fortunate. I read articles about women who have gone through menopause and are emotionally undone. I can understand that. Your children are grown, and there you are, feeling abandoned in an empty house. But this just didn't happen to me. I never had a chance to say to myself, "Oh, look, I'm ready to begin my fifties, I'm all alone and my children don't need me." For me there was never any pause. My life became more interesting.

FW: Tell us about your children and grandchildren.

EMMY: My oldest daughter, Jill Cohane, is 29. When we speak of our children, it always includes our son-in-law, whom we love very dearly. Jill and Peter have three children, Justin, age five, Jared, age three, and Caitlin, age two months.

Hilary, who's 23, is at Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University. Hilary plans to be a newspaperwoman. Not broadcasting—newspapers.

FW: How do your children feel about their father's success?

EMMY: They find it very difficult to cope with. It doesn't rub off on Jill too much because her name is no longer Cosell. Hilary has the double sword of having his name. There aren't that many Cosells; I don't know any others. People make it a joke: "Oh, you must be Howard Cosell's daughter, ha-ha! . . ." And of course she is!

And when the girls read columns that are derogatory, they react. It hurts them and they get angry. Howard has promised Hilary that he'll never speak at a college she's attending. Northwestern has asked Howard to speak there. After Hilary graduates, fine. But Northwestern will not see him until that time.

FW: When Mr. Cosell first became a sportscaster, he was extremely controversial. How did that affect you?

EMMY: I cannot believe people who say that such things don't get to them, don't hurt or anger them. It's very hard to take. But fortunately in my case, I believed in all the stands Howard took. Plus I thought it was time someone said these things. Sports is not a sacred part of life. I agreed with Howard that in this country they had made sports a sacred thing. But athletes are human! And I'm sure the owners got very irritated when Howard took the side of the players.

But it's better to tell the truth as you see it. Howard never would have succeeded on any other basis anyhow. There are enough sportscasters in the world that there wouldn't have been a place for one more who had never played the game, who was from New York, Jewish, and hardly the prep-school type. He got attention by saying what he thought, and then there was a place for him. I think he was right for his time. Howard and I have talked about that.

FW: Is there anything that you've had to give up because of Howard's success?

EMMY: Other than privacy, no. But until you lose privacy, you don't know how precious it is. We were in New Orleans for the Super Bowl, and it was nice that people greeted him warmly, but it turned out that we couldn't even walk in the streets. People would approach us and say, "Could I have my picture taken with you?" or "Could I have your autograph?" Finally we decided we'd better stay in the hotel. That takes some of the fun out of life.

FW: Is Howard still planning to run for the U.S. Senate in 1976?

EMMY: No. It's something I would love to see him do, and it would certainly be a lovely way to spend our declining years. But I think he'd have trouble getting the nomination. Also, he wouldn't be able to work for ABC. He'd have to take whatever money we've managed to accumulate and be prepared to spend a great deal of it campaigning. He might end up out in the cold, and how do you start all over again?

FW: Do you and your husband have any special plans for 1975?

EMMY: Oh, I'm a seashore nut. If I had my way, I'd live on the ocean. I don't go to the beach in the summer any more because Howard can never stay. He's not the kind of person who likes me to be away. It's the childish side of his nature. He can't find things. He gets headaches. I try to laugh about it, but it doesn't make for a very relaxed vacation if you know your husband is in New York being unhappy and disorganized.

But this summer we're apparently going to rectify that. Howard suggested that I rent a house, at which point I leaped to my feet to make the arrangements. Jill and the children will join me. And Howard says he'll try to take a week off, and he'll come out weekends. I hope it works out!

"Feminine Itching Was Making My Life Miserable."

"I was constantly worried about my itching problem. I tried so many things, and nothing really helped. Feminine itching was making my life miserable. Then I saw an ad in the newspaper for Vagisil, a new way to help stop feminine itching. I tried it and it really worked."
Mrs. S. T., Richmond, Virginia

If you suffer from external vaginal itching, there is now a creme medication specifically formulated to bring fast, temporary relief. Called Vagisil,™ it's available without a prescription.

Doctor-tested Vagisil is a soft, easy-to-apply medication that helps stop external vaginal itching almost instantly. Yet Vagisil is gentle enough for tender, irritated membranes. Does Your Antacid Upset Your Low-Salt Diet?

The leading antacid roll tablet may be giving you more than half your daily sodium allowance. Here's what to do!

If you're worried about salt in your diet—a case of heartburn or acid indigestion can present a real problem.

You should know that just five tablets of the leading roll antacid taken during the day would exceed more than half the allowance of sodium many doctors recommend for strict low-salt diets.

That's playing it pretty close.

And that's why you ought to know about Bisodol® Tablets. Bisodol absorbs more excess acid than the leading roll brand—yet contains far less sodium.

And though Bisodol Tablets quickly relieve that miserable heartburn and acid indigestion, it's good to know you can take them whenever you need them—without worrying about sodium.

Pick up some Bisodol Tablets today. Remember—Bisodol Tablets are low in sodium... high in acid-absorbing power.

A PERENNIAL LAWN – PRACTICALLY INDESTRUCTIBLE!

Now you can own a green, hardy lawn – as luxurious as a resilient thick-pile broadloom carpet! And it's yours to enjoy without ever again raking the earth or planting a seed! Merely place the living pre-cut Zoysia Grass plugs into the ground and they'll flourish thicker and wider until they spread over your entire lawn! Once established, they become a deep-rooted "carpet" that withstands lively garden parties and children's play! With minimum mowing and watering, Zoysia thrives even on sandy or clay soil. Only following sharp frost will its color brown out, but it renews itself as green as ever in the spring! A true care-free perennial for every climate! Plant 3 square inch plugs 1-ft. apart. All instructions included.

Double Guarantee

(1) All plants must arrive in perfect condition and (2) thrive after planting or you may return for replacement or refund of purchase price any time within 3 months.

BARRY NEWMAN
An attention-getter

How Barry Newman, star of NBC's "Petrocelli," got the scar over his left eye: "I could make up some romantic yarn—that I got it in a duel over a fair maiden—but I was raised to be truthful and honest, so here goes. . . . When I was five, I came out of kindergarten and tripped over a tricycle that some stupid kid left on the edge of the pavement. I fell flat on my face in the gutter, right smack on a glass bottle. My 12-year-old brother picked me up and rushed me straight to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. By the time the doctor saw me (two hours later), the deep gash had become infected and there was a 50-50 chance I'd lose that eye. The wound needed treatment for six months afterward. My mother was told I could undergo plastic surgery when I was 12. When the time came, and I heard of how it was to be done (grafting skin from my behind), I said, 'No way.' I still have periodic headaches with pains over that eye. Doctors can't explain it, but I'm sure it's because of the accident. On the other hand, it's an attention-getter; everyone is fascinated by it and wants to know what happened."

EMMA'S OWN DOLL
Made in her image

While other people are busy with their cameras and home-movie projectors, documenting their children's youth for posterity, Mrs. Sheila Bielby, a British woman, came up with a novel approach for capturing her daughter's youth. A friend sculpted a likeness of Mrs. Bielby's daughter Emma, seven, and Mrs. Bielby attached the head to a 24-inch doll's body made of kapok. The likeness was good enough to move Mrs. Bielby to sell "Emma" dolls commercially. But now she is beginning to get requests from people who want replicas of their own children or grandchildren. "Obviously," says Mrs. Bielby, "one-of-a-kind dolls are going to be much more expensive than a mass-produced Emma"—with her blonde hair and blue eyes. Essentially, it's the same idea as having your child's portrait painted or head sculpted. The difference is that you don't have to hang the piece of art on the wall or place it on a pedestal. The doll could be handed down from generation to generation. And one day a little girl could play with a doll that looked just like her grandmother when she was a little girl.

Jukebox bonanza: "Last year the rage was rolltop desks; this year it's antique jukeboxes," says Merv Bendewald, whose antique store in New York's Greenwich Village is probably the largest retailer of such machines on the East Coast. Those big, ornate and colorful Wurlitzers from the 1930's, '40's and early '50's that once sold for $500 can now bring as much as $2,400. The primary reason is the nostalgia craze. Mr. Bendewald explains: "Nostalgia has redefined the word 'antique.' Something used to have to be at least 100 years old to be called an antique; in today's world, if there's a market for it and it's no longer made, you can call it an antique." Wurlitzer has stopped production of jukeboxes, so "antiquity" is almost guaranteed.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

GRAY MATTER

How horrible that first gray hair,
That sign of age and toil and care.
I well remember when, a peerer,
I saw mine in my bathroom mirror.
That silver thread among the gold
(Or darkish brown) made me feel old,
Made me, all suddenly downhearted,
Believe my senile course had started.
And so, a scorner of old geezers,
I plucked it out with tiny tweezers....
But now I wish, a balding hack,
I had those hairs I plucked all back.

PROUDLY ANNOUNCES

a beautiful new medallion double struck in .999 fine silver

(Side One)
ACTUAL SIZE

THE SPIRIT OF 76

The Declaration of Independence was adopted by Congress July 4, 1776. This document was signed by those who loved freedom above life.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL

This "Constitutional" medallion commemorates the second centennial of a country dedicated to freedom and liberty for all. It honors the original Constitution of the United States of America.

(Side Two)
ACTUAL SIZE

On the face of this beautiful Constitutional Medallion the 50 stars are in a nearly solid ring denoting unity. The marching men are symbolic of the freedom we all love, truly the "Spirit of 76". The back of the Constitutional shows symbolic flags of the United States of America and the individual state flag coming together and remaining united for two hundred years. This fine copywrited medallion of pure silver, will give you not only a feeling of pride in your country, but also a certain feeling of wealth. Why not order yours today.

Special Notice. Bi-Centennial clubs, lodges, or fund-raising organizations, be sure to ask for our fund-raising plan and discounts.

IT'S HERE! FROM BELL & HOWELL SCHOOLS!

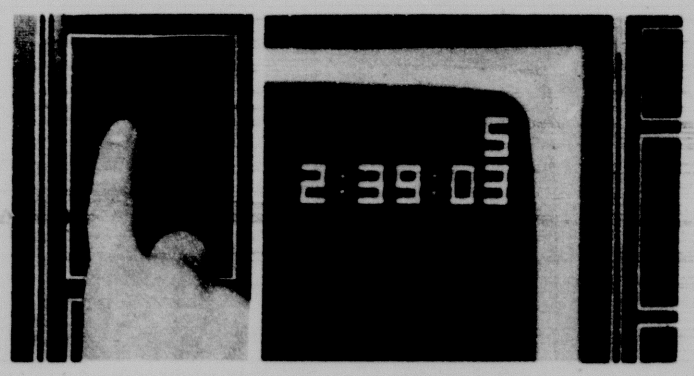
A fascinating learn-at-home program that includes this new generation color TV with digital features... you build it yourself!

You learn occupational skills in electronics through experiments and testing as you build a color television that's ahead of its time!

You've seen TV's that swivel, TV's with radios built in. TV's small enough to stuff in a suitcase and TV's that have remote control.

But now comes a color television with features you've probably never seen before. Features now possible as a result of the new applications of digital electronics... features that make Bell & Howell's 25-inch diagonal color TV ahead of its time! You learn about:

Channel numbers that flash big and clear right on the screen. An on-screen digital clock that flashes the time in hours, minutes and seconds with just the push of a button. An automatic channel selector that you pre-set to skip over "dead" channels and go directly to the channels of your choice.

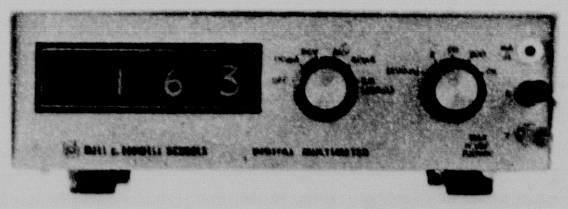


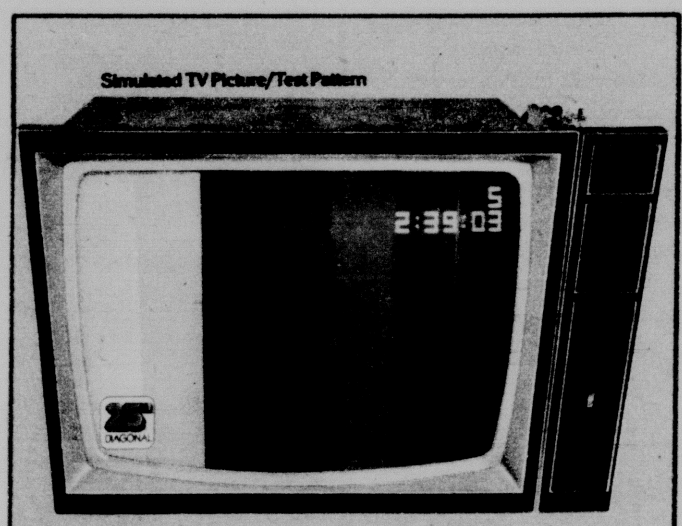
And to insure highest quality performance, this TV has silent, all-electronic tuning, "state-of-the-art" integrated circuitry, Black Matrix picture tube for a brighter, sharper picture and 100% solid-state chassis for longer life and dependability.

Perform fascinating experiments with the exclusive Electro-Lab® electronics training system. It's yours to build.

Designed exclusively for our students, this Bell & Howell Electro-Lab® training system gives you up-to-date "tools of the trade," including instruments you can use professionally after you finish the program.

A digital multimeter that measures voltage, current and resistance, and displays its findings in big, clear numbers. Far more readable than conventional "needle pointer" meters that require guesswork and interpretation.





You build this revolutionary Bell & Howell 25" diagonal color TV with amazing digital features! Mail the postage-free card today for more details.

The solid-state "triggered sweep" oscilloscope is a "must" for accurate analysis of digital circuitry. Includes DC wide-band vertical amplifier and "triggered sweep" feature to lock in signals for easier observation.

The design console is a valuable device for setting up and examining circuits without soldering! Features patented modular connectors, AC power supply and transistorized dual range DC power supply.

Build it yourself... the perfect way to discover the exciting field of digital electronics!

It's part of a complete learn-at-home program!

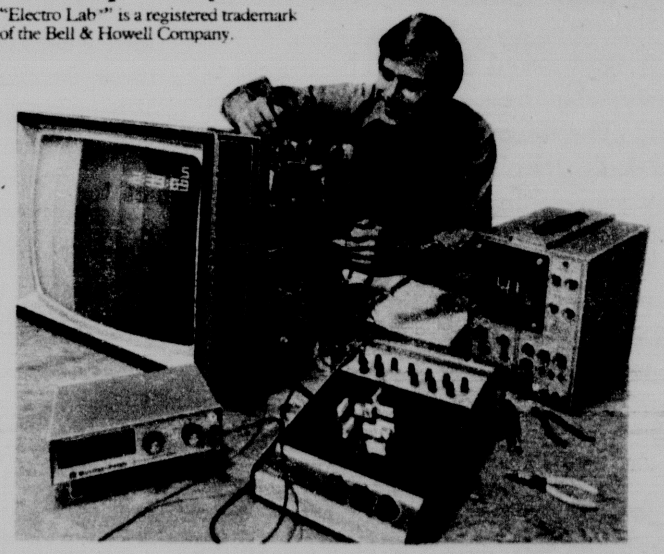
Imagine spending your spare time actually building a 25-inch diagonal color TV! It's a project you can work on right in your home. You'll enjoy the challenge...exploring the new systems of digital circuitry and performing experiments to test what you learn.

There's no travelling to classes, no lectures to attend, and you don't have to give up your job or paycheck just because you want to get ahead. When you finish this Bell & Howell Schools program you'll have learned new skills that could put you ahead of the field in electronic know-how!

You need no prior electronics background!

We start you off with the basics. You'll receive a special Lab Starter Kit with your first lesson so that you can get immediate "hands on" experience to help you better understand newly-learned electronics principles. Later, you'll use your new knowledge and learn occupational skills as you build the color TV. You can take advantage of our toll-free phone-in assistance service throughout the program and also our in-person "help sessions" held in 50 cities at various times throughout the year where you can "talk shop" with your instructors and fellow students.

"Electro Lab" is a registered trademark of the Bell & Howell Company.



Pick up occupational skills in electronics that could lead you in exciting new directions!

Once you complete this learn-at-home program from Bell & Howell Schools, you'll have the specialized skills to service color TV's plus the knowledge that you can apply to repair a variety of home electronics equipment. No better or more practical at-home training in electronics is available anywhere!

These skills could open up new opportunities for you. Of course, no assurance of income opportunities can be offered. Get the complete story on this exciting, learn-at-home program...the world's first color TV course employing digital electronics technology!

Mail card today for more details!

"Feminine Itching Was Making My Life Miserable."

"I was constantly worried about my itching problem. I tried so many things, and nothing really helped. Feminine itching was making my life miserable. Then I saw an ad in the newspaper for Vagisil, a new way to help stop feminine itching. I tried it and it really worked."
Mrs. S. T., Richmond, Virginia

If you suffer from external vaginal itching, there is now a creme medication specifically formulated to bring fast, temporary relief. Called Vagisil,™ it's available without a prescription.

Doctor-tested Vagisil is a soft, easy-to-apply medication that helps stop external vaginal itching almost instantly. Yet Vagisil is gentle enough for tender, irritated membranes. Vagisil leaves a cooling, protective, lubricating film to help check bacteria, soothe irritated membranes, and so speed natural healing.

Get Vagisil at all drug counters. Delicately scented. Greaseless. For trial tube, send 25¢ to Vagisil, Box 328 YW White Plains, New York 10604 Vagisil

Does Your Antacid Upset Your Low-Salt Diet?

The leading antacid roll tablet may be giving you more than half your daily sodium allowance. Here's what to do!

If you're worried about salt in your diet—a case of heartburn or acid indigestion can present a real problem.

You should know that just five tablets of the leading roll antacid taken during the day would exceed more than half the allowance of sodium many doctors recommend for strict low-salt diets.

That's playing it pretty close.

And that's why you ought to know about Bisodol® Tablets. Bisodol absorbs more excess acid than the leading roll brand —yet contains far less sodium.

And though Bisodol Tablets quickly relieve that miserable heartburn and acid indigestion, it's good to know you can take them whenever you need them—without worrying about sodium.

Pick up some Bisodol Tablets today. Remember—Bisodol Tablets are low in sodium... high in acid-absorbing power.

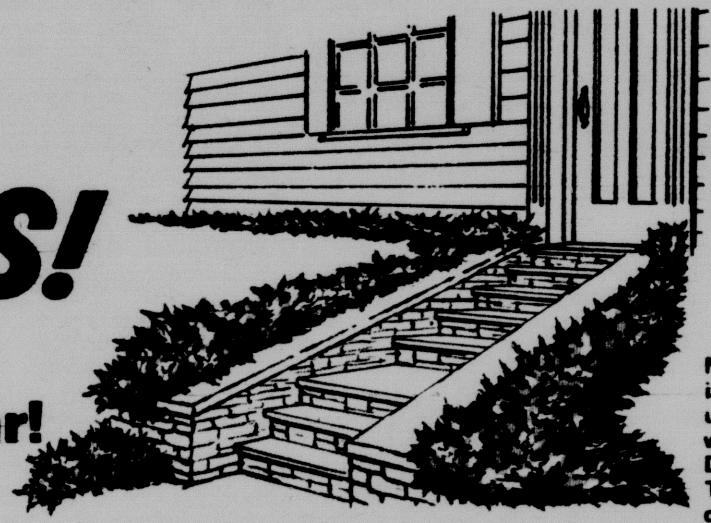
(20 for $ 9.98)
(30 for $14.49)

You'll be amazed at the rapid growth of these versatile Russian Olives (Elaegnus augustifolia). And their unusual silver-grey color will make them welcome in any landscape. Because they are fast-growing, lovely all season, and very hardy, Russian Olives make perfect hedging or screen planting . . . can be clipped or left to grow to 15-20 ft. You'll especially enjoy the fragrant yellow-white blossoms each May. Russian Olive will grow in poor soil, remaining full and lovely through all kinds of weather. Thrives in full sun or partial shade. Plant these 1½ to 3 ft. nursery grown plants 6-8 ft. apart for full screening.

Sensational GROUND COVERS!

Easy-To-Plant, Easy-To-Grow... Become More Beautiful Every Year!



GROWS DURING WINTER! THIS THICK BLUE-GREEN SPREADING EVERGREEN

Spreads like mad to cover bare areas, steep banks and other tough spots!

SPREADING EVERGREEN

$2.00 each (3 for $ 4.00) (6 for $ 7.00) (12 for $13.00)

Now, with this Evergreen Carpet (Juniperus horizontalis procumben), see one plant grow over ugly bare spots, even in poor soil, to cover 4 to 6' with a lovely, thick carpet of green that lasts 365 DAYS OF THE YEAR. NEVER GETS MORE THAN 5 TO 10" TALL! Instead, this hardy, drought-resistant plant uses its energy to grow horizontally. Does just fine in well-drained areas — even where sand and rocks prevail, in sun or partial shade! BEAUTIFUL WAY TO COVER "EYESORES." And it stays fresh and green year 'round, without getting that dull "winter look." Start it on trouble spots now. Plant about 4' apart — six plants will cover 24 to 36'. You get hardy plants already 6" to 10".

MASSES OF COLOR EARLY IN THE SPRING!

CREEPING PHLOX

REG. 3 FOR $1.00

Now only 6 for $1.00 (12 for $1.85) (18 for $3.50) (24 for $5.00)

Can you imagine a sight more lovely than dwarf masses of glowing color appearing in early spring? Creeping Phlox makes a sight this lovely. Perfectly rounded balls of color growing only 4 inches tall. And Creeping Phlox have three wonderful advantages. First, they stay green the year round. Secondly, they are masses of color in the early spring when few other things are in bloom. Third, they are wonderful for ground covers and borders. Grow in part shade or full sun. Rich color assortment of our choice: Rosy red, steel blue, pure white, pearl pink. You receive strong northern grown field divisions. Order today and take advantage of our 1/2 price sale.

•STAYS GREEN ALL YEAR • BLUE FLOWERS IN SPRING • NEEDS NO SPECIAL CARE

PERIWINKLE

10 for $1.00 (25 for $ 1.98) (50 for $ 2.98) (100 for $ 4.98)

Now, for shady areas beneath shrubs and in other dim places, even where grass won't grow, you can have a 12-month carpet of thick abundant, evergreen Periwinkle (Vinca minor). And every spring in May, shade-happy Periwinkle gives you a wide profusion of beautiful lavender-blue flowers that make the dullest part of the yard look like a showcase! And, it grows so vigorously, you can put Periwinkle in poor, stony soil, on steep banks, in rock gardens — practically anywhere. Does better in shade than grass — but likes sun, too. Spreads: one plant grows to fill two square feet, (for quicker, denser effect plant one foot apart): gets 4-6" tall — all without special care. You get healthy, nicely rooted plants ready for easy transplanting.

What in the World!

BARRY NEWMAN
An attention-getter

How Barry Newman, star of NBC's "Petrocelli," got the scar over his left eye: "I could make up some romantic yarn—that I got it in a duel over a fair maiden—but I was raised to be truthful and honest, so here goes. . . . When I was five, I came out of kindergarten and tripped over a tricycle that some stupid kid left on the edge of the pavement. I fell flat on my face in the gutter, right smack on a glass bottle. My 12-year-old brother picked me up and rushed me straight to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. By the time the doctor saw me (two hours later), the deep gash had become infected and there was a 50-50 chance I'd lose that eye. The wound needed treatment for six months afterward. My mother was told I could undergo plastic surgery when I was 12. When the time came, and I heard of how it was to be done (grafting skin from my behind), I said, 'No way.' I still have periodic headaches with pains over that eye. Doctors can't explain it, but I'm sure it's because of the accident. On the other hand, it's an attention-getter; everyone is fascinated by it and wants to know what happened."

EMMA'S OWN DOLL
Made in her image

While other people are busy with their cameras and home-movie projectors, documenting their children's youth for posterity, Mrs. Sheila Bielby, a British woman, came up with a novel approach for capturing her daughter's youth. A friend sculpted a likeness of Mrs. Bielby's daughter Emma, seven, and Mrs. Bielby attached the head to a 24-inch doll's body made of kapok. The likeness was good enough to move Mrs. Bielby to sell "Emma" dolls commercially. But now she is beginning to get requests from people who want replicas of their own children or grandchildren. "Obviously," says Mrs. Bielby, "one-of-a-kind dolls are going to be much more expensive than a mass-produced Emma"—with her blonde hair and blue eyes. Essentially, it's the same idea as having your child's portrait painted or head sculpted. The difference is that you don't have to hang the piece of art on the wall or place it on a pedestal. The doll could be handed down from generation to generation. And one day a little girl could play with a doll that looked just like her grandmother when she was a little girl.

Jukebox bonanza: "Last year the rage was rolltop desks; this year it's antique jukeboxes," says Merv Bendewald, whose antique store in New York's Greenwich Village is probably the largest retailer of such machines on the East Coast. Those big, ornate and colorful Wurlitzers from the 1930's, '40's and early '50's that once sold for $500 can now bring as much as $2,400. The primary reason is the nostalgia craze. Mr. Bendewald explains: "Nostalgia has redefined the word 'antique.' Something used to have to be at least 100 years old to be called an antique; in today's world, if there's a market for it and it's no longer made, you can call it an antique." Wurlitzer has stopped production of jukeboxes, so "antiquity" is almost guaranteed.

A Beautiful Tree All Through the Year

"PAPER WHITE"

WHITE BIRCH

Reg. $1.50 ea.

(3 for $2.50)
(6 for $4.50)

The glistening paper-white Birch (B. papyrifera) is one of the most lovely ornamental trees, with its beauty present the year around. In early spring, the bright green leaves, lightly covering the whole tree; in summer, the leaves turn a beautiful emerald green; and in the fall, the whole tree turns into a gorgeous gold spectacle. But best of all, in the winter when other trees are drab and gray, the White Birch is at its very best — its graceful trunk and slender branches are a lovely, glistening White that will brighten your yard. And White Birches are hardy, fast growing and require little care. For the White Birch to be at its loveliest, we suggest planting in clumps of three. You'll receive healthy hand-selected, 2 to 4 foot nicely branched nursery grown trees. So order now!

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

GRAY MATTER

How horrible that first gray hair,
That sign of age and toil and care.
I well remember when, a peerer,
I saw mine in my bathroom mirror.
That silver thread among the gold
(Or darkish brown) made me feel old,
Made me, all suddenly downhearted,
Believe my senile course had started.
And so, a scorner of old geezers,
I plucked it out with tiny tweezers....
But now I wish, a balding hack,
I had those hairs I plucked all back.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL

This "Constitutional" medallion commemorates the second centennial of a country dedicated to freedom and liberty for all. It honors the original Constitution of the United States of America.

On the face of this beautiful Constitutional Medallion the 50 stars are in a nearly solid ring denoting unity. The marching men are symbolic of the freedom we all love, truly the "Spirit of 76". The back of the Constitutional shows symbolic flags of the United States of America and the individual state flag coming together and remaining united for two hundred years. This fine copywrited medallion of pure silver, will give you not only a feeling of pride in your country, but also a certain feeling of wealth. Why not order yours today.

Special Notice. Bi-Centennial clubs, lodges, or fund-raising organizations, be sure to ask for our fund-raising plan and discounts.

Loads of iridescent flowers on hardy, graceful vines!

$2.49 each (2 for $4.75)
(3 for $6.95)

These giant, prized Clematis — with blooms up to 5" across — blooms that start in late June and refuse to quit until early September — blooms and glorious foliage that will quickly vine over, up and around arbors, tree stumps, even troublesome utility posts — will become your best friend this summer. These are so spectacularly colorful and profuse they simply are a must to turn a hum-drum area into a showcase of exciting color. Clematis will amaze you with its rapid growth and mass production of flowers. Hundreds of shimmering flowers from each vine . . . plenty of long lasting cut flowers, too! Choice, hardy plants delivered in pots. These sturdy varieties are greenhouse grown and are nicely started in 2¼" pots. Easy to grow. Just give them a place to vine where they will be exposed to plenty of sun. Their roots should be cool — a few annuals will shade them just fine! Order today and receive your choice of these popular colors — gleaming pink, bright red, brilliant deep violet purple.

IT'S HERE! FROM BELL & HOWELL SCHOOLS!

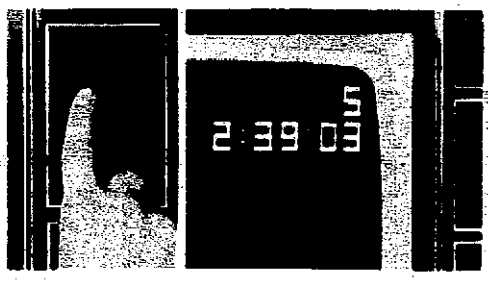
A fascinating learn-at-home program that includes this new generation color TV with digital features... you build it yourself!

You learn occupational skills in electronics through experiments and testing as you build a color television that's ahead of its time!

You've seen TV's that swivel, TV's with radios built in. TV's small enough to stuff in a suitcase and TV's that have remote control.

But now comes a color television with features you've probably never seen before. Features now possible as a result of the new applications of digital electronics... features that make Bell & Howell's 25-inch diagonal color TV ahead of its time! You learn about:

Channel numbers that flash big and clear right on the screen. An on-screen digital clock that flashes the time in hours, minutes and seconds with just the push of a button. An automatic channel selector that you pre-set to skip over "dead" channels and go directly to the channels of your choice.

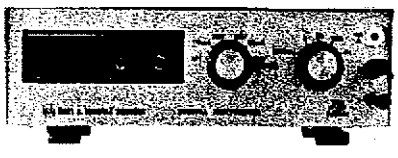


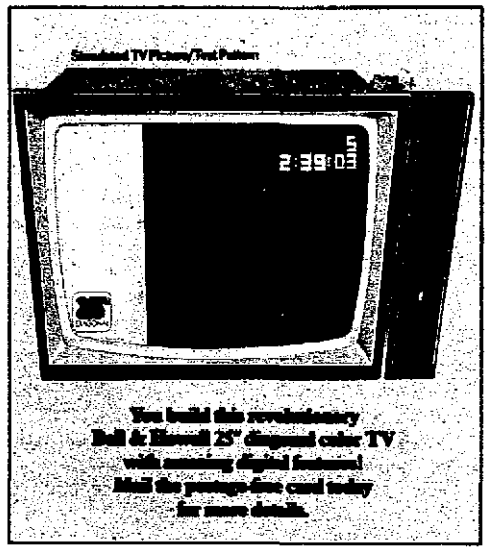
And to insure highest quality performance, this TV has silent, all-electronic tuning, "state-of-the-art" integrated circuitry, Black Matrix picture tube for a brighter, sharper picture and 100% solid-state chassis for longer life and dependability.

Perform fascinating experiments with the exclusive Electro-Lab® electronics training system. It's yours to build.

Designed exclusively for our students, this Bell & Howell Electro-Lab® training system gives you up-to-date "tools of the trade," including instruments you can use professionally after you finish the program.

A digital multimeter that measures voltage, current and resistance, and displays its findings in big, clear numbers. Far more readable than conventional "needle pointer" meters that require guesswork and interpretation.





You build this revolutionary Bell & Howell 25" diagonal color TV with stunning digital features! Mail the postage-free card today for more details.

The solid-state "triggered sweep" oscilloscope is a "must" for accurate analysis of digital circuitry. Includes DC wide-band vertical amplifier and "triggered sweep" feature to lock in signals for easier observation.

The design console is a valuable device for setting up and examining circuits without soldering! Features patented modular connectors, AC power supply and transistorized dual range DC power supply.

Build it yourself... the perfect way to discover the exciting field of digital electronics!

It's part of a complete learn-at-home program!

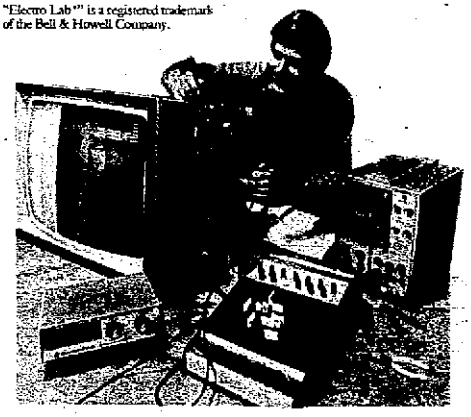
Imagine spending your spare time actually building a 25-inch diagonal color TV! It's a project you can work on right in your home. You'll enjoy the challenge...exploring the new systems of digital circuitry and performing experiments to test what you learn.

There's no travelling to classes, no lectures to attend, and you don't have to give up your job or paycheck just because you want to get ahead. When you finish this Bell & Howell Schools program you'll have learned new skills that could put you ahead of the field in electronic know-how!

You need no prior electronics background!

We start you off with the basics. You'll receive a special Lab Starter Kit with your first lesson so that you can get immediate "hands on" experience to help you better understand newly-learned electronics principles. Later, you'll use your new knowledge and learn occupational skills as you build the color TV. You can take advantage of our toll-free phone-in assistance service throughout the program and also our in-person "help sessions" held in 50 cities at various times throughout the year where you can "talk shop" with your instructors and fellow students.

"Electro Lab"® is a registered trademark of the Bell & Howell Company.



Pick up occupational skills in electronics that could lead you in exciting new directions!

Once you complete this learn-at-home program from Bell & Howell Schools, you'll have the specialized skills to service color TV's plus the knowledge that you can apply to repair a variety of home electronics equipment. No better or more practical at-home training in electronics is available anywhere!

These skills could open up new opportunities for you. Of course, no assurance of income opportunities can be offered. Get the complete story on this exciting, learn-at-home program...the world's first color TV course employing digital electronics technology!

(200 for $10.95)

The last time you picked strawberries – or bought them – how many did it take to make a quart? Eighty? One hundred? More? Regular strawberries are so small – most people lose count! But with this hardy variety, you can expect quarts FROM JUST 30 STRAWBERRIES! And these extra-sweet berries (Giant Robinson) are highly disease resistant, they ripen very fast, plus they produce lots of new runners to give you a bigger patch every year! Have wonderful big strawberries for jams, freezer, fresh desserts for months! Sorry, not shipped to Arizona.

CAUTION! The most frequently noted "complaint" on these marvelous berries is that most people just didn't think to order enough! Honestly, you will want at least 50 of these plants to start – even for smaller patches.

Rock gardens, borders, edging, under shady trees, and steep banks will be alive with carefree color when you plant this Creeping Red Sedum. Just place these hardy, northern nursery grown plants about one foot apart and watch them take over! Fill troublesome areas with a neat 3-4" tall cover that spreads fast, yet doesn't need pruning. Depend on it for wine red, star-like flowers from June through September – attractive, thick, semi-evergreen foliage the rest of the year, even in sub-zero weather! Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it – does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds. You will receive hardy northern nursery grown plants carefully packaged to arrive in prime condition. An outstanding buy at less than 20¢ per plant in lots of two dozen!

PERIWINKLE

10 for $1.00 (25 for $ 1.98) (50 for $ 2.98) (100 for $ 4.98)

Now, for shady areas beneath shrubs and in other dim places, even where grass won't grow, you can have a 12-month carpet of thick abundant, evergreen Periwinkle (Vinca minor). And every spring in May, shade-happy Periwinkle gives you a wide profusion of beautiful lavender-blue flowers that make the dullest part of the yard look like a showcase! And, it grows so vigorously, you can put Periwinkle in poor, stony soil, on steep banks, in rock gardens — practically anywhere. Does better in shade than grass — but likes sun, too. Spreads: one plant grows to fill two square feet, (for quicker, denser effect plant one foot apart): gets 4-6" tall — all without special care. You get healthy, nicely rooted plants ready for easy transplanting.

(50 for $ 3.75)
(100 for $ 5.95)
(200 for $10.95)

The last time you picked strawberries – or bought them — how many did it take to make a quart? Eighty? One hundred? More? Regular strawberries are so small — most people lose count! But with this hardy variety, you can expect quarts FROM JUST 30 STRAWBERRIES! And these extra-sweet berries (Giant Robinson) are highly disease resistant, they ripen very fast, plus they produce lots of new runners to give you a bigger patch every year! Have wonderful big strawberries for jams, freezer, fresh desserts for months! Sorry, not shipped to Arizona.

CAUTION! The most frequently noted "complaint" on these marvelous berries is that most people just didn't think to order enough! Honestly, you will want at least 50 of these plants to start — even for smaller patches.

- ★ Thrives in Sun or Partial Shade
- ★ No Special Care Needed
- ★ Extremely Hardy
- ★ Brilliant Color
- ★ Rich, long-lasting Foliage
- ★ Neat, uniform Growth
- ★ Quick but disciplined Spreading
- ★ Guaranteed
- ★ Inexpensive

Rock gardens, borders, edging, under shady trees, and steep banks will be alive with carefree color when you plant this Creeping Red Sedum. Just place these hardy, northern nursery grown plants about one foot apart and watch them take over! Fill troublesome areas with a neat 3-4" tall cover that spreads fast, yet doesn't need pruning. Depend on it for wine red, star-like flowers from June through September — attractive, thick, semi-evergreen foliage the rest of the year, even in sub-zero weather! Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it — does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds. You will receive hardy northern nursery grown plants carefully packaged to arrive in prime condition. An outstanding buy at less than 20¢ per plant in lots of two dozen!
